

A century has passed since the day of the big cattle drives and the lonely cowboy who crossed the frontier in a saddle. The horses and tumbleweed prairies have turned into fast cars and sleepless cities. Places that once were depots on the trail to the west have covered their heritage with skyscrapers and progress, but the legends and myths of Texas live on in the world's mind.

"I expected everyone to be the long tall Texan. Boots, cowboy hat, and unusually tall. And rich people everywhere with their own field of oil wells." Lise Winterroth, Normal, Illinois.

"I came to Texas once on a tennis team trip. We were driving along when one of the girls sat up and said, 'Look, a real cow.' We have cows in Florida, but I guess that's what everyone thinks Texas is." Susan Jackson, Orlando, Florida.

"Everyone said Texans were super friendly and talked funny." Janine Brunjes, Lebanon, Illinois.

"It was supposed to be all ranches and desert with big cactus; people rode horses instead of driving, and there weren't any cities just hot, dry, little towns." Jane Manley, Coventry, Connecticut.

TEXAS TALK

A TRIBUTE TO

A TRIBUTE TO

For as long as there has been a Lone Star State, there has been the "cowboy, and everything's bigger in Texas" stories. People who have never crossed the state line talk about Texas as if it were a scenario from a Hollywood western. In reality, most Texans have never seen an authentic ranch although the cattle industry occupies more acreage than any other business, and the only cowboy they've ever met was the drugstore variety with his pressed jeans, polished boots, and new felt hat. As far as size goes, people, buildings and everything else are the same as they are in New York or California. Everything else? Well, almost everything.

The San Jacinto monument, commemorating one of the key battles in Texas' bloody struggle for independence from Mexico is the tallest stone monument in the world. It towers 570 feet and 4 inches over Houston, the sixth largest city in the United States. To get from the city of Port Arthur to the city of Orange, you will have to drive 230 feet in the air on the tallest highway bridge in the south, but if you would rather take a plane, there will always be room to land at the largest airport in the world, Dallas/Fort Worth International. Perhaps in the year 2000, you will pick up your passenger moonshuttle tickets at the Space Administration headquarters, Houston's Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center.

Of course, you could always avoid the hurried pace of such prominent places, and take a quiet vacation on Texas' 267,399 square miles. Take your pick: sunbathing on the sandy shores of Padre Island, climbing the mountains of Big Bend National Park, fishing on lakes in East Texas' woodlands, or riding the dunes of the panhandle's windy desert. Texans will be happy to show you their contrasting homeland, but it will take more than a day or two. You can travel 801 miles from north to south or 733 miles from east to west without setting foot outside of the Lone Star State.

Don't set your sights for the glamour of mid-street shootouts and bawdy saloons. Today's ranchers are members of a multi-million dollar industry, and the only glitter you are likely to see is the perspiration of hard work glistening in the hot Texas sun. Not even the range riders on the 1,160,000 acre King Ranch, the largest in the world, will be dressed in cowboy regalia. Descended from the original cowboys who first worked the King Ranch in 1853, the present employees wear overalls or khakis, and their horses have been traded for jeeps, bulldozers, and helicopters. If cowboys in western attire are what you insist on, drop in on the livestock marketing center of the west, Fort Worth, better known as "Cowtown USA." Changed into their city wear of boots, hats, and western style suits, ranchers from all over the west attend the annual Fort Worth Fat Stock Show and World Champion Indoor Rodeo.

Rodeos, skyscrapers, oil wells, and huge metropolitan areas are all a part of our Texas. From the crowded streets of Dallas or the open deserts of Midland, the students of Texas Woman's University, the largest female university in the nation, were raised with the future. If you still picture the Lone Star State behind the times, remember this. Atop the Continental Bank Building in Fort Worth sits a clock with numerals 25 feet high and 9 feet wide. By the way, it is the largest timepiece in the world.

Orientation is over, mom and dad have gone, and the unpacking is nearly done. In the various dorms on campus, a new group of freshmen face their first night as TWU students. It is a frightening first venture from home for many and an exciting new chapter of life for others, but for most it is the lonely anticipation of being a stranger at a bustling university.

The dilemma of what to do with the first evening of Tessie life is solved by the annual watermelon picnic. Serene Lowry Woods becomes a sunset playground with watermelon to devour, trampolines to bounce haphazardly on, and hundreds of new people to get to know. It is a simple evening of simple fun and TWU's way of extending a hearty welcome.

UNIVERSITY REVIEW

On one end of the campus anxious sophomores, juniors, and seniors are feeling the first twinges of stage fright. On the other end, freshmen begin to assemble in the early September night. This same ritual has occurred every year for many generations on the TWU campus on the night set aside for University Review.

The imagination, hard work, and talent of many students goes into preparing this unique indoctrination of newcomers to TWU life. The freshmen begin their formal entrance to campus life walking hand in hand with upperclassmen toward the Main Auditorium in a traditional trek known as Lantern Parade. Carrying a candle-lit lantern between each pair, the short journey symbolizes the passing of knowledge and a sense of history from the old student to the new.

Not knowing what to expect and often a little skeptical, the freshmen are soon caught up in the spirit of this school as the stage curtain draws and the cast of University Review begins to explain college life at TWU. Registration, traditions, and Hubbard Hall food — nothing on campus escapes being poked fun at, praised, and promoted. Original songs, sets, and dances are used to epitomize this new life they have entered.

The Class of 1980 leaves the Main Auditorium entertained, enlightened and fully aware of what it means to be a Tessie.

TRADITIONS

Though glass, steel, and newness invade the atmosphere of TWU, there is a subtle yet strong cord of emotion that binds the student of today to her foremothers, tradition.

History and ties to the past often seem out of vogue in today's world, but at Texas Woman's University the activities of days gone by are kept alive and passed down yearly in a program appropriately entitled, Traditions Assembly.

Words such as fish, copter, and stunts hold totally different meanings for freshmen and the outside world, until the juniors, through the mediums of song and dance, place them in the context of their seventy-five-year past. The score of cast members explains the various activities and ideas that have existed on this campus for many years, and their emotion and spirit unfold the true definition of the activities to come.

It takes the new members of the TWU student body much longer to truly grasp the meanings of the many traditions, but in this short program, the juniors offer them a beginning. A beginning that symbolizes the placing of a new link on the TWU chain of history.

For the twenty-fifth year, the archery range in Lowry Woods underwent its annual transfiguration. Fences were raised, booths built, and the grounds readied for the early October event of Gold Rush. Years ago, the late Dr. John A. Guinn envisioned a means whereby TWU students could supply scholarships and services for fellow students, and out of his dreams grew this mini-carnival.

This year it was much the same as in the past. Backed by donations from local businessmen, students sold cokes, dressed as clowns and operated kiddie rides for two nights. School-age children from throughout Denton County poured through the gates in record breaking numbers to take their turn at the myriad of games and rides.

Thursday as the lights went down on the 1976 Gold Rush Carnival, the many student workers left with the feeling of satisfaction of a job well done and an unprecedented intake of over six thousand dollars.

GOLD RUSH

The October sun beat down on Lowry Woods as groups of students hurried about the archery field. In less than an hour, the crowds would begin to fill the grounds, and the Gold Rush workers had to be ready.

Clowns with cherry noses came from Alpha Lambda Delta, SGA members hesitantly waited at the sponge toss booth for their inevitable wet face, and representatives of various organizations manned the multitudes of booths.

It is hard work to keep the two day carnival running smoothly, and the charitable nature of Gold Rush means no pay for the long hours. But compensation comes to the harried workers in the scholarship money earned and in the children's smiles.

THE PATRONS

GOLD RUSH

Quarters jangling in their pockets, children of all ages came prepared for an evening of country fair fun. Disappointment was not on the agenda, and the 1976 Gold Rush patrons found the carnival even more delightful than last year.

Expansion of Gold Rush included the addition of several new games and those attending the carnival was the moonwalk, a huge, billowy air mattress nearly impossible to stay afoot on.

Many people left those two nights minus their jangling quarters, but the cotton candy grins and the exhausted smiles were proof that they got what they paid for.

Among the thousands who passed through the Gold Rush entrance, there was one small, well-dressed, and stately woman. It might have seemed strange to some to see this mature lady lossing a basketball, panning for gold nuggets, or standing behind bars in the Gold Rush jail, but to Dr. Mary Evelyn B. Huey and those who know her, it was an act of support. As the new president of TWU, Dr. Huey showed her interest and enthusiasm for the efforts of the student body by not only attending Gold Rush, but by becoming a part of the activity and fun of the carnival itself.

In 1905, TWU was a young institution of age four, but out of those tender years came the seeds of a group of organizations indigenous to this school. Although they have grown and waned over the years, the literary-social clubs have continued to be an active part of Texas Woman's University, setting as their primary through rush activities and parties. Once a year in October when the campus is colored in Indian Summer hues, an unusual air falls over TWU. Students abandon their chic 70's manners and fashions and take on a flavor of yesteryear. The gym changes into a rustic Texas barn, and students masquerade as pioneers and farmers for TWU's hoedown, Corn Huskin'.

What was once hard work is transformed into a night of fun by the Women's Recreation Association. Girls in overalls, ruffled skirts, and bonnets all try their hand at log sawing, peanut shelling, and husking ears of corn. For the prim and proper, there are other events on the bill of fare. Old-fashioned dances and an amateur song contest lend an air of authenticity to the country evening.

