President Guinn Leads TWU in Era of Development

The leader in a remarkable era of growth and development of the Texas Woman's University is Dr. John A. Guinn who assumed the office of president of the University in September, 1951.

His latest accomplishments have been the obtaining of funds for the construction of Nelda C. Stark Hall, a 21-story dormitory; the science research building, and a classroom-office building. Plans are also underway for the construction of a new student union building.

In November, a portrait of Dr. Guinn was unveiled in Guinn Hall, the residence hall dedicated in his name in 1965.

President Guinn is a member of the 1967 executive committee of the Southern Regional Education Board. In September, he and Mrs. Guinn attended a formal dinner honoring West German Chancellor and Mrs. Ludwig Erhard in Washington, D.C.

An active speaker, Dr. Guinn is listed in Who's Who and is a leader in community affairs. He received his bachelor of arts, master of arts, and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Texas.

Board of Regents Decides Character of TWU

The Texas Woman's University Board of Regents is the governing body of the University. They are the University officers in charge of making plans for the future of TWU.

The Board of Regents makes decisions about the construction of new buildings, activities sponsored by the University, and any changes in the University policies.

Decisions of the Board of Regents are important to students because they determine the physical appearance and the educational character and atmosphere of Texas Woman's University.

The newest residence hall, a 21-story building to be ready for occupancy in 1967, is named for Mrs. Nelda C. Stark, a member of the Board of Regents, for her service to TWU.

Alumnae Association Supports TWU Foundation

Mrs. Helen Hare Thorpe, Class of '43, is the 1966-67 president of the TWU Alumnae Association.

A university president has said, "I would feel personally safe in asserting that no college or university — public or private — can hope to become a truly great institution unless it enjoys the encouragement and active support of a sound and forward-looking alumni organization."

Any former student in good standing with the University who has completed six hours of credit is automatically a member. Graduates are urged to keep in touch with the Alumnae office so that their names and addresses will always be current and they will receive the Alumnae Bulletin and other mailings from the University.

TWU graduates are urged to support the TWU Foundation with a contribution of at least five dollars of more each year, and the Foundation in turn supports the various projects of the Alumnae Association, such as mailing and publishing the Alumnae Bulletin, promoting class reunions, and maintaining a current file of names and addresses.

The Alumnae Office, located in the Student Union Building, is the center for the many functions of the Association. Mrs. Ruth Arrasmith is the office secretary.

September Housing Problems Create Confusion

Freshman and new students majoring in art are led to the art building for their first departmental meeting.

UPPER RIGHT: After moving in, a freshman's first duty is to visit the bookstore and select her beany. ABOVE AND RIGHT: Sophomores find an assistant to help them move into Jones Hall, and a junior relaxes in Guinn Hall before finding a place for all her possessions.

The opening of school in September meant students, parents, and confusion at Texas Woman's University. Every available room on campus was filled, and some rooms were filled twice.

Moving in is never easy, but when the person moving in is a Tessie she usually finds it necessary to leave as little as possible at home. The rule-required "man in the hall" call was overlooked during the moving in process, and each student's family was pressed into service unloading the car or trailer.

Buildings normally utilized only for club meetings or as holiday housing were filled with students registering late. They had to wait until the moving dust cleared enough for Mr. Droel H. Looney, housing coordinator, to locate room cancellations.

New Orientation Program For Freshmen Initiated

Dr. Harral Landry, and later Dr. Leroy Garrett and Dr. Jerrell Shofner, acquaints new students with the academic life of the University.

The Class of 1970 practices the traditional freshman class yell, "Yea Maroon, Yea White."

A newly-organized two-day orientation program greeted the 1,400 freshman. Sunday, September 11, they were welcomed by CGA members, counselors, and sponsors; shown to their rooms, and told where to buy their beanies.

Orientation began in earnest with a 9 a.m. general assembly on Monday. Dean Francis W. Emerson introduced the new students to the administration. All-campus officers taught the freshmen their class yell, and departmental meetings and tours of the campus followed.

All-campus officers are introduced to the new students.

In a panel presentation of A&M -TWU traditions, Texas Aggies lead the freshmen in singing the "Aggie War Hymn" Tuesday afternoon.

Over 4,000 Students Register for Fall Semester

During registration, the long, long, long lines move ever so slowly.

TWU broke the 4,000 student enrollment mark for the first time this fall. The freshman class totaled 1,387 students, the largest class. Sophomore students numbered 890; juniors, 667; seniors, 529; post-graduates, 48, and graduates, 527.

The number of students from foreign countries increased to 79. Twenty students registered from Taiwan, 10 from Hong Kong, 11 from Panama, six from Korea, four from Japan, and several from other countries.

A new course in human geography was offered by the Department of Sociology, and new courses were added to the physical therapy program. Three one-week nursing refresher workshops were also opened. Other departments planned new courses to be offered a few at the time, beginning in the spring.

Professor and students prepare for a marathon registration as lines increase at each department's table.

Freshmen and new students were given the opportunity to personally meet Dr. John A. Guinn at the annual President's Picnic held in the backyard of his home. This year the picnic was a part of orientation for the first time.

Volleyball games and trampoline bouncing followed the delicious fried chicken picnic. Freshmen were joined at the picnic by four Texas Aggies, CGA members, counselors, sponsors, and the faculty and administration.

Freshmen Welcomed With Picnic and Reception

At the annual President's Reception freshmen were formally welcomed to the University. Freshmen were received in Hubbard Hall by Dr. and Mrs. Guinn, CGA President Becky Stark, and members of the administration and their wives. The Serenaders provided the music, and CGA members served the refreshments.

Three freshmen seem especially excited about the boxes of free cookies at the SUB Swim Party.

SUB Swim Party, WRA Fun

Freshmen and new students had a chance to meet informally their first Monday night on campus. At the SUB Swim Party, they could relax after a long day at orientation.

In the populated confusion at the hootenanny, it was doubtful whether the freshmen actually learned all the words to the songs, but they sang loudly anyway.

A hootenanny captures freshman enthusiasm as upperclassmen sing some traditional Tessie songs.

Nite, Lantern Parade Highlight Freshman Events

WRA members entertain the freshmen at WRA Fun Nite.

Freshmen watched from the bleachers as WRA members present a skit of questions, answers, and demonstrations about WRA.

Incoming freshmen and returning students were all invited to WRA Fun Nite where they learned of the goals and activities of WRA. Following a narrative program, students enjoyed gymnastics, folk dance, and recreational games.

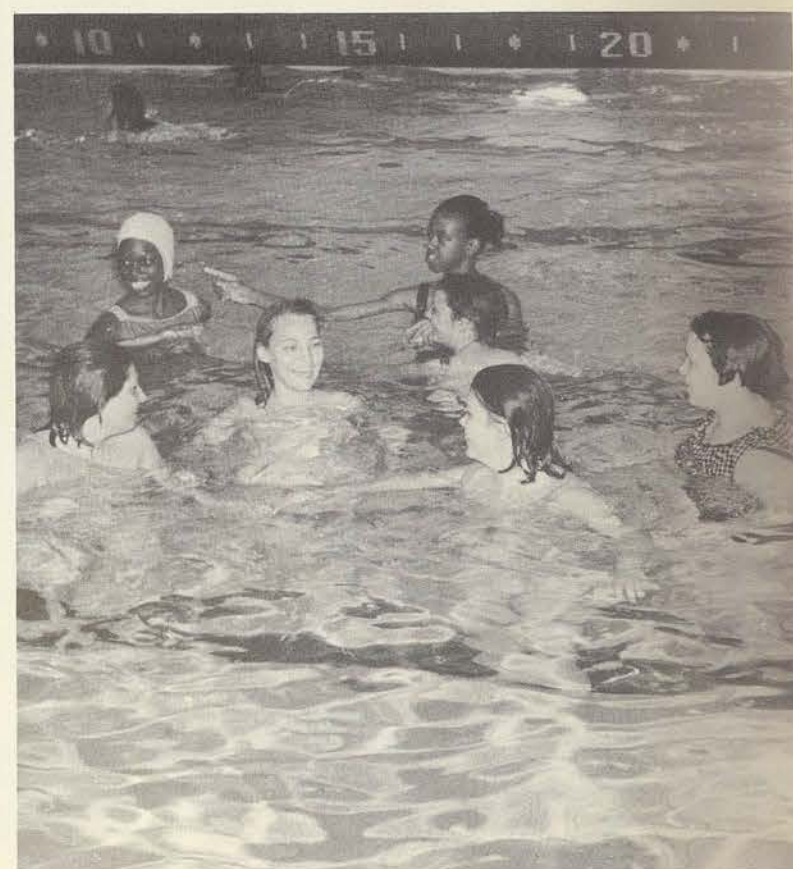

Mert Paben, WRA president, and Becky Stark, CGA president, led the annual Lantern Parade escorting Charlotte Taylor, the freshman CGA scholarship winner. Upperclassmen carried the lanterns until they reached the large lantern in front of the Education Building. Lanterns were then given to the freshmen as an expression of welcome and friendship.

