Texas Woman's University

To the Class of 1959:
Graduating seniors have in all past years earned or fallen heir to certain distinctions other than those which are customarily bestowed as honors and privileges at Commencement time. You are no exception to the rule, and among your special legacies is the right exception to the rule, and among your special legacies is the right cally important episodes in the life of your alma mater.

In your time at TWU there have been annual enrollment increases, two major building programs, greatly augmented research activities, the first products of highly significant new academ enterprises, for women.

It is my hope that the stirring developments of which you were a part will always be a source of pride to you, that they will inspire you to give lifelong support to the aspirations we share fo the continued progress of the rexas

History and Government

Today a knowledge of history and government is needed so that we may, through a study of past and present events, gain a better understanding of the world today. The department of history and government provides this vital knowledge. To fulfill degree requirements, all students are required to take certain courses in history and government. These courses, plus reading and class discussions, are better preparing graduates for their position as citizens and voters. Majors in this department develop their interests through such courses as Amer ican Political Thought and Foreign Relelations. The Citizenship League is an organization open to all students, which defines and outlines the woman's privilege of voting and her world citizenship. Bachelor of Arts and which defines and outlines the woman's privilege of votice Master of Arts degrees are offered by the department.

Journalism

Journalism majors at Texas Woman's University are always on hand to cover all-campus activities for the Daedalian Annual and the Daily Lass-O. The journalism major's program of study is divided into two phases. Daedalian Annual and the Daily Lass-O. The journalism major's program of study is divided into two phases.

a time when world relations are so strained, when undertanding others as well as one's self is so difficult yet so mportant, the sociology student finds a basis for comprehending man's problems. The student learns basic theories which will help her adjust to situations throughout her life. The sociology major can look forward to a "helping" career in any of five fields - social work, religious work, commercial and industrial work, social welfare, and teaching. The superior sociology department offers Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Arts, and Master of Arts degrees, and the social work sequence sives case work experience to the senior meeting departmental ditioned Classroom Unit.

The thrill and the satisfaction of helping a child to talk correctly is the experience of this speech therapy major as she watches his intense interest and observes his consequent improval.

MRS. RENA C. WORTHINGTON,

DIRECTOR

The constant challenge of teaching the handicapped o help themselves is met by the occupational therapy major. The background she receives through the School of Occupational Therapy, which is credited by the American Occupational Therapy Association and the American Medical Association, enables her to face this challenge with confidence. The graduate will have Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts Degree, and an earn, after experience, an Advanced Standing Cer hich offers the only collegiate course in the South west. The occupational therapy major, in actual hos pital work, experiences many of the situations she will meet in her career. Her career combines many aspects fursing, social work, teaching, and administration.

Graduate Schop

Offering graduate instruction for more than a quarter of entury, the University has been operating its Graduate Schoo as a unit since 1952. The increased demand for women with higher degrees resulted in the planned development and estab ishment of the Graduate School which offers nine degrees in some 20 colleges, schools and departments of the University.
In recognition of high quality, the University's Graduate School has been approved by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the Association of Texas Colleges. The Administration Building houses the office of Dr. Fenton Keyes Dean of Graduate Studies, and serves as headquarters for the Graduate School.

Special Interest

Caperettes

With approximately twenty-two active members, Caperettes tap dance group highlighted this season's touring schedule with a trip to Gainesville for a joint FFA and FHA convention. On campus the group danced at the WRA Assembly and the freshman orientation.

Six members of the Caperettes ambitiously dance the difficult steps of another routine. They are, left to right, Donna Trott,

Citizenship League

Of particular importance to the TWU orientation of responsible future citizens is the the club has received a citation and plaque from the Freedom's Foundation. During first semester the League sponsors an essay contest; the title of this year's winning essay was "The Importance of One Citizen in a D Democracy", by Linda Rice. Discussions of current topics, election issues, congressional issues and world tension predominate the monthly topics, election issues, congressional issues and world tension predominate the monthly

Silver Spurs Riding Club

Organized just last year, the Silver Spurs Riding Club already has forty members. After par-ipating in the October Gold Rush Parade, members were invited to the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show to ride in the Rodeo's grand entry. This year's principal activity for the club was a horse show for participating members. The name Silver Spur is derived from the conferrence of a pair of silver spurs to the outstanding Silver Spur horsewoman of the year.

Volleyball Sparks Enthusiasm

One of the favorite sports offered by WRA is volleyball. Each year this activity draws more and more enthusiasts into the circles of participation points and the ever-present WRA Cup. From the rank and file of the classes - freshman, sophomore, junior and senior - march file of the classes - freshman, sophomore, junior and senior - march

Moments to Remember

The time is nearing for every Lady on the hill to pack her bag and leave 隹 for the last time and aness all the memories we have collected down through our pack with a little sadnes four years as the class of 1959 .
Our senior year was perhaps our best, for we realized that this was the last year; the final nine months of fun, frolic and of course studying First we place in the bag the memory of our first function as seniors, the Sen or Breakfast. Our sister class. the sophomores, gave a prosam that Friday morn or Breakfast. Our sister class, the sophomores, gave a program that Friday morn

Lowry Woods. Our singing of "Cindy" might not have measured up to what the sophomores could do, but from the laughter and clapping, we do not think tha and they minded. And, oh, we must pack with these memories those of the Senior-Faculty Frolic. Seniors, dressed as dominoes and vampires, were a sight to behold Then came Gold Rush and Corn Huskin'. Our "Fantasyland" float caugh the fancy of the judges and earned for us a frrst place. Our singing of "Wagon Wheels" brought us another blue riboon at the Corn Huskin Bee to pack in out Wheels" bag of memourht mems.

Then came the end of the semester. It was hard to realize that half of the year had passed. Now we were on the last lap, and what could be better to start off with had passed. Now we were on the last lap, and what could bebe beter to start off with han Stunts? We dressed in our sea-going best and put on a show, the "Petticoat han Stunts? We dressed in our sea-going best and put on a show, the "Petticoa Pirates," that would make any "old salt" sit up and take notice. There was sadnes in the air that last Saturday night, however. It wasn't beeause we did not win Stunts, but because we realized that this was our last Stunt. It was our last time to rehearse night after night and the last time to feel the excitement and thrill o to rehearse nig opening night.
Now it is time to pack in the bag those last few weeks of memories. First will se the senior dance and senior assembly. Each, we know, will end on a note of sadness for at this time we will begin to realize that this is truly the beginning on sadaness the end.
The last trip down the hill in white dresses and carrying an ivy chain will be will be very near the top.
Last but not least we pack the memory of our graduation. As a reminder of s day, we must not forget to put in that diploma we have strived these some thisu yar, we must to attain.
Now the bag is closed. Everything is packed securely only to be taken out gain when we want to remember these University days. Yes, we truly will "have these moments to remember.