When the fun draws to a close, fingernails and hands are dirty, and more than one hairstyle is in a state of disarray. But the weary masqueraders grudgingly end a memorable evening. ### THANKSGIVING ASSEMBLY

Football games and parades, turkey and dressing, and four days away from exams become tempting dreams of things to come as Thanksgiving rolled around. In the commercialism and modern pace of today, it seems that the original meaning of Thanksgiving is seldom remembered. But for the twentieth year, TWU presented a celebration of harvest time and worship to bring a flavor of the religious pilgrimage to students and faculty.

Combining their efforts, the Departments of Dance and Music, the Student Council of Religious activities, the Spirit of Agape, and the University Chorus presented the annual Thanksgiving Assembly on November 18. It was a mixture of the professional and the personal, with choreographed dances, selected scripture readings, and songs of joy and thanks. For half an hour, there was the chance to scrape away the seemingly plastic appearance of today's holidays and return to a feeling of hard-won heritage.

LEFT: Artists from the Dance Repertory Theatre interpreted the season of harvest. BELOW: Songs of thanksgiving and faith by the Spirit of Agape set the holiday mood.

LAND of THE FREE

George Washington, Louis Pasteur, Babe Ruth. History has made these names immortal, but how many students in their educational experience have heard the stories behind the names Molly Pitcher, Elizabeth Blackwell, Gertrude Ederle, or Babe Zaharias.

The stories of these sportswomen, physicians, and heroines gave a new look to the traditionally patriotic production, "Land of the Free." The Diamond Jubilee edition of this biannual show, presented by the seniors, honored outstanding women of history and educated the senior students of Texas Woman's University in the heritage of their foremothers.

Through the medium of song, dance, and stage, the audience was given a glimpse of famous women in sports, medicine, government, women's rights, and patriotism. Who are Molly Pitcher, Elizabeth Blackwell, Gertrude Ederle, and Babe Zaharias? You can find them in obscure reference books hidden on the back shelf of a library, or you can ask anyone who saw "Land of the Free."

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

The miles that separate TWU from home seem to grow with the diminishing countdown of days until Christmas. Loneliness is rampant since nights that in past years were lit by twinkling tree lights are now spent studying beneath the glare of a dorm room lamp.

But students on a shoestring budget use ingenious methods to bring the season spirit to the residence halls of TWU. Trips to surrounding woodlands equipped with a borrowed hatchet supply many rooms with trees to be hung with candy canes and popcorn strings.

Christmas bells of spray can snow toll the greetings from doors and windows. Even belief in Santa Claus attacks some optimistic students as they decorate ceilings with mistletoe in hopes that Saint Nicholas will grant their Christmas wish.

SENIOR BREAKFAST

Usually busy streets and sidewalks are empty in the early dawn, and the air awaits the noisy clatter that accompanies professors hurrying to work and students hurrying to learn. After weeks of planning and organizing, the brisk October morning had arrived, and approximately 100 sophomores and seniors made their way through the 7 a.m. twilight to Hubbard Hall and the annual Senior Breakfast.

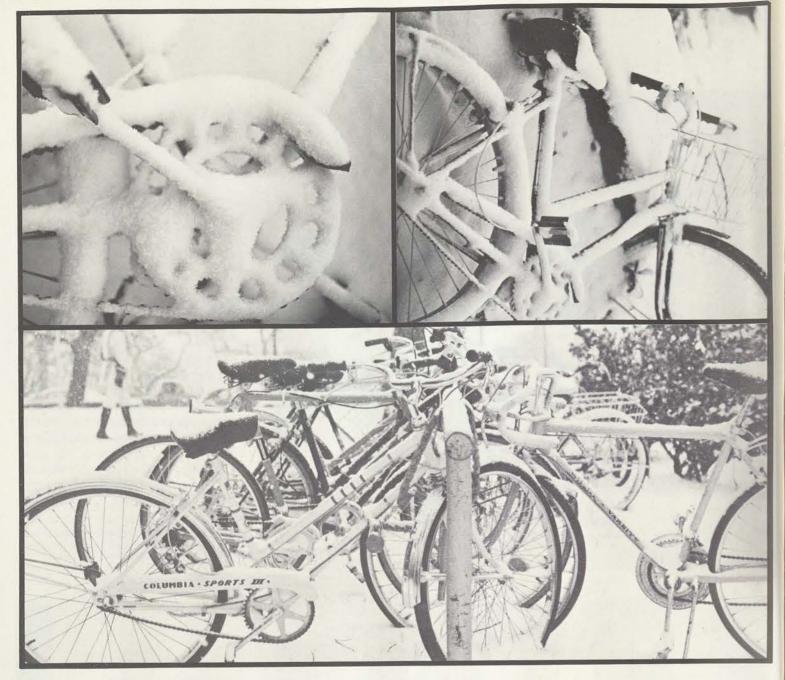

Through the masquerade of a courtroom setting, the sophomores took their Big Sisters on a trip into their TWU past. The judge and jury were assembled to hand down a verdict on the four years of the class of 1977. Awards and achievements, humorous happenings and foolish follies, memories and mishaps were recalled by Ms. Freshman, Ms. Sophomore, Ms. Junior, and Ms. Senior Years as they took the witness stand. Sentiment was stirred and fun was poked, but with laughter and tears, the Seniors of '77 applauded their nostalgic journey into yesterday.

SNOW

Cold, red-nose days and icy, electric blanket nights are typical components of a TWU winter. Occasionally the campus is visited by delicate flakes of snow that often melt before they hit the ground. Bundled up like nomad Eskimos, students, reverting to their childhood, venture out into the cold at the first hint of snow.

Many students have never seen the ground covered with a white, fluffy blanket of snow, but even for those who hail from the northern regions of the country, the first snow of the season is exciting.

This year was no different. When snow hit the campus, masses of students ran into the cold to pitch snowballs with numb fingers and slide down hills on soggy cardboard.

The novelty soon wore off, however, when the campus continued to be snowed upon at frequent intervals through December and January. The final seven-inch snow in January left students trudging through slush for days and dreaming of hot, sandy beaches.

For the fortieth time, this annual event had rolled around, and the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes had prepared themselves for the competition. All the preliminaries had been finished before Christmas. Each class had written its own twenty minute original one-act play. They had taken selected songs and revised the lyrics to fit their program's plot. Choreography had been put together to accompany the music. Designs of the sets they would build had been turned in, and talented seamstresses in the classes had begun to produce costumes for their

STUNTS

Seniors

Freshmen

Registration ended and the beginning of classes yet to come, most TWU students hurried home to relax in a quiet dorm room or out into the cold January night to while away the few remaining pre-semester hours. Watching everyone rush toward their various destinations, a group of about 100 undergrads made their way toward the Main Aud., MCL, and the Old Sub to begin the first night of Stunt rehearsals.

After the three weeks of rehearsals spent memorizing lines, practicing movements, and assembling the parts that make a play had passed, each class anxiously awaited its turn to present what hopefully would be a winning Stunt.

Finally, it was over. The preparation, long hours, and even the program were things of the past. Dr. Mary E. Huey stood on stage facing the anxious classes of 1977, 1978, 1979, and 1980 who were filling the aisle. After giving a welcome to all, she unfolded the slip of paper in her hand, leaned toward the microphone, and slowly read the numbers, 7...7.

The seniors, screaming and jumping, ran and grabbed the silver cup. The tears and smiles were more than this year's victory. Since they had won Stunts three years in succession, the cup was theirs to keep, and they would be remembered as the third class in the history of Stunts to retire the cup.

FRESHMEN

Although hardships and unpleasantries are an expected facet of Stunts, 1980 was immersed in a trying situation during the week preceding the program. After having spent a short break with the class of '78, the freshmen trudged their way back to the MCL to continue rehearsing. Rain splattered down upon them as they reached the doors, but fate was against them, and the doors were locked. To keep from melting in anger, they serenaded themselves with several choruses of "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head" while waiting for security to arrive with the keys.

Humor and conquered trials typified '80's rehearsals, and even production problems and inexperience did not prove insurmountable. After many hours of planning and revising, the class was prepared to perform their first Stunt, "Ugh."

The story took the audience back into pre-historic times. Dork, an aspiring inventor, is so consumed with creating a successful invention that he totally ignores the romantic advances of Zora. Accidentally, Zora stumbles upon the idea of the wheel. In an effort to win Dork, she elicits the help of Einstone and Caderva to help Dork think of inventing a wheel.

Talent utilized to its fullest and a devoted effort to do their best gave the freshman class of 1980 the impetus to make a memorable first appearance.

With only a few nights of rehearsals left, '79 was particularly down. Eyes were drooping, smiles were absent, and enthusiasm was slowly slipping away. Long hours of practice had placed a strain on the sophomore Stunt cast, but soon the solemn faces broke into uncontrollable laughter.

Becky Evans, Stunt coordinator for '79, calmly strolled into rehearsal garbed in thermal underwear, a t-shirt, gaudy knee socks, high top tennis shoes, and panty hose over her head neatly tied in a bow under her chin.

This and other antics were typical of the group effort and devotion that went into the making of "Andy's Dandy Fancy." Andy, a small town boy, wrote a play he hoped would become a Broadway hit that could give him the fame and fortune necessary to wed Allison. The play is rejected by the local publisher, but the campaigning mayor arranges to have the new town banker finance the play.