"Shirley Simple Goes to College" at Annual Revue

After members of the University Revue cast asked the Texas Aggie guests to the stage, cast members sing a song composed especially for the Aggies.

Little girl CGA members and class officers danced and sang about the numerous University activities to the songs of Shirley Temple at the annual University Revue. The program theme was "Shirley Simple Goes to College."

Over $5,000 was taken in during the two-day Gold Rush Carnival. Students, faculty, and Denton citizens alike still had fun, despite the unusually cold weather.

Austin Hall Captures First Place at Huskin' Bee

Students and faculty donned overalls, gingham dresses, and freckles to celebrate the Corn Huskin' Bee, co-sponsored by the CHPE&R and WRA. Log sawing and nail driving contests were added to the corn huskin', peanut shelling, and other events. Austin Hall took the over-all first place plaque for amassing the most ribbons at the 29th annual event. Jones Hall and Mary Hufford won second and third place, respectively.

Corn huskers quickly husk as many ears of corn as they can in the contest later won by Guinn Hall.

Dr. John A. Guinn, university president, joins costumed faculty and students in some old fashioned square dancing.

Two Bee-goers demonstrate the 'country folk' costumes appropriate for a corn huskin' bee.

Smith-Carroll residents sing "All My Trials" to capture second place in the dormitory song contest. Jones Hall students won the blue ribbon.

Sophomores Entertain Seniors With Breakfast

Members of the Class of '69 entertained their big sisters with a breakfast and program in Hubbard Hall in November. To the delight of '67, the sophomores told the tale of '67's three successful stunt performances and announced some of the class's foibles such as when '67 serenaded on the wrong side of Jones Hall.

By dancing, singing and 'lying around', sophomores relate the doings and undoings of the Class of '67 during their years at TWU.

Sophomores sing stunts songs from '67's winning stunts and wish them luck for a fourth win.

67 Days 'til 67

Seniors celebrated 67 days 'til '67 in October with an exciting day, highlighted by the arrival of a helicopter from Fort Wolters. The "Ladies" began the day's festivities by singing class songs in the Pub.

After the helicopter arrived, class members were taken for rides, and the craft also buzzed the campus. Seniors saw a film of helicopter services in Vietnam in the afternoon, followed by a reception honoring the pilots. The class presented the pilots with a scroll in appreciation of the services of the military.

Afternoon and evening activities were concluded with the seniors watching the Even-Odd Hockey game and with a hot dog party in the golf clubhouse.

Rush activities for the seven literary-social clubs began in October with the pre-rush Round Robin, sponsored by Round Table. At the event, prospective rushees were given an opportunity to meet each club and to learn of their activities.

Rushees also attended the Pre-Rush Tea held in Guinn Hall. Following the individual club rush party, the rushees selected the club they wished to join. Pledge week followed after the clubs sent out their bids to prospective members.

Robin's Merry Men Are West Side Hoods in FTA

Freshmen combined Robin Hood legends and elements of "West Side Story" to produce "Cool It" for Freshman Talent Assembly.

The "West Side Story" park with its concrete paving became the wooded Sherwood Park. The Sheriff of Nottingham dropped the "h" in his name, and Robin Hood became a hood in the modern sense of the word.

Guinn Portrait Unveiled; Officials Tour Stark

"If I were to give him a nickname, it would be the Upgrader," said Judge Robert A. Hall, chairman of the TWU Board of Regents, at the unveiling ceremony of a portrait of Dr. John A. Guinn, university president, who is shown at right with the portrait.

Prior to the ceremony, held in Guinn Hall, Mr. Hall, below left, presented a plaque to Randall C. Jackson, below right, former Board of Regents chairman, for his contributions to TWU and to education.

Dr. John A. Guinn stands with Mr. Warren Whitson, left, mayor of Denton, as city and construction officials, in background, tour Stark Hall. The occasion was the lighting of a tree on the 21st floor of the dormitory.

Dean Pannell Honored; Dallas Facilities Dedicated

For her untiring efforts and her indispensable leadership to TWU and the TWU nursing program, Miss Faye Pannell, dean of the TWU College of Nursing, was honored in February at the unveiling ceremonies of her portrait.

Dr. John A. Guinn, University president, is shown in both pictures with Miss Pannell. He spoke during the unveiling ceremony conducted in the Educational Building of TWU's Dallas Center.

Governor John Connally, speaking at the dedication ceremony for the additions to the TWU Nursing Center, challenged Texans to live up to their obligation of improving education in the state.

A silver distinguished service plaque was presented to the governor by Robert A. Hall, chairman of the TWU Board of Regents, who also made the dedication address.

Dedicated in the ceremony were an ultra-modern seven-story dormitory and a large instructional facility.

Tessies-Aggies Get Acquainted at Howdy Dance

Signs hung from each dormitory and the bridge welcomed Aggies to an active weekend on the TWU campus, September 24 and 25.

A picnic and all-campus dance sponsored by SCSA were planned in honor of the Aggies. The picnic of fried chicken and all the trimmings was held in Lowry Woods Saturday afternoon, and the dance in the SUB Ballroom followed later that evening.

Aggies and new-found friends enjoy fresh air after an especially long and tiring number.

Tessies pause to talk with the Texas Aggies with thoughts of the Corps Trip in Dallas running through their minds.

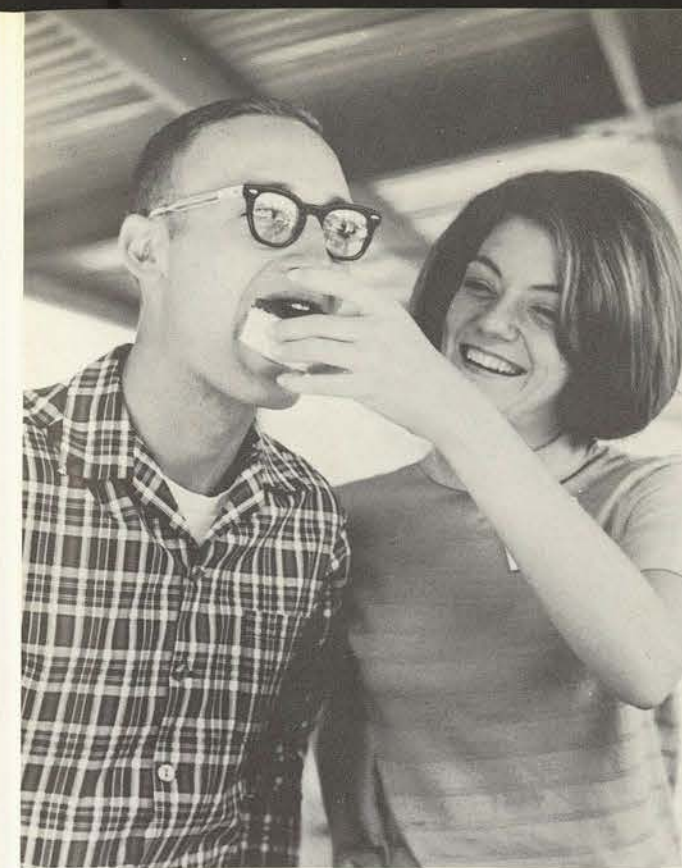

Couples laugh and talk as they sit out a few numbers around a much-used table in the SUB Recreation Room.

Every popular dance is demonstrated again and again in the crowded ballroom.

Numerous Activities Greet Sweetheart Finalists

Following a busy Friday which included seeing the Four Freshmen perform at Town Hall, the nine Aggie Sweetheart finalists were treated to a hayride tour of the A&M campus and a steak fry at Hensel Park on Saturday. The Tessies and their escorts then attended the A&M-Arkansas game at Kyle Field following a dinner in the Memorial Student Center.

