TWU DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC PRESENTS AN OPERA CABARET

An evening of "Classic Hoopla!" is in store Tuesday, Nov. 26, as the TWU Department of Music presents an Opera Cabaret in the Margo Jones Performance Hall. The production begins at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

William Guthrie, adjunct professor of music at TWU, said the workshop production is an opportunity for soloists as well as ensembles to experience what it takes to prepare for a performance. The "work in progress" will feature songs, arias and ensembles from opera and from Broadway. "It's above and beyond what you think of as opera," he said.

For more information, call 8-1-2500.

DANCEMAKERS, continued

The performance, a presentation of works created by graduate and undergraduate students, offers a glimpse into the creative diversity and athleticism of a new generation of choreographers and performers. Mary Williford-Shade and Sarah Gamblin will direct the presentation.

The DanceMakers Informal Concert — the final dance event of the fall semester at TWU — is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7, in Pioneer Hall Studio 328. The event features works created by graduate and undergraduate students for class assignments and independent projects. Admission is free.

For more information on either program, call 8-1-2085.