Like the seniors, the sophomores made Stunts history, but in a very different way. Among the cast of "Andy's Dandy Fancy" was the first male Stunts member, Ricky Leal. Not only can '79 remember 1977 as a year of work and achievement, but as one of an initial breakthrough in equality at TWU.

JUNIORS

Dancers falling, gels tumbling to the stage, and flats toppling onto cast members' heads. If it sounds like slapstick comedy or a hilarious stage review, it is neither. These are the mishaps and mayhem that plagued '78's rehearsals and performance this year.

The choice of a Russian theme presented a tall order in the way of authenticity. One of the main problems cropped up in choreography. Kicks in the air and in a squatting position left many cast members aching, and more than one dancer ended up in an unusual position. Script re-writers, dance revisions, and brainstorming conquered these pitfalls and enabled the juniors to create "Sons of Ivan" with Russian color and flair.

Since Ivan's eldest son was kidnapped as a child, his youngest son, Vladimir, is succeeding him as czar of the village. In the midst of the celebration honoring Vladimir, a Pole bursts in declaring war, because someone of Ivan's village crossed the boundary line. After sheepishly admitting his guilt, Vladimir sets out to battle the Poles alone and redeem himself. He is attacked by an enemy soldier, but a stranger saves him, and takes the Pole prisoner. When the stranger returns to the village with Vladimir, he is revealed as Ivan's eldest son.

As the beat of the finale and the colors of costumes and banners filled the Main Auditorium, thoughts of mishaps and accidents vanished, to be replaced by the joy and excitement of Stunts.

BLOOD DRIVE

For the second year, TWU students did themselves and other Texans a favor by giving the "gift of life." TWU's blood club was formed last year by the Student Government Association in conjunction with the Wadley Blood Bank of Dallas, to establish a bank of blood credits for faculty, students, and their families.

The_two day drive held in March accumulated 315 pints of blood and 315 credits for TWU. Credits for the blood can be released by the Office of Student Affairs to any hospital in the U.S. When the credit is transferred, the patient is freed from the usual charge for a pint of blood.

Although many people are afraid to give blood, it is a safe and relatively painless procedure, and the donation of those pints can mean the difference between life and death for many metroplex residents. It is a worthwhile service to the community and a much needed form of insurance.

THE CO-RESPONDENTS

WOMAN'S DAY

February 16th saw droves of students ignoring the cold and flocking to the Main Auditorium. By decree of Dr. Mary Evelyn Huey and under the auspices of the University Woman's Association, it was declared the annual Woman's Day Assembly featuring the Co-Respondents.

Maggie Savage, Pat Larson, and Sandy Nesbit returned to the TWU campus for their second appearance. Student response to the 1976 performance of "Give 'em an Inch: Women and Equality" prompted Woman's Day chairwoman, Sheri Wyles, to invite the Co-Respondents to present another of their programs, "Here She Comes: Women and Power." Although much of the publicity and visible struggle for equality has subsided, the attendance at this feminist-oriented program was above average for TWU.

"Here She Comes," similar to "Give 'em an Inch," consisted of selected readings from historical works and grass roots music. All of the literature used in the programs was compiled by the three women five years ago. Long hours were spent searching through numerous books for material that could bring to light the difficulties and strengths of women. Accompanied by Maggie on guitar, Pat and Sandy use their professional acting abilities to bring the characters of these short readings to life. Even those who find women's rights an unpleasant subject are captivated by the humorous, sad, and gripping stories of women of the past.

For over a year, the Concert Choir members have had one thing on their mind —

The Concert Choir auditioned last year by a recording for the Friendship Ambassadors, a non-profit organization in New York that sponsors performing groups in Eastern Europe. They heard the choir's tape and accepted them. The trip was sponsored jointly by the United States government, the Romanian government, and the participants themselves.

Since then, the Choir members have had various projects including art sales, concerts, and slave days.

ROMANIA

The 50-member choir performed six concerts in various places in Romania, ranging from the Conservatory of Music in Bucharest to a peasant village. During the performances, they wore corsages of red, blue and yellow, the Romanian colors.

Of greatest significance, the tour was the opportunity for the Choir to go behind the Iron Curtain to show what America has to offer by way of music.

Despite the put downs and ridicule dished out in the 60's and 70's, sororities have survived and flourished at TWU in the form of Literary-Social Clubs. Campus projects and social activities make up the majority of Aglaian, Alpha Omega and Chaparral functions, but in early April of each year, activities and projects are given a back seat for two weeks while all three clubs prepare for Sing Song.

Designed to give the clubs a chance for friendly competition, the program consists of a five-minute medley of songs by each group originally arranged and choreographed. Song selection for 1977 was limited to music from Academy Award winning movies. The Aglaians, defending champs, snatched first prize again with a romantic rendition of songs from "Oliver," "West Side Story," and "My Fair Lady."

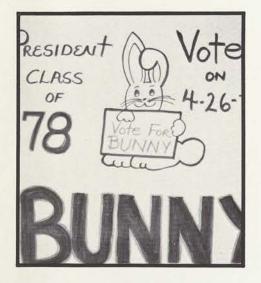

Mudslinging, unfair voting practices, recounts and re-election have long been an ugly component of our hallowed democratic process. Even on the small scale of TWU student office elections, slip ups and dirty campaigning do occur.

During the original primary scheduled on April 19, everything seemed to be proceeding smoothly. However, the election board had barely stopped counting when trouble showed its unwelcome head.

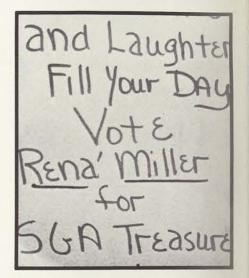

Gail Olezene, presidential candidate, submitted a formal complaint and called for a re-count. Basis for the request was voting in several residential halls without using the required voter cards and that several ballot boxes had not been placed out until one hour after the scheduled starting time. Unofficial complaints of illegal campaigning were also submitted by other candidates.

After deliberating the situation, the election board decided that the complaints warranted a re-election instead of a re-count. So on April 26, all contested races were run again. Strict supervision and control answered fair voting procedure, and the balance of democracy was restored to the campus elections.

SGA CAMPAIGNING

Eighty young princesses stood stiffly in their crisp new formals wringing their white-gloved hands in nervous movement as they awaited their turn in front of the judges' eyes. Homecoming? A beauty pageant? No, the TWU Redbud Festival.

In the words of President Mary E. Huey, this opportunity is taken to honor "the cream of the crop," those who are outstanding as TWU students. In Feburary and Early March, each class nominates and elects twenty girls for the honor of Redbud Princess, basing their selection on service to the student body and the University rather than the traditional physical attributes.

Although there were some disputes in the early stages over the nomination of several male students from the Denton and Houston campuses, this year's festival, sponsored by the University Woman's Association, ran smoothly until presentation evening. As Mr. Weather would have it, four hours before the introduction of the princesses and the selection of the queen, the worst flash flood in twenty years came pounding down upon the North Texas area.

Undaunted by drenched hairstyles, mud-splattered gowns, and soaked shoes, the presentation of the princesses proceeded as planned, and culminated with the crowning of Miss Kay Wilkinson as 1977 Redbud Queen, by Dr. Huey. As the auditorium emptied, the rain ceased, and princesses, students, families, and friends hurried into the clearing night to attend the Queen's Ball or to relax from an evening of frills and flooding.

"As I walked down the aisle, I felt warmth from inside. In the foyer, all my friends were there to share my happiness. The seniors of 1977 are an exceptional group of women; any one of them could have been queen, but . . . well, I'll never forget the night I was chosen to wear the Redbud crown." Kay Wilkinson.

FISH FRY

The April sky was tinted with orange as the sun began to set on Lowry Woods. Faces glittered in the reflection of yellow flames. Some of the faces had never beheld this tradition before, but those who had were filled with the same nostalgic feelings they had experienced at their first Fish Fry.

In 1963, the late Dr. John Guinn commanded the class of 1962 to burn their good luck symbol, a wooden fish, because of the commotion that attempts to steal it had caused. Now, every April, a late evening bonfire is built by the even numbered classes, and a cardboard or wooden fish is burned to commemorate the original event.

This year the classes of 78 and 80 were joined in their traditional circle by unusual guests. A member of the class of 64 and her daughter, a future member of the class of 94. The sentimental moment when the fish began to burn was heightened by the tearful protests of the little girl. It seems that fish traditionalism is hereditary.

THE INAUGURATION

Before ERA, or the early women's liberation movement came into existence, TWU was performing an unusual service. Since it opened its doors in 1903 this institution has been educating women to become more than mothers and wives. It was formed as an all-woman institution of higher learning. It was an all-woman institution guided by a practically all-male administration.

But on April 15, women made a step forward at Texas Woman's University with the inauguration of its seventh president, Mary Evelyn Blagg Huey. In a style befitting a royal monarch, the first ''queen'' of this university ascended her throne.

THE INAUGURATION OF A PRESIDENT

Even early morning drizzle didn't stop the festivities: 260 delegates from prominent schools such as Harvard and Penn State continued to line up for the academic procession.