Austin Named 1967 Aggie Sweetheart As A&M

After the disappointing game, the girls attended yell practice and then a formal dance. Sunday's activities included attending a service in the All Faiths Chapel and a buffet breakfast. In the Birch Room of the MSC, the finalists chose Terrell Mullins as Mr. Congeniality.

Senior Kathi Austin, a nursing major from Dallas, was named the 1967 Aggie Sweetheart by the selection committee, and pinned to 10,000 Aggies.

After the selection committee presented them with white orchids, finalists talk with their escorts at the formal dance in the MSC ballroom.

Twenty Class Beauty Nominees Presented at Banquet, Christmas Formal

Class beauty nominees were honored in December with a banquet in Hubbard Hall and during the Christmas Formal, "Swiss Holiday."

Preceding the formal, five finalists from each class met with the administration and a panel of judges at a banquet sponsored by the yearbook staff.

Midway through the dance, the beauties were presented amid the background of snow-covered mountains and Swiss chalets. As each was introduced by Donna Shults, Daedalian editor, she walked through a Christmas tree of evergreen sprays the height of the ballroom.

Jo Gresham was dance chairman and mistress of ceremonies, and Joe Reichman's orchestra provided music for the dance.

Finalists meet with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rives, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bujalski, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Thorpe.

President Guinn congratulates each beauty nominee at the Beauty Banquet in Hubbard Hall preceding the Christmas formal.

Beauty finalists pose for a group picture in the Student Lounge before their formal presentation in the ballroom.

Final Reactions Frivolous, Frustrated, Fun

Finals affect TWU students in different ways. Some suddenly realize that its time to finish that last term paper that counts half their grade, others go to the library to study where it's quiet and fall asleep, and still others pull weeds from the pond in the Botanical Gardens or hang from tree limbs. But when those finals are finally over, there is time for a break and maybe even time for a boy-friend or two.

Freshman contestant Martha Abraham won third place in the Scholarship Show with her acrobatic dance.

Sylvia Sydney, pictured above with Don Fenwick, portrays the mother of the bride who visits her daughter just six days after the wedding in "Barefoot in the Park."

The Obernkirchen Children's Choir, composed of 36 German children, performs complex part-singing folk songs.

Two outstanding performances by the National Players highlighted the Concert and Drama program. On campus in December, the National Players presented two classical comedies, "The Merchant of Venice" and "The Birds." Shakespeare's "Merchant" is the story of the winning of a lady's hand by solving a riddle, the elopment of a daughter who takes with her the family jewels, and the culmination of the story by a legal technicality.

"The Birds" tells of two Athenians who are fed up with society and how they hoped to find a better world among the birds. Disagreements develop with the gods, but the disputes are finally settled and happiness abounds in "Cloud Cuckooland."

Under the direction of Edith Moeller, The Obernkirchen Children's Choir enchanted their TWU audience with their singing of folk songs from around the world. The 36 talented youngsters from Germany who have achieved international renown appeared at TWU in November.

Candidates Campaign for 1968 All-Campus Offices

Campaigning was vigorous in this year's CGA and all-campus elections. A primary election was held to determine the candidates for two offices, and many students were surprised with the final results.

Jacquie Dooley was elected 1967-68 CGA president; Daisy Herndon, vice-president; Ruth Coody, secretary, and Brenda Peterson, treasurer.

All-campus presidents elected to serve next year were Jo Gresham, SCSA; Jean Riley, SFC; Pat Kelly, WRA, and Toby Tate, Round Table.

Senior Garden Disrupted Over Best Bud Selection

In "The Garden Club," seniors turned into flowers in a bright green setting. The curtain opened as the flowers awoke to "say good morning to a brand-new day."

The plot centered around the election of a 'Best Bud' for the May Festival. The rivalry was between Snapdragon and Dandelion. Dandelion won, but was driven from the garden because she was 'just a weed' and Snappy was proclaimed 'Best Bud.'

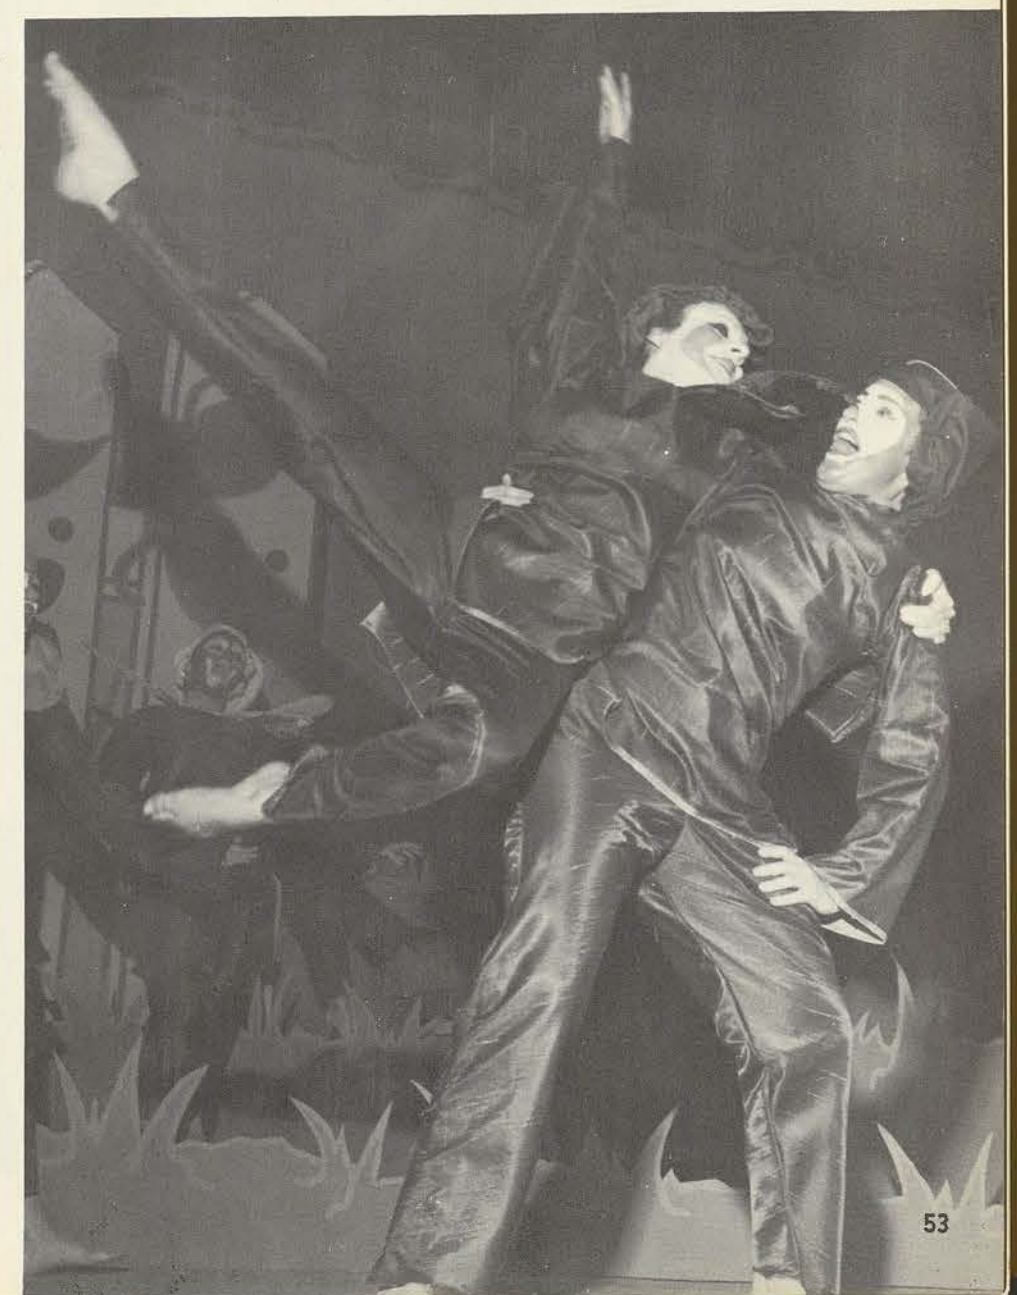

Mother Nature arrived to patch up the quarrel and to reunite Dande with the rest of the flowers. Soon everyone was happy again, and Snapdragon helped Dandelion plan the best May Festival ever held.

