

DIVORCE AND RELATIONSHIPS WORKSHOP SET

When mothers and fathers divorce, and children are caught in the middle, how can families adjust, cope and move on? The process involves renegotiating family relationships and sometimes therapy for the family members involved. Dr. Robert Emery, professor of psychology and director of clinical psychology training at the University of Virginia, will explore those issues in a one-day workshop titled "Marriage, Divorce and Children's Adjustment" at TWU on Fri., Feb. 11.

The program is sponsored by the Federation of North Texas Area Universities psychology program and is presented by the TWU office of continuing education. The federation comprises graduate programs, students and faculty at TWU, Texas A&M University-Commerce and the University of North Texas.

The program will be held from 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on ACT 3. Federation member students and faculty may attend free; registration fees for non-members is $65 until Jan. 31; $75 after that date; or $80 on site. CEU certification is $10 extra. For registration, call the TWU office of continuing education at 8-1-3408. The workshop has been approved for six CLE units by the Texas State Bar Association and for six clock hours and .6 CEUs by TWU. The continuing education units will be accepted by the Texas State Board of Examiners of Professional Counselors, the National Association of Social Workers/Texas for social work certification and the Texas State Board of Examiners of Marriage and Family Therapists.

The primary audience for this workshop includes psychologists, marriage and family therapists, social workers, family law attorneys and mediators, child care workers and others in helping professions. Topics will include the latest research on children and divorce; divorce and renegotiating family relationships; issues and developments in divorce and custody law, including new model guidelines adopted by the American Law Institute; and basic issues in divorce and custody mediation.

Emery, who also serves as director of the university's Center for Children, Families and the Law, is an associate faculty member with the Institute of Law, Psychiatry and Public Policy. He serves on the editorial boards of several professional journals and has been a member of the social sciences and population grant review study section for the National Institutes of Health. His research focuses on family relationships and children's mental health, including parental conflict, divorce, child custody, family violence and associated legal and policy issues.

The featured speaker has written more than 80 scientific articles and book chapters, plus three award-winning books: Marriage, Divorce and Children's Adjustment; Renegotiating Family Relationships: Divorce, Child Custody and Mediation; and Abnormal Psychology (with Thomas Oltmanns). He is a practicing clinical psychologist and divorce mediator as well.

For more information, call 8-1-3408.

ZEPHYR WINDS PERFORMS WITH SPECIAL GUESTS

By her own admission, Dr. Sondra Ferstl (research and grants) hasn't read a note of music since she was in grade school. So why is she listed among the performers for TWU's upcoming Zephyr Winds concert?

"I'm the narrator!" said Ferstl, who holds a doctorate in French literature. During the concert, she will recite the verses -- by French poet Pierre Louis -- that accompany Claude DeBussy's Chansons de Bilitis. The work, which also features two flutes, two harps and celeste, is among five compositions the Zephyr Winds and Friends will perform on Mon., Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. in Margo Jones Performance Hall. Admission is $5 per person; call 8-1-2500 for details.

Ferstl said her performance may very well turn some heads. "Most people here know me for my role as an administrator, not for my ability to speak French," she explained.

While that may be true, most people at TWU do know the performing arts faculty who comprise Zephyr Winds: flutist Dr. Pamela Youngblood, bassoonist Dr. Richard Rodean and clarinetist Dr. John Wheeler. The group is a resident woodwind faculty trio who are dedicated to the discovery and performance of chamber music for woodwinds.

Youngblood said that Ferstl isn't the only special guest who will perform with the group during their upcoming concert. "We will be joined by harpists Cynthia Schockley and Ingrid Sevy, flutist Tam Miller and TWU music professors Lanelle Blanton -- who will perform soprano -- and Dr. Tom Brown on organ," she said.

In addition to the DeBussy work, the concert will feature Jolivet's Pastorales de Noel for flute, bassoon and harp; George Crumb's Federico's Little Songs for Children for soprano, harp, and one flutist playing piccolo, flute, alto flute and bass flute; Marcel Grandjany's Aria in Classic Style for harp and organ; and Three Pieces for Three Woodwinds by Robert Washburn.

LAST CHANCE FOR CARD ANNOUNCED

TWU is implementing a purchasing card program authorized by the State of Texas General Services Commission through a contract with Bank of America. This program is designed to delegate the authority and capability to purchase low-value items directly to the account manager in a given office or department. Use of the purchasing card will reduce significantly the requirements to obtain purchase order numbers, process invoices for payments and prepare large numbers of vouchers/payment documents, according to Dr. Brenda Floyd (finance and administration).

To receive a Bank of America MasterCard for these types of purchases, individuals must attend a mandatory purchasing card orientation. Only one such program will be conducted until the fall 2000 semester: on Thurs., Jan. 27, on ACT 3 from 11 a.m. to noon. "You are strongly advised to register for this orientation if you want to apply for the purchasing card," said Floyd.

To register, call Cathy Turnipseed (finance and administration) at 8-1-3511.