Grand marches performed by the TWU Orchestra and the colorful academic regalia of the various schools gave the air of a royal court to the assemblage. Closed circuit televisions were placed in upstairs rooms and loud speakers were placed outside to accommodate the overflow crowds. Those who were fortunate enough to have gotten inside seats saw more than just the grandeur and pageantry. As Dr. Huey entered at the end of the processional, they saw TWU's future step into the footlights.

TOP: Dr. Huey gives a joyous response to the silver tea gift from the university. ABOVE: Included in the inaugural agenda was home-

CONVOCATION

In earlier times, recipients were bestowed with a veil very similar to the veil a novice nun was given after her first trial period. The veils have been traded in for caps, and the religious atmosphere has given way to a formal capping ceremony for the enjoyment of friends and families of student

This year's capping convocation drew a record number of friends and relatives. The crowd of over 4000 guests and 423 student nurses forced the relocation of the event off campus and into the North Texas State University Coliseum. The dimly lit floor of the indoor stadium set the stage for the symbolic beginning of clinical education.

Although the cost of fully illuminating the coliseum kept the lights low, the dusky atmosphere did not keep the proud smiles from family faces as daughters and sons took their first step toward a professional career.

WALK-A-THON

TWU students walked to help find a cure for the "Great Masquerader," which has no cure and kills more than 5,000 people annually. The "Great Masquerader" is Lupus Erythematosus, a chronic illness that eats away at the body's connective tissues.

The 129 walkers collected $1,800 in pledges for the first Lupus Erythematosus walk-a-thon ever held.

OPEN FORUM

The proposed Student Health Fee, Stunts dress rehearsal and dorm age regulations dominated discussion at the Open Forum sponsored by the Student Affairs Office.

Louanne Lewright, dean of student life; Robert Benfield, vice president for fiscal affairs; John Tompkins, director of admissions and registrar; and Dr. Dave Gates, vice president for academic affairs, were present to answer student questions.

Dean Lewright said that the recommendation concerning assessment of student health service fees stipulates that students pay 50 cents a semester hour or $7.50 maximum.

Questions were raised concerning new regulations for dress rehearsals for Stunts. Reported obusive language had been used in the rehearsals, and the only change would be for the practice night to be conducted like regular performances.

Several students said that dress rehearsal conduct had progressed for the better over the last few years and that student conduct on that night should be left up to the students.

SENIOR ASSEMBLY

After four years of working hard to turn out professional shows at Stunts, the first chance for a fun production took the form of Senior Assembly. Assemblies in the past have run the gamut from sentimental goodbyes to cutting commentaries on life at TWU. This year's was a comprehensive review of the ups and downs of 77's college life.

Opinions about the administration, cuts about the pitfalls of the underclassmen, and salutes to people who made passage through TWU a little easier were all a part of the humorous and satirical production.

RESIDENTIAL HALL PARTIES

Dorm fees at last came to use as the end of the semester brought about parties from many residential halls. Hot dogs and charcoaled steaks; one, two or three parties in a row, made life a little easier for study-stricken students.

Wild costumes and outlandish makeup were all a part of the mystique of "Godspell." The play is a musical production depicting the life of Christ through the mixture of soft, folk, country and vaudeville music.

Jesus was portrayed by Norris Perry, a North Texas State University student. Judas was portrayed by Gerald Stevenson. All other cast members were Choraliers or enrolled in music theatre class.

Texas Woman's University hosted the National Convention of the Intercollegiate Association for Women Students. This very active organization is the only national student voice that gears its actions to the problems of university women.

This year, the issues of most importance to the organization were the Equal Rights Ammendment, Title IX, health care services for women on college campuses, the right of a woman to control her own body, educational equality, and supportive legislation prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex and/or marital status.

There are eight geographic regions that represent sections from all over the county. Cont.

Each section elects one vice president to represent them on the National Executive Board. This year TWU chose Jane Manley as Region IV vice president for 1977-78. Miss Manley will co-ordinate IAWS programs and serve Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas.

Workshops included various topics such as Title IX, Female Sexuality, Nutrition Concerns Unique to Women, Women in History, Women in Religion, Rape, A Woman in a Man's World, Death and Dying, Minority Women, and Fund Raising.

COOKOUTS

As the end of the semester nears, one might catch the aroma of hamburgers or steaks through the air. Many organizations give cookouts for a final fund raising project, while others have the occasion as a means of saying farewell, till next semester.

GRADUATION

"The definition of education is learning to learn, learning to do, learning to care, and learning to be."

State Representative Eddie Bernice Johnson took this basic premise and gave the class of 1977 a preview of the future at the Spring Graduation Convocation.

Threats of rain made the site of graduation an uncertainty, but when 7:30 chimed, 1,175 doctorate, master, and bachelor candidates marched onto Hubbard Oval under a murky sky. Thousands of guests swarmed the surrounding landscape looking for the best view.

The processional, Ms. Johnson's speech, and the preliminary excitement were forgotten as each graduate filed across the steps of Hubbard.

Cheers issued from relatives hidden in the crowd as each student shook Dr. Huey's hand, received a diploma, and stepped off the platform into the future

Established patterns of movement and habitual styles of play are hard to break in an athlete, especially in a college-age athlete with a four-year background in high school basketball. While intercollegiate women's teams have been playing full court under modified men's rules for several years, most Texas high schools are still governed by half court women's guidelines.

With 50 percent of the 1976-77 roundballers classified as freshmen, Coach Rayla Allison had a tall order on her hands. Not only was practice devoted to building team work and the precision needed for offensive and defensive skills, but scarce workout time had to be used to educate the seven freshmen in college full court basketball.

Two months of pre-season practice was enough to mold the team into a competitive threat, but there was still a growing period to come. The Tessies started out slowly with only two wins in the first half of their twenty-five game schedule, but experience and a desire to win grew with each narrow defeat. Spring semester play saw the team hand out nine defeats in thirteen encounters. This winning streak carried them to a first round match with nationally ranked Baylor in the AIAW Zone tournament and a hard won fifth place seat.

It seems that TWU basketball prominence may be a reality in the near future. Ms. Allison has planned a coupled effort of continued development of exisiting talent and recruiting up and coming high school stars, plus a program to draw community and campus support.

SOFTBALL

Although recent years have seen some TWU teams slip in ranking, the softball team has continued to pitch, hit, and field its way to state prominence. Through the rigorous fall and spring seasons, Coach Jo Kuhn kept the college fastballers honed to a razor sharp playing edge.

Pre-season daily workouts plus occasional weekend practice sessions paid off when tournament play began.

Topnotch teams from as far as Nebraska failed to daunt the Tessies' winning drive, and win they did. Out of nine scheduled encounters, only once did they fail to capture one of the top four places. This expertise continued into State play, and for the sixth consecutive year, TWU emerged in the top three.

What is the 1977-78 outlook for TWU softballers? Although Co-Captains Brenda Grubbs and Leslye Friedrich and Coach Kuhn will be leaving the team, success still seems to be the best prediction of the future. A powerful nucleus of nine returning players plus quality recruits will be bent upon making that prediction a reality.

VOLLEYBALL

The 24 game season was of few laurels and trophies, but growth and promise were a consistent product of the 1976 volleyball team. The switchover of longtime coach, Delores Copeland, and several of TWU's national class players to the rival North Texas team left TWU with an opportunity for a fresh start. Coach Linda Wills took control of the Tessie court with an inexperienced but eager young field of players.

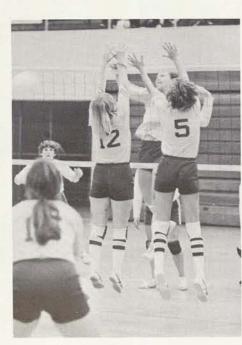

Although they took top honors only six times, the predominantly freshman and sophomore team led by captains Carrie

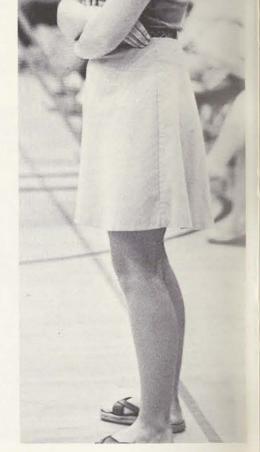

Kelly and Darian Doornobos constantly improved the caliber of their game. Rigorous workouts and devotion developed the power ball talent of the fledgling team to a competitive intercollegiate level.

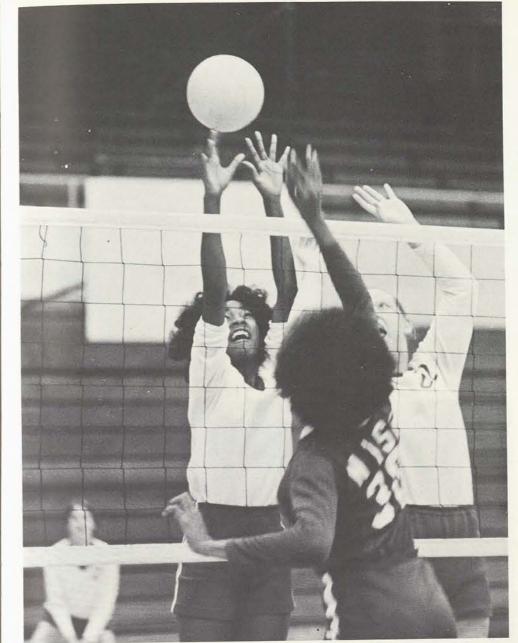

1977 will see the entire squad return, seasoned by spring training supervised by Ms. Wills. Continued hard work should prepare the returning players and new recruits for a successful season against the top-notch teams of Texas.