Junior Stunt Depicts Singing, Dancing Gypsies

Junior gypsies harass the blind man who later presents Carmelita with the ring which has four magical wishes.

Junior prepare for dress rehearsal with gypsy costumes.

Colorful costumes and an authentic mountain setting transported the audience to a gypsy camp and the '68 Class Stunt, "And That's Lucky Too!" "Everybody loves a gypsy's life" was proven by the enthusiasm of the performers. The singing and dancing of the junior cast claimed a great deal of audience response.

Gypsies are meant to be happy people, but an old man gave Carmelita a magic ring that disrupted the gypsies' carefree life. After several arguments and fights, the gypsies make good use of the ring's last wish and return to their normal happy way of life.

Ring's Four Magic Wishes Disrupt Carefree Life

The Sophomore Class won Class Stunts with "Chalice in Blunderland," a fairy tale about King Blunder who wanted to melt Golden Chalice to make himself a crown. The horrified villagers tried to hide their chalice, but could not save her until Prince Scepter boiled the king in his own pot. Scepter married the Chalice and reigned over the now-joyous kingdom. The bright set and costumes plus the lively facial expressions helped the sophomores win their first Stunt Cup.

The Freshman Class presented a puppet show as part of their first stunt, "No Strings Attached." The puppets wondered what it would be like "to live as people do," and then they get their chance when their strings are severed. The puppets decide to go to the carnival, where they find that they are better off "staying right where they are," as the big people rejected them.

The freshmen did justice to their first stunt by striving for originality and purpose. Both the music and lyrics were written by a member of the class.

It's Everybody, Not Only the Performers, Who

Class Stunts is more than just three performances. The scripts require months of preparation, practices take two weeks—plus lots of work, and backstage and off-stage crews spend long hours on make-up, costumes, and sets.

Class Stunts is more than what takes place on stage that Friday and Saturday. Class Stunts lives the whole year through—in the minds that are planning before February and in the hearts that are remembering after February.

Demand for Biologists Is Increasing

The rapid expansion of knowledge in biological science has resulted in an increased demand for well-educated biologists and qualified women are needed to help fill these positions. The Department of Biology in the College of Arts and Sciences aims to provide for the fullest development of these women.

The department offers the bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, master's and doctor of philosophy degrees. Students also have many opportunities to hear speakers from nationally-known institutes.

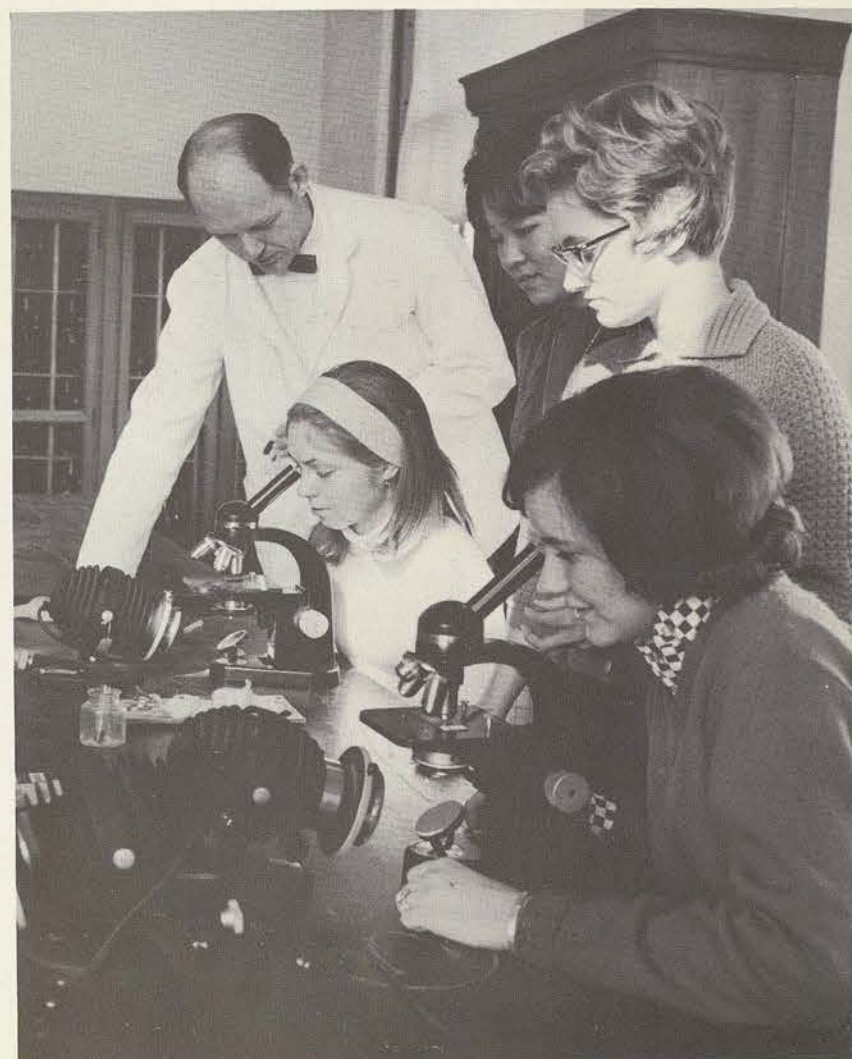

The Biology Club provides a means of social contact among members of the department, and Beta Beta Beta is an honorary society for students of the biological sciences.

During laboratory session, biology students do work with microscopes.

Courses Added to Business Program

The program in the Department of Business and Economics in the College of Arts and Sciences offers an opportunity to select a unique training program in a variety of fields, including secretarial administration, business education, merchandising, general business, economics, and accounting.

The combination of skill in basic business courses is enriched by liberal arts courses and leadership activities to give a broader understanding of the business and economic environment in which the graduate will live and work.

Two new courses were offered this year. One was an introduction to data processing with computers and the other concerned the interrelationship between business and government.

Three extra-curricular organizations are open to students: Sigma Pi Beta, Tau Pi Phi, and Professional Business Women's Club.

One-year and two-year certificate programs are available, with all courses being credited toward the bachelor's degree.

Mr. John Murray Kendrick, far right, associate professor, conducts an informal discussion on current trends in business and economics.

Facilities for Chemists Excellent

The Department of Chemistry in the CAS has excellent physical facilities and professors for the student who majors in this field. The department is accredited with the American Chemical Society.

At present there are 10 full-time staff members, all of whom have earned Ph.D. degrees from 10 different universities. A new research building is presently under-way, and students have available for their own use many special items of equipment.

Courses in the Department of Chemistry lead to either the B.A. or B.S. degree in chemistry or general science, with options depending on a student's interest. A graduate degree program is also offered in the department, leading to the M.A. or M.S. degree in any of the basic areas and to the Ph.D. degree in radiation chemistry.

English Program Stresses Liberal Arts Courses

Students majoring in English enter a broad and rich liberal arts program with the first two years devoted to liberal arts courses and how to express oneself effectively in both written and oral forms. The third and fourth years are composed of study of the English language, English usage, and English, American, and world literature.

Students have opportunities for self-enrichment in the Honors Program; the Freshman Writer's Program; the Daedalian Quarterly; the honorary scholarship societies, Omega Rho Alpha and Sigma Tau Delta, and the English Workshop on Current Trends.

Careers available to the English student include writing, publishing, lecturing, editing, teaching, translating and interpretation, commercial and industrial relations, foreign service, and many others.

Electronic Laboratory Aids Language Students

In the reading room, students practice their knowledge of a language by reading magazines from the country.

Foreign language students discuss the customs of the countries with Dr. Germaine M. Stuart in the reading room.

In the laboratory, Mr. William F. Bishopp Jr. assists students in recording their voices and in listening to the recordings.

The Department of Foreign Language offers courses in French, Spanish, German, Italian, Russian, as well as English as a second language for the benefit of the foreign student on campus.

The department has a completely modern electronic laboratory equipped for oral as well as ear training. It offers courses suited to each student's level of study. Two freshman levels are available in each language.

All members of the faculty have traveled and studied in foreign countries and have had personal experiences and contact with the countries and languages they teach.

The department was granted a charter for the Phi Phi Chapter of Phi Sigma Iota, national honor society for students of romance languages. There are also clubs for students of French, German, and Spanish.

History and Government Career Fields Varied

Courses in the Department of History and Government are planned to prepare the student for a career in such specialized fields as teaching and government service, public administration, and politics.