Bad luck and misfortune befell the TWU tennis team this year. Valuable stars left the team last year, leaving an open field for newcomers. Replacing the former players was a group of young and inexperienced players, and although enthusiasm was high, seasoned netters from powerful Texas schools outscored the young Tessies. However, hope for the future is widespread, and continuing workouts are preparing the team for the 1977-78 competitive season.

Whether it is racing a friend from the muddy shore of a lake to a lopsided barrel floating in the water, or outstroking a rival as a clock ticks away the meters in an Olympic-size pool, swimming has been a long time competitive sport open to any age group and any sex.

Although ten of TWU's thirteen swimmers were newcomers to the college field, there was no shortage of experience. Heavy recreational and competitive backgrounds and well developed specialities in the butterfly, breaststroke, backstroke, freestyle, individual medley and diving made this 1977 team the best class of swimmers to enter the TWU pool in several years.

Under the tutelege of Coach Jennifer Wright, the team fought its way to a 5-1 season record. In addition to an outstanding season, each team member was rewarded with a new fastest time significantly lower than her preseason best. When time rolled around for the State meet, the Tessie team set out to prove that TWU swimmers were on the climb. The final tally of points saw them replace last year's 14th rank with a tenth place and the anonymity of the past with a promising future.

SWIMMING

Financial and academic conflicts plagued the uneven bars, balance beam, vaulting horse, and floor exercise artists of TWU gymnastics team.

But the remaining core of girls who entered the competitive program with Coach Susan Hill were so enthusiastic that they literally had to be "forced out of the gym."

Bruises, aching muscles, and blisters were the signs of long vigorous workouts. Compulsory and optional skill had to be mastered before the season began, but the rising public interest in gymnastics matched the increasing prominence of TWU's team.

The enthusiasm and promise of the start of the season carried through to the state meet. In past years, the Tessies had failed to even qualify for state level competition.

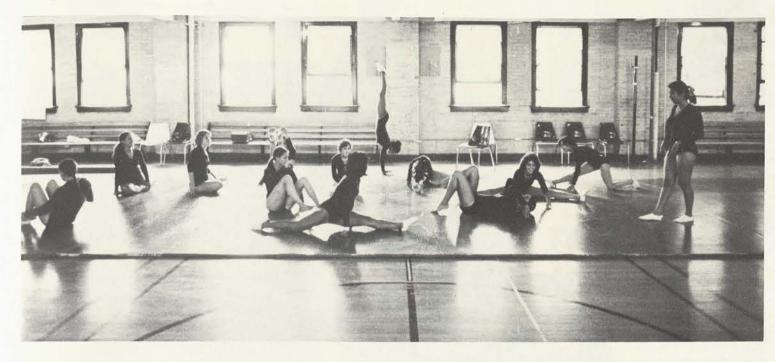

But, this year, four out of six competitors entered snatched awards in the top four places of their various all-around events

TRACK AND FIELD

The Track and Field team had an extraordinary season this year as they overcame a number of adversities and injuries to capture the TAIAW State Track and Field Championship title for the 9th time in ten years.

At the state meet, everyone except one scored at least a point for the Red and White. Career and/or season bests were recorded in nearly every event, as TWU outpointed its nearest rivals, Texas A&M and UT Austin.

Titles were taken in seven individual events and two relays by the home team. Janet Brown, a junior, was a double winner in the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

TRACK AND FIELD

Captain of the team, Sandra Levinski, continued her assault on the school 400 meter hurdle record blasting to victory in 58.66, the nation's leading time this year. Brown and Levinski both ran legs on the winning 440 yard and 880 yard medley relays.

Other members of the winning relay teams were for the 440 yard relay, Barbara Collins and Pam Williams; and the 880 yard medley relay, Leslie Mac-Kenna and Williams.

In a superb show of strength in the field events, TWU took first in four of the five events. Olga Arranda captured the shot put with a toss of 45'3/4", and also placed 3rd in the discus behind winning teammate, Lucy Neiman, who had her best performance ever.

Cindy Hundley added another national qualifying mark in the javelin, by chucking the spear for a new school record of 132'9". Freshman Louise Ritter won the high jump with a personal best of 5'9" using the "flop" style. Ritter also jumped a lifetime best in the long jump placing fourth with 18'91/2".

In other events, running career bests, were Barbara Collins and Laurel Lightbourn in the 400 meter dash; Peggy Rose in the 800 meter run; Princess Lindsay and Linda Holmes in the 1500 meter run (with Princess setting a school record of 4:40.69 in a third place finish).

Holmes also had lifetime bests in her lead-off leg of the 3rd place Two Mile Relay, and in the 3000 meter run (10:37.09) in which she placed third.

Rose Kuehler had personal bests in both the discus and shot put, placing sixth and fourth respectively.

Also scoring points for the winning team were Susan Moore in the 100 meter hurdles, T. C. Rudolph — 400 meter hurdles, Livia Fleming — 2 mile relay, Pam Williams — 200 meter dash, and the mile relay, consisting of Barbara Collins, Laurel Lightbourn, Peggy Rose, and Louise Ritter.

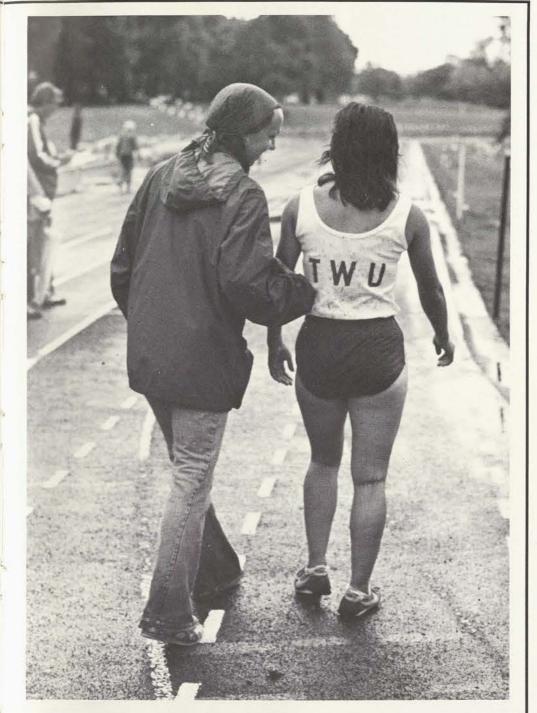

For the three out of five track meets, the team was plagued by

TRACK AND FIELD

In March, Sandra Levinski was the first woman in the United States this season to break 60 seconds in the 400-meter hurdles.

Levinski had been training hard to bring her time down each week of practice. With a 59.8 time, she qualified for the AIAW National meet in Los Angeles.

Levinski also runs the 880 medley relay and anchors the mile relay. She also runs the 440-yard relay and the 440-yard dash occasionally.

OPPOSITE TOP: Teresa Page prepares mixture for fixation of brains. OPPOSITE MIDDLE: With the microscanner, Marilyn Smith examines the surface of a grasshopper. OPPOSITE BOTTOM: Shellie Berry, Josefina Vallejo, Mrs. Stauver and Dave Henslee study the results of a respiration experiment.

The Biology Department currently offers sophisticated tools for the study of cellular structures through its new electron microscope (EM) facility. The EM facility includes both transmission and scanning electron microscopes as well as equipped darkrooms and additional support equipment. The new multi-purpose facility is available not only to Biology, but to other departments as well. In addition to training and supervision in electron microscopy, the Biology faculty offers assistance to both students and faculty in such areas as preparation of slides and prints for seminars and publications.

Students and faculty using the EM facilities are able to study internal structures of cells at magnifications up to 200,000X with the transmission electron microscope. Internal structures can then be correlated to surface properties of cells as seen in the scanning electron microscope. The scanning electron microscope is used also for studying surface properties of objects such as textile fibers and other industrial products. Consequently, its use is not limited to biological studies.

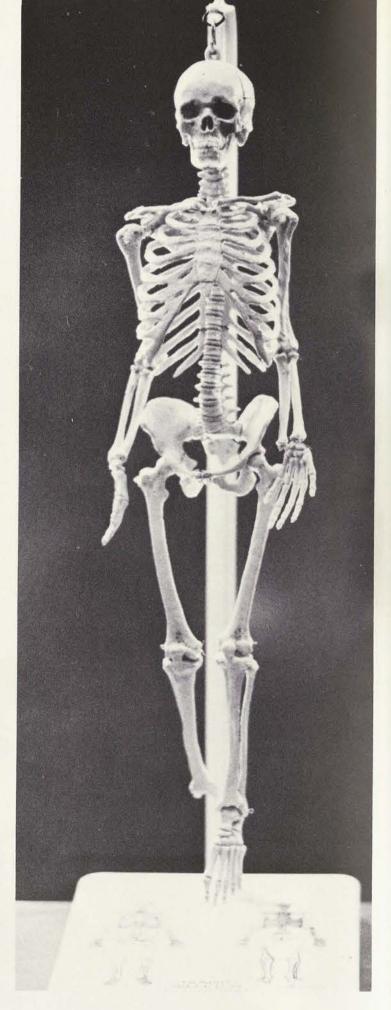

The Biology Department's new teaching and research facility has already provided the basis for graduate research and faculty publications. The EM facility enhances the quality of ongoing teaching and research programs in Molecular Biology.