Courses offered by the department help prepare the graduate to discharge intelligently the responsibilities of citizenship and leadership so important in a period such as the present.

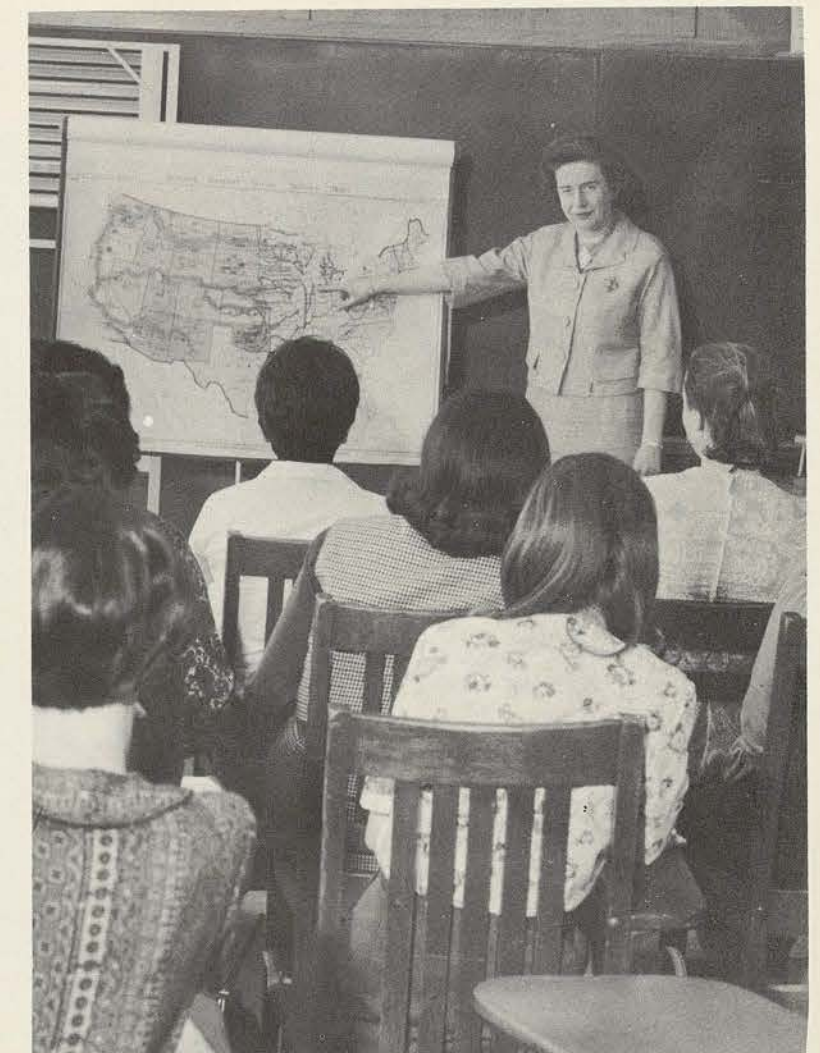

Civic organizations are available for the student. These include the Citizenship League, the History Club, and the Foreign Relations Senate. Phi Alpha Theta, national honor society for students with 12 or more hours of history, encourages students in the study of history and recognizes excellence in that field.

The University maintains excellent library facilities for the study of history and government.

The Department of Journalism offers four sequences of study: news writing and editing, advertising, home economics journalism, and radio-tv journalism. Much emphasis is placed on liberal arts background courses such as literature, economics, sociology, history, and government.

Journalism students edit and publish The Daily Lass-O and The Daedalian Yearbook in the two-story journalism building which also houses the University Press and laboratories for news, advertising, engraving, photography, and typography work.

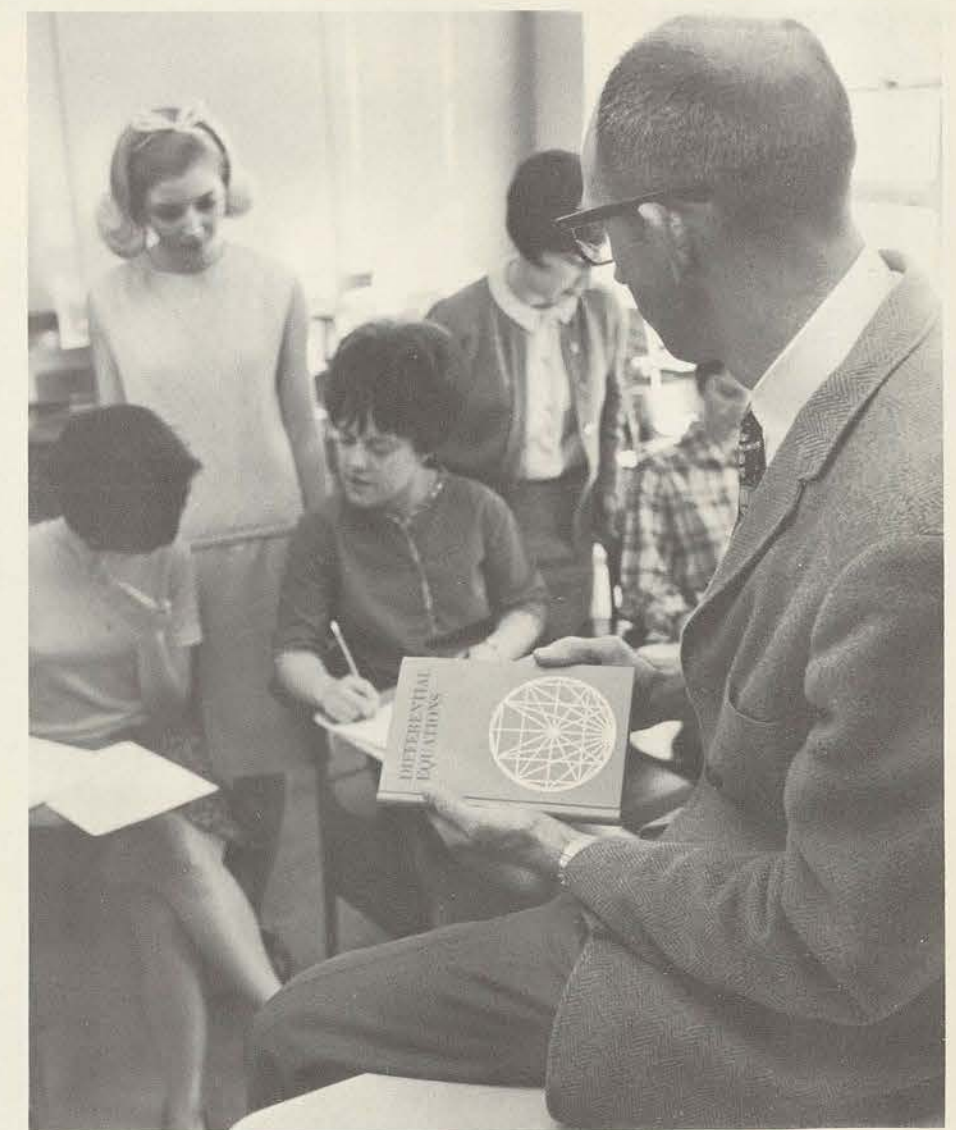

The journalists have three professional organizations: Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism; Kappa Alpha Mu, national photography fraternity, and Kappa Tau Alpha, national scholastic fraternity.

The Department of Mathematics in the CAS offers programs leading to the bachelor and master of arts degrees. A master of science degree especially designed for high school teachers of mathematics is also offered.

Courses are planned to develop an appreciation of the power and beauty of math when studied for its own sake, as well as to emphasize its many relations to other fields. Students acquire an education in math which prepares them for teaching, for professional careers in industry, and for graduate work.

Students interested in mathematics can participate in the E. V. White Mathematics Club sponsored by the department. They may also participate in the Texas Gamma Chapter of Kappa Mu Epsilon, a national honor society for students who minor in mathematics and maintain high scholastic averages.

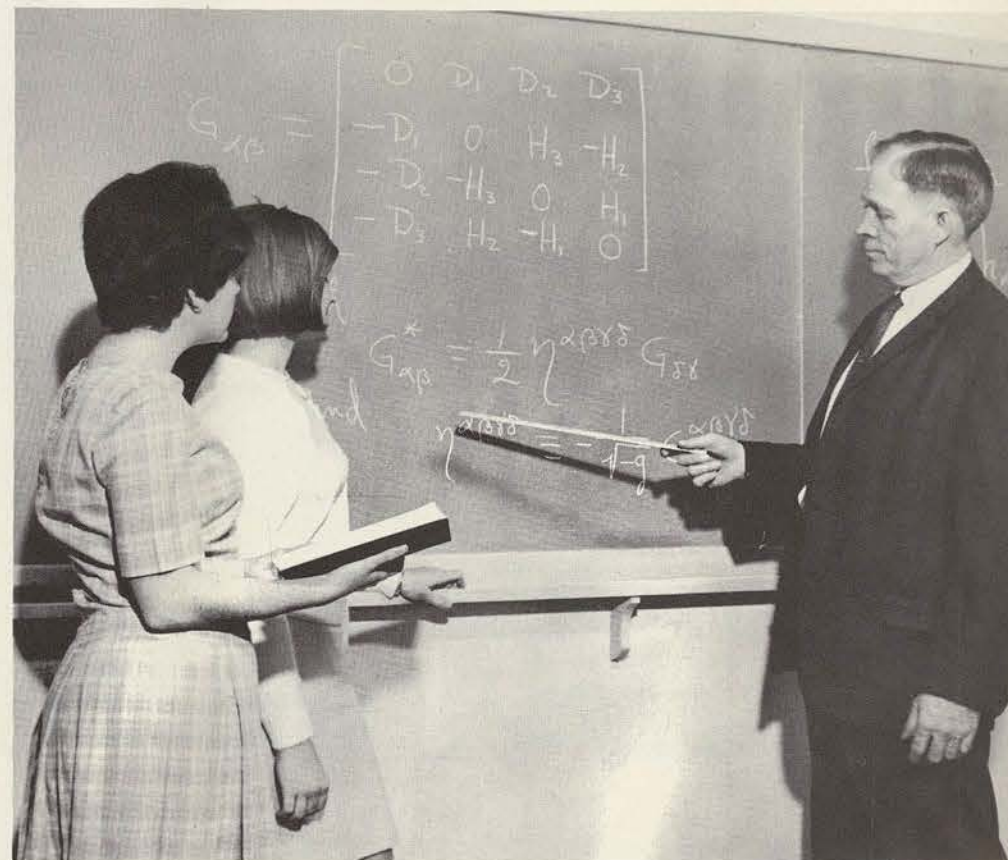

The department also offers special courses in connection with the Honors Program which was begun in the Spring of 1966.

Physics Curriculum Emphasizes Foundation

The Department of Physics offers courses of study leading to the bachelor of arts and the bachelor of science degrees in physics or general science or science teaching.

Graduate students may work toward the master of arts and the master of science degrees in physics and general science and to the master of science degree in science education.

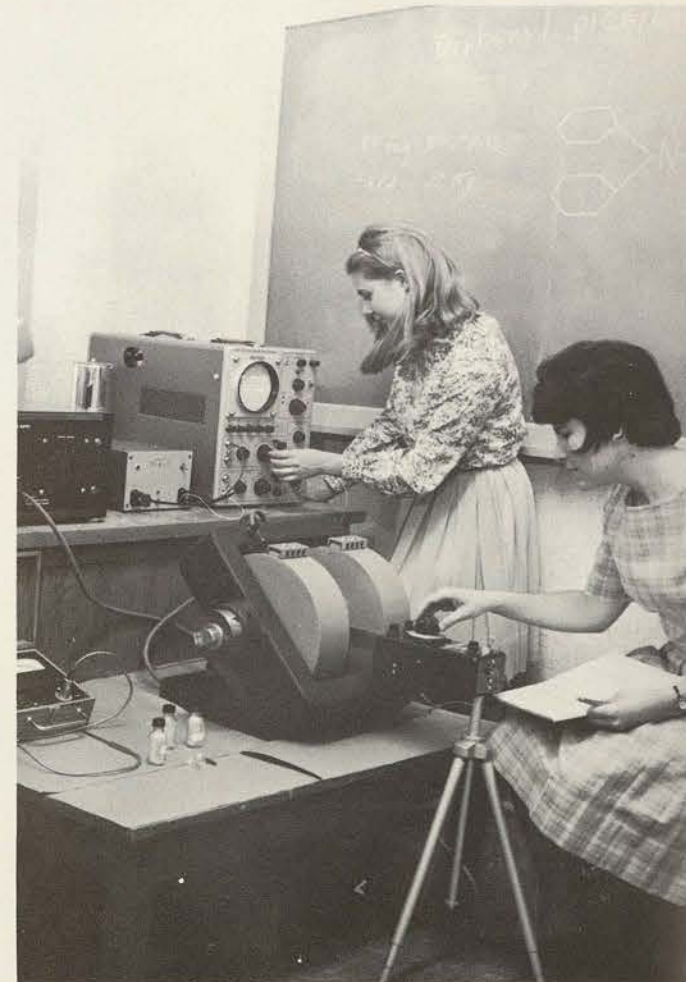

The physics curriculum is planned to give the physics majors a sound working foundation for any field. Both mathematical theory and laboratory practice are emphasized in each student's training.

Dr. Jesse T. Matthews, chairman of the Department of Physics, discusses a matrix in theoretical physics with Margaret Kutzer, left, and Margie Sebesta.

Careers in Five Areas Open to Sociologists

Dr. Reba M. Bucklew, professor of sociology, conducts an informal discussion on the problems of social welfare.

A chart showing population rise is displayed by Dr. Ethelyn C. Davis, department chairman, to members of her contemporary sociology class.

Students in the Department of Sociology may work toward a bachelor of science, bachelor of arts, and master of arts degrees. The student can look forward to a career in any of five fields — social work, religious work, industrial relations, social welfare and teaching.

The University was the first in Texas to offer a planned sequence in pre-professional social work.

The department is affiliated with and approved by the Council on Social Work Education, a national organization. The senior student meeting departmental requirements participates in case work in the Dallas-Fort Worth areas or Gainesville, if she is in the social work sequence.

Students have the opportunity to participate in the Sociological Society, which has various speakers and activities throughout the year. Juniors and seniors with a B-average are eligible for membership in Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honor society, formed to stimulate scholarship.

Professional Education

The Department of Speech provides outstanding professional education in all speech-related careers: drama-interpretation, radio-tv, speech education, speech and hearing therapy, education for the deaf, and all areas of drama.

Students may conduct investigation and do graduate research in any of these areas of speech. Students may also work in educational television.

The department possesses a highly trained and experienced staff, physical facilities and equipment that meet the new and highest standards in all areas and a spirit of curiosity and serious purpose in the department as a whole that will stimulate each student to her best efforts.

Students have the opportunity to participate in productions of the Children's Theater. Zeta Phi Eta, the drama-speech professional fraternity, strives to further interests in the field of drama and speech excellence.

Two programs are available for students at the Speech and Hearing Clinic, which is a part of the Department of Speech. These programs include Education of the Deaf and Speech and Hearing Therapy. These programs are designed to prepare students for work with individuals having all types of communication disorders.

Before earning her degree, therapy majors have clinical experiences at both the TWU clinic and clinics in Dallas or Fort Worth. Students majoring in Education of the Deaf do student teaching in the Dallas Pilot Institute for the Deaf.