The department offers a bachelor's degree in a variety of fields. A Master of Arts degree in business or economics is also offered at the graduate level. These programs prepare women for positions in teaching, research, public service or business, and qualify the students to become highly paid career women, according to Dr. Eldred Speck, acting chairman.

New majors in accounting, management and a bilingual secretarial program have been added to the curriculum this year. Also the formation of the Business Internship Program has enabled business students to work fifteen hours a week in local businesses. A Small Business Administration Program was set up also where three students in the department would help local businesses. In addition to the six full time faculty members, there are five part time faculty members who are attorneys, certified public accountants and other professional businessmen to instruct courses, who can relate personal experience in their field to the students.

Students in the department are eligible to join Sigma Pi Beta, the national honor fraternity for business and economics; Omicron Delta Epsilon, the business honor society, and the Professional Business Women's Club. There have also been more field trips to area businesses and plants this year than ever before in the department.

ENGLISH

The Department of English, headed by Dr. Lavon Fulwiler, offers major programs leading to the Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Doctorate of Philosophy degrees. The department also offers a minor in English as well as programs leading to teacher certification at various levels.

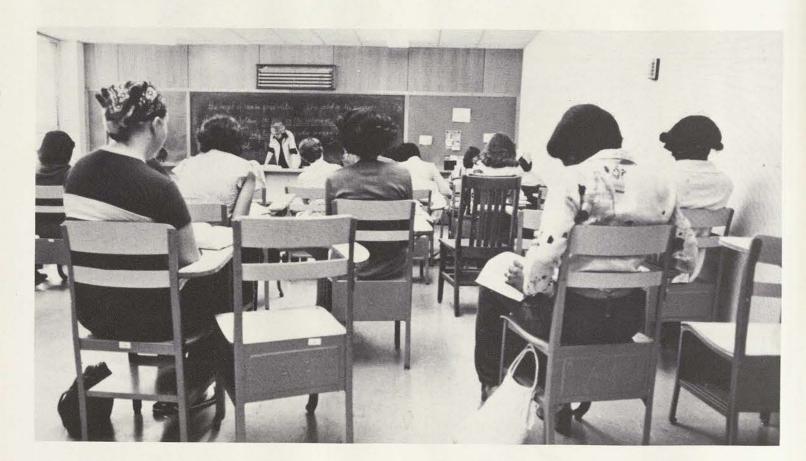

This year, the department held its 39th Writer's Conference and its 4th annual book sale, which were successful. Also, faculty members are working to develop new genre courses at the sophomore level to be offered for the first time in the fall.

During the fall semester, Dr. Turner Kobler served as consultant from the Department to Farah Pahlavi University in Tehran, Iran.

There are five active organizations within the department. The Daedalian Quarterly, which is open to all students interested in writing for a publication or helping with the production; the English Majors Club; the National Council of Teachers of English Junior Affilate, open to any student who will be an English teacher at any level; Omega Rho Alpha, English honor society for freshmen and sophomores; and Sigma Tau Delta, the national English honor society for advanced and graduate students.

Unique in the Southwest is TWU's doctoral program in English, which provides a concentration in rhetoric.

HISTORY AND GOVERNMENT

Under the direction of Dr. Kemp Yarborough, the department offers bachelor's degrees in history or government and the teacher certification program in history or government. The department also offers a master's degree in both fields, which is valuable for secondary level and college teaching.

The department offers various concentrations in government in such areas as government service, paralegal study, and criminal justice, in concentration with the Department of Social Work.

Majors seeking certification are encouraged by the department to broaden their professional preparation by taking a second teaching field in an unrelated course.

New courses developed by the department are: Government and Health, National and Texas Drug Laws and Malpractice, and a seminar on the History of American Women.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

ABOVE: The foreign language class learns accuracy by listening to recordings. OPPOSITE TOP: Instructor Maria Enriquez responds to student inquiries. OPPOSITE BOTTOM: Miss Enriquez instructs the Spanish class.

Opportunities have never been greater for individuals trained in languages. Realizing the importance of a knowledge of languages in preparation for all careers, Spanish, French, German, Italian, and Russian courses are offered by the department. Fields such as teaching, business, government service, communication, library science, foreign service, social work, health sciences, research, publishing, travel industry, and others offer a rewarding career for students enrolled in the foreign language program.

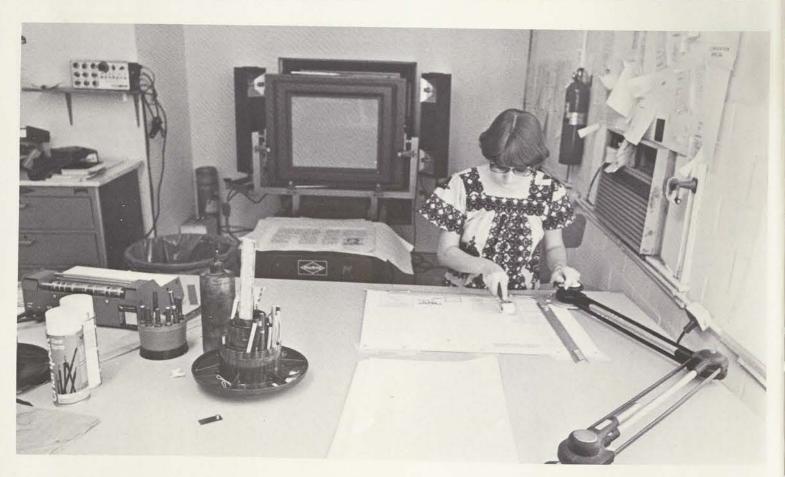

Under the direction of Maurine Faulkner, acting chairman, the majority of the faculty is comprised of native speakers of the language they teach. The department offers both a bachelor's and a master's degree in French and Spanish. Also through the cooperation of other departments, courses are offered to benefit students in different fields. Medical Spanish is offered for students in health sciences, as well as business Spanish for business majors.

Two of the department's courses are taught in English; a study of Greek and Latin roots found in English words, and a study of the myths of Greece and Rome and their influence on the literature of all countries. In these cases, English is taught as a second language for foreign students. The Full-bright grants and other awards are given annually for study abroad to deserving students.

JOURNALISM

The conversion to offset reproduction was the major advancement this year in the Department of Journalism. Offset reproduction will provide students with the newest developments in the professional field of journalism. A better aquaintance with graphic processes will also be obtained by the students going into the community, industrial work, and public relations by the studying of more modern techniques.

The first offset press was delivered in August. Air conditioning has also been added to the building.

Under the chairmanship of Dr. Robert Chambers, the department offers bachelor's of science and arts degrees, where courses are planned to combine the essential elements of a liberal arts education and professional training in fields of writing, editing, photography, and the communicative arts

The goal of the department is to prepare students to teach in secondary school, to work in business, industry, or government, or to work toward advanced degrees in graduate school. The department has a strong cooperative work-study program with the Johnson Space Center in Houston. The program, funded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, allows students to alternate semesters of work on the TWU campus with semesters of work at the Center where they are paid at government

SOCIOLOGY

RIGHT: Kathy Graham learns technique of office machinery. BELOW: Miss Cowan's sociology class reviews a taped group session. OPPOSITE: Students participate in role playing to recreate a real situation.

Serving as one of the pioneers in the United States in social work, the Department began offering a social work major, created by Dr. Reba Bucklew. TWU is one of the few schools in Texas to have accreditation from the Council on Social Work Education and a social work major.

Today, the University Sociology and Social Work Department is also one of the few schools to offer a Bachelor of Social Work degree. All 1977 graduates in social work will be the first to receive the BSW degree.

Both undergraduate and graduate students may participate in the department's four organizations: the Sociological Society, the departmental club; Alpha Kappa Delta, the sociological honor society; Alpha Delta Mu, the social work honor society; and the National Association of Social Workers, a club for all social work majors.

This year, the department placed over 38 senior students in over 20 agencies for their field work. Advance in the Social Work Practice Center has also made it possible to include audio-visual materials to aid the students in practicing classroom skills.

TOP: The speech class performed "Reynard the Fox," a musical for deaf and hearing audiences. ABOVE: Children visit Linda Cushman for voice exercises.

Under the chairmanship of Dr. Don Ryan, the Department of Speech consists of four programs: deaf education, theatre, speech pathology, and radio and television.

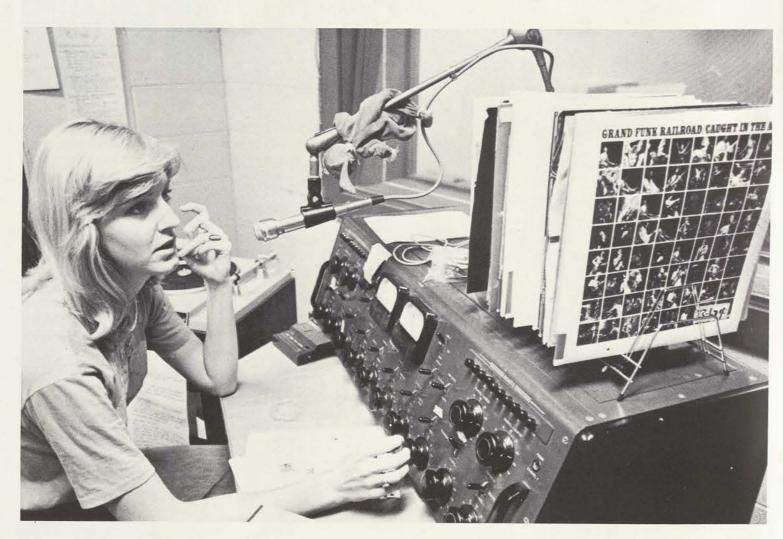

Deaf education, the most rapidly growing area of the Department, offers both a Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degree as do the other three programs. Within this program, dactylology, a course in finger spelling and sign language, was first to be offered in a Texas college or university.