Education Combines Liberal, Professional Courses

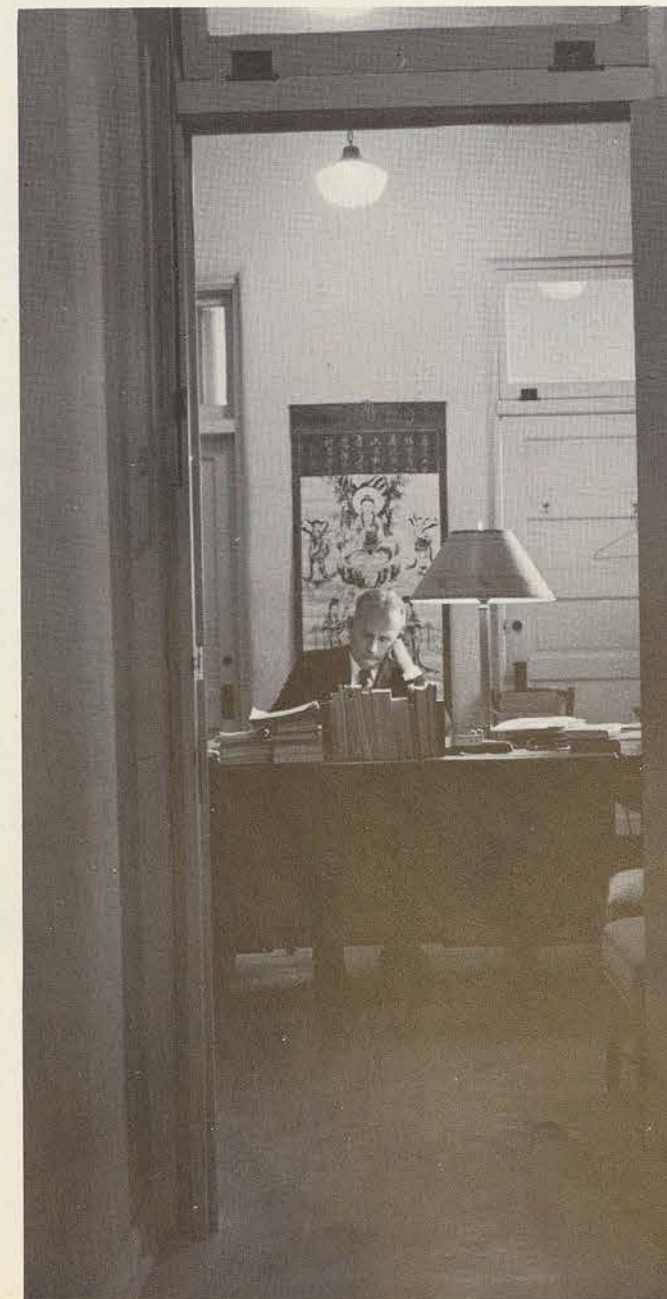

Dr. Ted W. Booker, dean of the College of Education, discusses a teaching program with a student.

The College of Education offers excellent professional education courses combined with a superior liberal arts background. A specially designed program carefully integrated with various subject matter fields makes students educated in the department in great demand as teachers. Professional courses are offered by a faculty with graduate degrees from the best universities in the nation.

Included in the curriculums are courses required for practically all teaching certificates in Texas and for bachelor's and master's degrees. The University offers exceptional opportunities for teachers in elementary and special education.

A modern demonstration school is maintained to give laboratory experience to students in teacher-education. Off-campus public schools also serve as centers for student teaching.

The College of Education has active chapters of the national honorary society, Pi Lambda Theta; the Association for Childhood Education International; the Student Education Association, and the Council for Exceptional Children.

Departments of Art and Music Comprise

Dean Casey discusses art techniques with students.

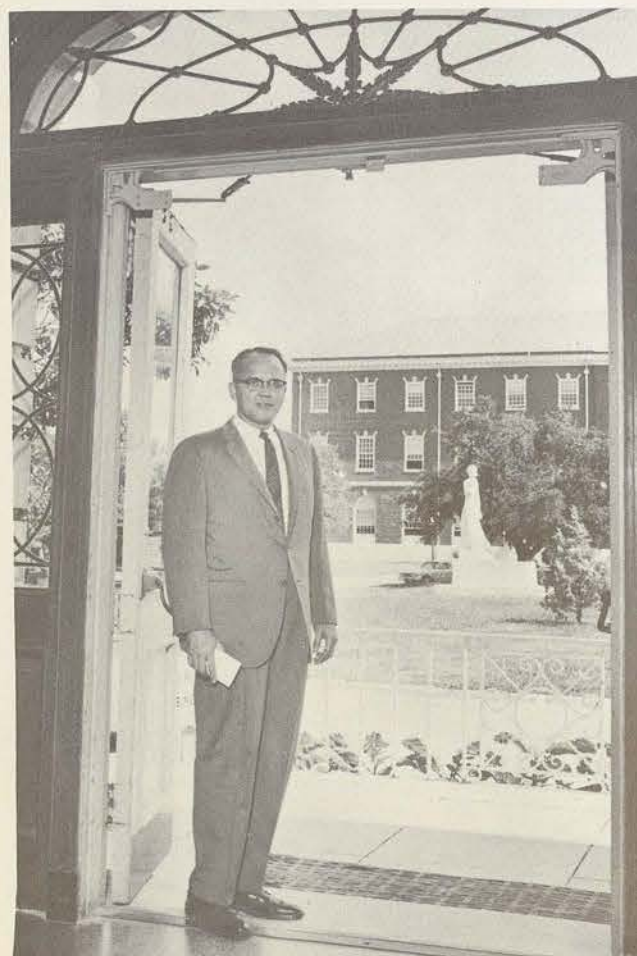

The College of Fine Arts, composed of the art department and the music department, provides professional training and experience and offers appreciation of the arts at a high cultural level. Students may work towards B.A., B.S., and M.A. degrees in either field.

The Department of Art is rich in terms of a highly trained art faculty, a three-story building devoted entirely to art, and numerous art courses planned to meet each student's needs. The eight professors have studied or traveled in the United States, Europe, Africa, Mexico or Asia, and all are professionals in their own fields.

TWU was the first institution in Texas to offer a degree in music. The department offers programs in music theory, history, voice, piano, organ, all band and orchestral instruments, conducting, and many more. It also offers practical experience through memberships in the Lass-O Band, Serenaders, University Chorus and Modern Choir.

The Department of Music is one of the few in the country to offer courses leading to a degree in music therapy. Music therapists receive sound musical background and gain knowledge and training in the clinical use of music.

Dr. Warren V. Casey, dean of the College of Fine Arts, stands in the Art Building doorway.

Learning cookery techniques is one facet of home economics education.

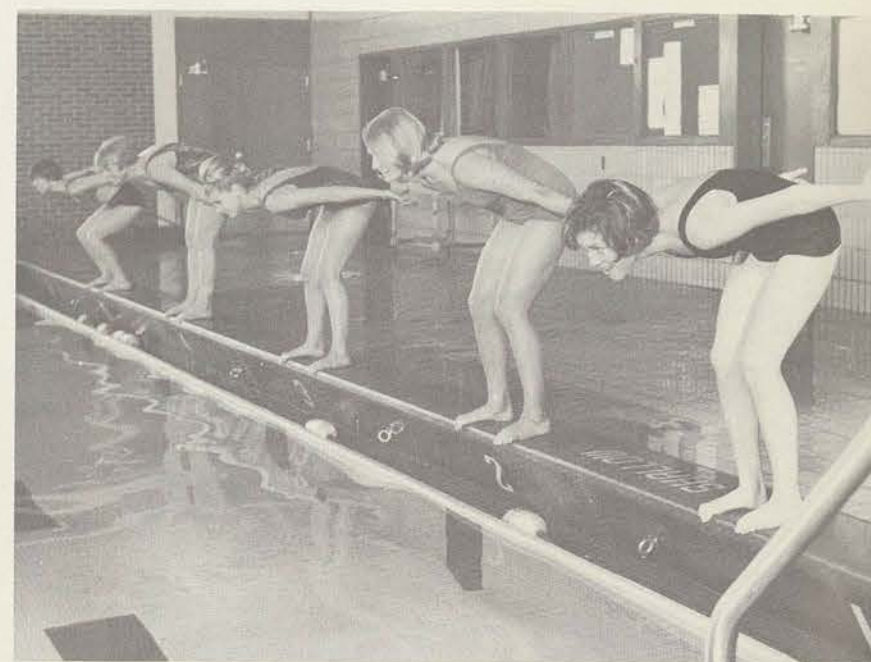

The College of Household Arts and Sciences offers bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees in 12 areas of work. It also offers advanced study, including the master of arts and master of science, doctoral degrees in the different subjects of home economics, and the doctor of education and doctor of philosophy degrees in home economics education.

TWU was the first institution of higher learning in the South and Southwest and one of the first in the nation to include home economics as a distinct curriculum. Unique training opportunities are offered to the student through a variety of connected activities in which the student may participate. These activities include Phi Upsilon Omicron, the Child Development Club, Clothing and Textile Club, Dietetics Club, Home Economics Club, and Home Economics Education Club.

TWU is the recognized leader for graduate education in home economics in Texas.

The College of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation has pioneered in promoting the professional education of leaders, and it offers unparalleled opportunities for experiences and study for leadership in these fields.