The theatre program introduced its Theatre for the Deaf for the first time this year. A great unexpected success followed the presentation of "Reynard the Fox," after which the cast performed for over 1,000 children in several cities and on many campuses throughout Texas. This play was conducted entirely in sign language in conjunction with the deaf education program.

TWU was the first university in Texas to offer a speech pathology program. This year marks the 25th anniversary of the University program. Each year the students of speech pathology attend the Mid-Winter Speech and Hearing Conference.

This year, students in the radio and television program can be heard over the local Denton radio station, KDNT. They present a five minute newscast which features student and campus news.

Speech students may participate in the National Student Speech and Hearing Association Chapter for deaf education and speech pathology majors, and Zeta Phi Eta, the national speech honor society for undergraduates.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

COUNSELOR EDUCATION

The Department of Counselor Education and Personnel Service, under the direction of Dr. Clifton Sparks, is planning to include a doctoral program in its curriculum next fall. This will be the first time the Doctorate of Philosophy and the Doctorate of Education has been offered in the department.

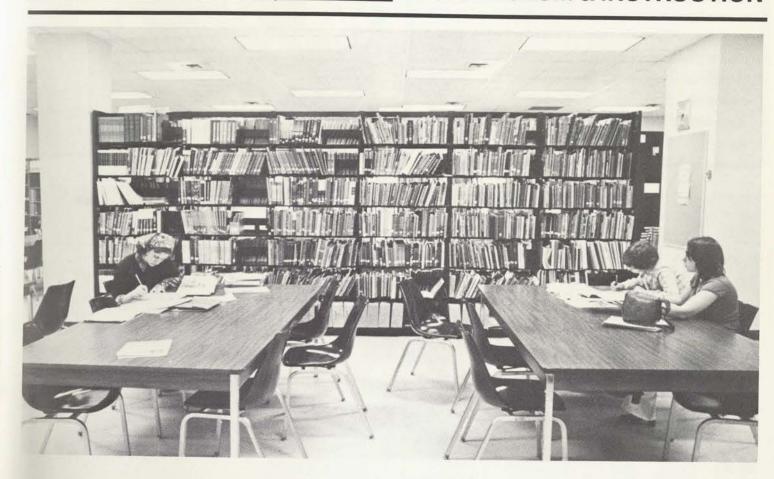

The department, consisting of three faculty members and eighty graduate students, currently offers a Master of Art and a Master of Education degree. The main objective of the department is to train students to become school and agency counselors. Students go to various schools and counseling centers to gather experience during their practicum.

New courses offered this year were Interpersonal Skills Training and Consultation Skills. Also planned for next fall is the addition of a faculty member of the department.

TOP: Dr. Stone assists students with film projects. ABOVE: Imelda Guzman researches for a counselor education report. OPPOSITE: Students use the curriculum library.

CURRICULUM & INSTRUCTION

Elementary education, early childhood education, bilingual education and reading are the programs offered by the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, which is under the direction of Dr. Howard Stone.

Offering both a bachelor's and master's degree in all four programs, the department offers a doctorate degree in only reading and early childhood education. There are four master's degree programs available for reading majors. One of these, a secondary reading, is the only approved program in Texas. At the undergraduate level, TWU is one of the few schools in secondary education in which reading is a secondary teaching field. The department is also one of the few schools that offers a certificate for middle schools as a separate certificate.

PSYCHOLOGY

Under the direction of Dr. Dalton Day, the department offers a bachelor's, master's and doctorate degree in psychology. The 13 member faculty serves over 160 undergraduates and graduate students.

Proposed courses for the uncoming year are the Psychology of Women, and School Psychology, a new program offered at both the master's and doctorate levels.

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATIONS

Under the chairmanship of Dr. Joseph Fearing, the department offers courses common to all other areas of education such as institutional media and technological, philosophical, historical, sociological, and psychological foundations of education.

Additions to the department next year will be a new course for graduate students, Understanding the Adult as a Learner. This program will follow a sequence of adult education, adult learner, adult basic education and adult continuing education.

A vocational technical program is offered also to graduate students at a master's and doctorate level, designed to show teachers how to improve their teaching skills.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

This year brought an advancement to the Department of Special Education. The department began the generic program, which became the only degree program offered for undergraduates instead of the four traditional ones. Under this new program, students will be equipped to cover many areas of special education.

The student is required also to be certified in an area of regular education, such as elementary, junior high, or secondary under the generic program. Graduates of this program will receive the Bachelor of Science degree.

The department under the chairmanship of Dr. Ernest O. Watkins, offers a Master of Arts and Master of Education in five areas: emotionally disturbed, mentally retarded, physically handicapped, learning disabled, and educational diagnostician.

COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS

Ten majors including ceramics, interior design, jewelry, printmaking, fibers, sculpture, fashion design and photography make up the curriculum for the Department of Art. All art students must complete basic courses in drawing, design, painting and the history of art as well as an in-depth study of their major.

Dr. Donald Smith, chairman, notes: "Artists now have not only the traditional options of teaching, working on private commissions, and selling through galleries, but also new opportunities in industry and commerce."

Offering a bachelor's degree in many fields, the department is strengthened by its interrelationships between majors. For example, printmaking majors and fibers majors may work together to create a woodcut to be used in printing textiles. Another source of strength within the department is the wide range of departments in which an art student may minor.

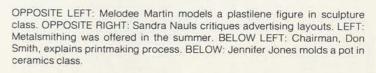

Field trips to galleries and museums in Dallas and Ft. Worth, visits to fashion design studios and merchandising houses and attendance at national and regional conventions are benefits available to students. Also faculty and students' works are exhibited in the Art Gallery on campus as well as in Austin, Houston, and Dallas shows. A series of distinguished visiting lecturers and workshops are also open to students.

ART

MUSIC

The Department of Music offers programs in music education, voice, music therapy, and instruments. Under the direction of a faculty composed of well-known professionals, the students are exposed to musical performances by faculty members and guests from throughout the world.

The international Friendship Ambassadors of Music, the United States and Romanian governments, and TWU sponsored a trip to Romania for Concert Choir members this spring. Of special importance because it is a trip made behind the Iron Curtain, the purpose is to spread international good will from the United States to Romania.

The TWU Music Theatre presented a number of successes this year. "Godspell," a musical depicting the life of Christ, and "Puss n' Boots," a children's musical, were presented to full audiences at the University.

This year brought forth the revival of the TWU Orchestra, led by Carol Lynn Mizell. After almost disappearing from the campus, the orchestra performed for various social organizations, university clubs, and the inauguration of President Huey.

The 30th anniversary of Sigma Alpha lota, the national music fraternity for both undergraduate and graduate students, was celebrated and the TWU Chapter was presented the Kappa "B" Province College Chapter Achievement Award.

The department is under the chairmanship of Dr. Frederick Fox. Also serving as dean ad interim of the College of Fine Arts, Dr. Fox participates in all activities, including playing the electronic organ for the Graduation Week tea-dance and leading the singing at the inauguration of Dr. Huey.

Consisting of departments in physical education, health education, recreation and dance, the college was formerly one of TWU's original departments, before increasing enrollment and the interest in the health of the body required the University to form the current College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Under the direction of Dr. Eileen Lockhart, the college offers the only doctoral program of study in dance and therapeutic recreation in the southern United States.

Community recreation services and therapeutic recreation services are the two major focuses made by the college for professional roles in recreation. CRS is designed to train students to become administrators in community parks and recreation facilities. TR graduates work in various rehabilitations, such as correctional institutions and nursing homes.

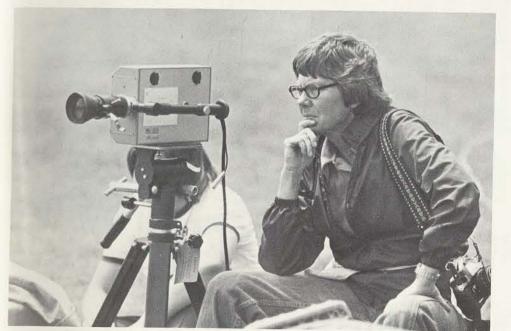

Recently created, the Department of Health Education offers degrees at the bachelor's and graduate levels. The non-teaching undergraduate program is designed to prepare students to serve in health education positions in community agencies. The teaching program prepares students to instruct health education in public schools.

The Department of Dance offers major programs leading to the Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Arts, and the Master of Arts and Doctor of Arts. Dance majors have the opportunity to perform in the Dance Repertory Theatre.

COLLEGE OF HEALTH, PHYSICAL EDUCATION & RECREATION

NUTRITION

The Department of Nutrition and Food Science, under the direction of Dr. Betty Alford, is the only department to offer a management dietetic program in the Southwest to train registered dieticians.

Interest in nutrition and food science, which is a part of preventive health care, is becoming more popular in the career world, because of the cost of energy and the need for accurate preparation and service of food. Women are trained to be in management also, because they can emphasize details of cleanliness, possess skills in interpersonal relations, and have a special skill in communicating in the business world.

This year the department, which offers a bachelor's, master's and a doctorate degree, offered a course in childhood nutrition for the first time. A course in gerontology has been proposed for interdisciplinary study called, "Nutrition in Aged."

There is high cooperation between academic aspects and industry to help develop a relationship between students and industries, relating to the student's field in the Department of Textiles Science and Clothing. The department enables students to get work experience pertaining to their field of study in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

Offering two bachelor's degrees, two master's degrees and a doctorate degree, the school prepares the students for leadership positions in the library field. Library Science was organized at the University in 1928 and became the School of Library Science in 1955. In 1956, the School moved into its present building which was the first in the nation to be designed for the sole purpose of teaching library science, including a professional library.

The addition of the graduate Library Science Building was made in 1969 and the school was fully reaccredited by the American Library Association last year.

Beta Phi Mu, the national library science honor fraternity which was established at TWU last year, is available to honor graduates and alumnae. Undergraduates may join Alpha Beta Alpha, also in honor society.

Headed by Dr. Frank Turner, acting director, the school today is composed of over 300 students wishing to make librarianship their profession.

Expected advancements to be made in the near future within the school are the appointment of a permanent director, adding two faculty members, and offering overseas courses during the summer of 1978. The courses will consist of comparative librarianship.

INSTITUTE OF HEALTH SCIENCES

Under the supervision of Dr. Kathyrn Barnett, the College of Nursing makes up the largest unit of the Institute of Health Sciences. Consisting of five campuses, two in Dallas, one in Denton, one in Houston and the Temple graduate program, the College of Nursing is made up of over 3400 undergraduate and 600 graduate students.

Current change made in the College of Nursing is the revision of the graduate program. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare also announced the funding for the training of burn clinical nurse specialists leading to a Master of Science degree this year.

All nursing students complete their first two years of academic and professional training at TWU's main campus in Denton, then they are redistributed to the major center in Dallas, with one campus near Parkland Hospital and one near the Presbyterian Hospital; to Houston, which is located at the Texas Medical Center; or at the main campus, where this year over 120 students will complete their clinical studies.

Four upper-level baccalaureate and two graduate programs are offered by the School of Health Care Services. Dental Hygiene and Clinical Dietetics, which begin at the junior year; and Medical Records Administration and Medical Technology, which begin at the senior year, are the baccalaureate programs. The graduate programs include Health Care Administration and Health Sciences Instruction. Director of the School of Health Care Services is Dr. Barbara

Under the direction of Bettee Edwards, the Department of Dental Hygiene has 24 senior and 24 junior students in its program. A Bachelor of Science degree is received by all students completing the program, which is one of the two dental hygiene programs in Texas to offer only a baccalaureate degree in dental hygiene.

This year, expanded facilities of the department include two new radiology rooms, disease control rooms, and a darkroom. The students receive the majority of clinical training on the campus. However, clinical training is also scheduled at Scottish Rite Hospital, Children's Medical Center, McKinney Job Corps, and Denton State School.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY

Beginning in the senior year is the Medical Technology program, under the direction of Dr. Alan Cockerline. This program leads to a Bachelor of Science degree and the senior year must be completed at a major medical technology school approved by the University and the American Association of Clinical Pathologists. Before entering the medical technology school, however, it is advantageous to obtain a degree in biology, zoology or microbiology.

HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION

Offered at the graduate level in the School of Health Care Services is Health Care Administration, under the direction of George Brotherton, and Health Science Instruction, under the direction of Barbara Cramer.

Health Care Administration is a two year program designed to prepare administrators to organize, coordinate and utilize effectively physical, fiscal and personnel resources in the Health Sciences.

The Health Science Instruction program is designed to prepare students for community college, college and university teaching, and administration in the allied health professions. Both programs lead to a Master of Science degree.

CLINICAL DIETETICS

The Clinical Dietetics program, under the direction of Dr. Alice Milner, provides an opportunity for students to obtain the knowledge and skills necessary for a career in clinical (therapeutic) dietetics.

Beginning in the junior year, the professional program includes a minor sequence in nutrition and food science. During the senior year, the major sequence in clinical dietetics is stressed, utilizing the clinical facilities at the Houston Center. Students, upon completion of the four year program, will meet the requirements for a Bachelor of Science degree and the academic and clinical experiences required by the American Dietetic Association.

MEDICAL RECORDS

The Medical Record Administration student begins the program in the senior year at the Dallas campus. However, Medical Record Administrator majors must minor in another subject before entering their professional year. Minor subjects usually consist of general business, general science, psychology, or sociology.

On the Dallas campus, senior students are assigned to clinical facilities. The University program, under the direction of Mildred Ford, is approved by the Medical Council on Medical Education in collaboration with the American Medical Record Association.

SCHOOL OF OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

The School of Occupational Therapy has 474 students enrolled in its undergraduate and graduate programs this year setting a new University record for enrollment and also making TWU one of the largest Schools of Occupational Therapy in the world.

With a greatly expanding job market, occupational therapists are now needed in great numbers in the public school systems to work with handicapped children. Community and out-patient centers are expanding their need for these therapists also.

Under the direction of Ruth Pershing, the school offers an undergraduate program for a Bachelor of Science degree, two undergraduate programs, the Master of Arts program and the Master of Occupational Therapy program for students with an undergraduate degree in another field.

This year, the school sponsored the "Awareness for Handicapped People" program and the "Awareness Workshop of Camp Soroptimist," which was a program on role playing of the handicapped.

All senior students go to the Dallas or Houston campuses for further study. However, special administrative courses are no longer taught at Dallas.

Phi Theta Epsilon, the National Occupation Therapy honor society, is open to senior undergraduate and second year Master of Occupational Therapy students.

Expansion for next fall includes a campus clinic for the school.

SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL THERAPY

The School of Physical Therapy, under the direction of Dr. Carolyn Rozier, offers a curriculum for both a Bachelor of Science degree and a basic Master's degree. Students enrolled in the undergraduate program spend their freshman and sophomore years in the main campus and continue at the Houston Medical Center campus or the Dallas Presbyterian Hospital campus. The graduate students spend twenty-one months on the Houston Medical Center campus.

The trend in Physical Therapy seems to be toward specialization, however, there is still a great need for physical therapists in rural areas. An important feature of the TWU undergraduate program is the early introduction to physical therapy through its course work and field trips to clinical facilities.

This year the students at the Dallas Presbyterian campus participated in a workshop on muscle testing for the shoulder, led by Miss K. Kendall, while the graduate students on the Houston campus participated in a workshop by Maggie Knott, on prospective neuromuscular facilitation.

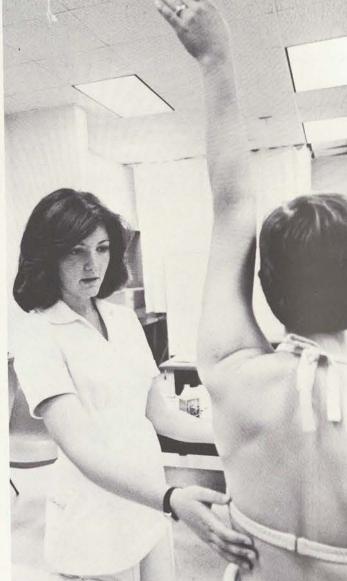

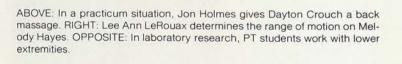

OPPOSITE AND ABOVE: For weeks, PT students participated in an awareness course to better understand the needs of the handicapped.

For thirty years the Burchards have been of service to Texas Woman's University. Two generations of students have had their annual pictures made by Frank Burchard, one of the finest photographers in the Southwest.

The familiar faces of the Burchards will not be seen around the campus as often anymore, for they are retiring.

Under new ownership and management, Burchard's Studio will endeavor to serve Texas Woman's University with quality and genuine effort.

This is the 65th volume of the Daedalian, the yearbook of Texas Woman's University, Denton, Texas.

Produced by TWU students supervised by Mrs. Lillian Hefner, the Daedalian '77 has 400 pages. It is printed on white 80# enamel stock, Smythbound along the left side, in a 9x12 format.

The embossed cover was designed by the editor, Jennifer Collins, and has a base color of tan accented in copper ink. Endsheets are a special two-design integral part of the book's planning, using a die cut to introduce the theme, the Texas woman, as typified by TWU students. Except for faculty and student portraits, all photography was done by the editor and her staff, with four-color processing by The Color Place, Dallas, Texas. The color portrait of Dr. Mary Evelyn Blagg Huey, seventh president of Texas Woman's University, was made by Gittings of Dallas. Faculty and student portraits were made by Burchard's Studio, Denton, Texas, and Stevens Studio, Bangor, Maine.

Type styles used were of the Helvetica family, and some accent type faces were used for special effects.

Seventeen hundred and fifty copies of the Daedalian '77 were printed, under a contract with Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas, Texas, delivered to the TWU campus in August, 1977.