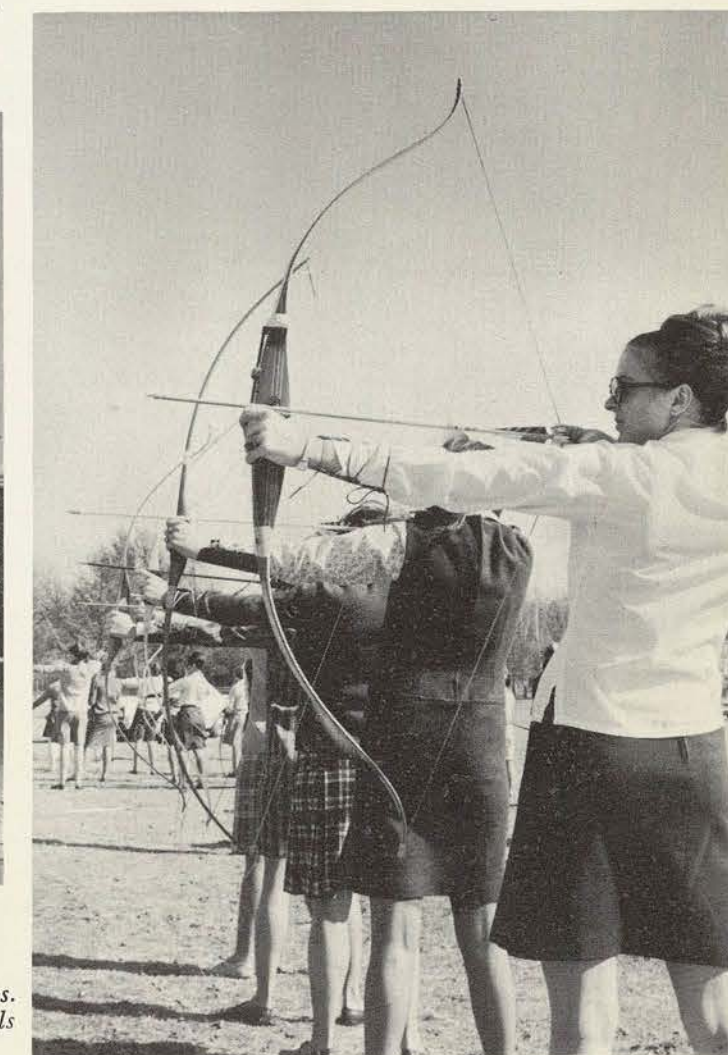

Besides the bachelor's and master's degrees, a doctor of philosophy or education can be obtained by the student in health, physical education, and recreation. Four class hours in the college are required for graduation for non-majors. For majors there are specialized courses in dance, recreation, recreation therapy and driver education, among many others.

The staff is unsurpassed by any other college or university, facilities are among the most modern and complete found on any campus, dance education has not been excelled by any other college or university in the country, and demands for graduates of the college come from all over the U.S. and foreign countries.

TWU was the first in Texas to offer a degree in physical education, the first in the South to offer a degree in recreation therapy, and one of the first three colleges in the nation to offer a degree in recreation.

College of Nursing Degree Program Outstanding

The purpose of the College of Nursing is to prepare nurses who can care for the sick, aid in rehabilitating the handicapped, and promote health. The curriculum is designed as an integrated general and professional one throughout the four years, balancing offerings in the nursing major with offerings in general education.

Emphasis is placed on the student's learning to think critically, to communicate purposefully, and to relate to others effectively. Courses in clinical nursing are offered in the hospitals of the Dallas County Hospital District and the Texas Medical Center in Houston.

The program of the TWU College of Nursing is pointed toward the development of a superior professional nurse. Opportunities for graduates are limitless. Upon the completion of the four-year bachelor of science program, a student is prepared to accept a staff position in any field of nursing.

In the nursing laboratory in Lowry Hall, freshman students have learning experiences prior to their studies at the centers.

Practical nursing students operate hospital equipment as part of their clinical work.

Students learn there are many phases of work involved in providing proper patient care.

The Practical Nursing program prepares qualified candidates to give basic bedside nursing care as trained practical nurses. The curriculum is designed to enable the student to gain an understanding of the principles applicable to basic nursing and to develop skill as a practitioner in caring for the sick.

The vocational or practical nurse is a member of the health team who assumes responsibility for direct nursing care such as giving treatments, bathing and feeding patients, and working in a team relationship with registered nurses and physicians.

In the second and third semesters, the student is assigned to clinical practice at Flow Memorial Hospital and Denton State School. The courses are related directly to the clinical practice in the patient area.

After satisfactory completion of the one-year course, the practical nurse is eligible to take the examination offered by the Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners.

School of OT Only One Accredited in Southwest

The School of Occupational Therapy at TWU is the only accredited school of OT in the Southwest. It is also one of the top-rated schools in the United States.

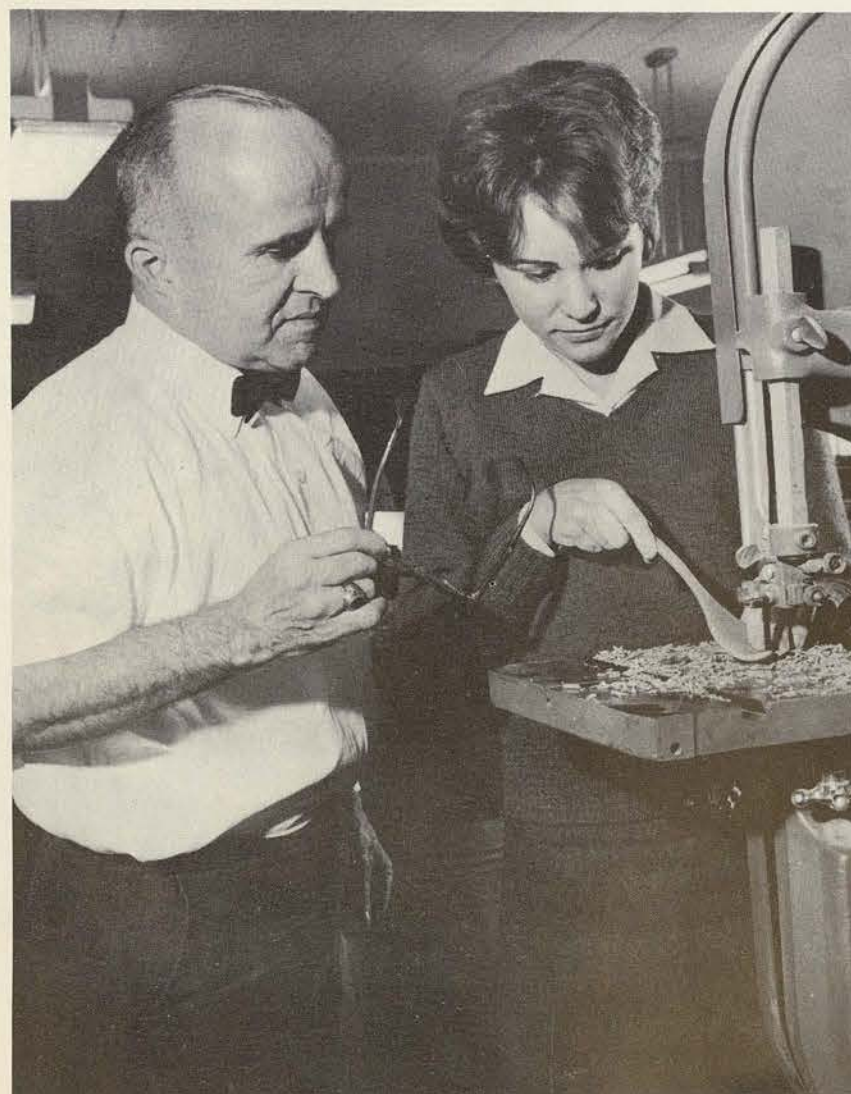

The professional occupational therapy courses are integrated with a broad background of liberal arts studies. The curriculum is comprised of courses in biological sciences, behavioral sciences, treatment media, theory and principles of occupational therapy, and medical courses.

Medical courses and correlated occupational therapy courses are given in the Texas Medical Center, Houston, utilizing the University's own residential and instructional buildings and many other medical center resources.

Actual experience with patients is planned on an individual basis for each student's clinical internship. Students spend nine months in various approved Texas hospitals and upon the successful completion of all academic and clinical course work are eligible to take the American Occupational Therapy Registration Examination.

Each Phase of Physical Therapy Program Planned

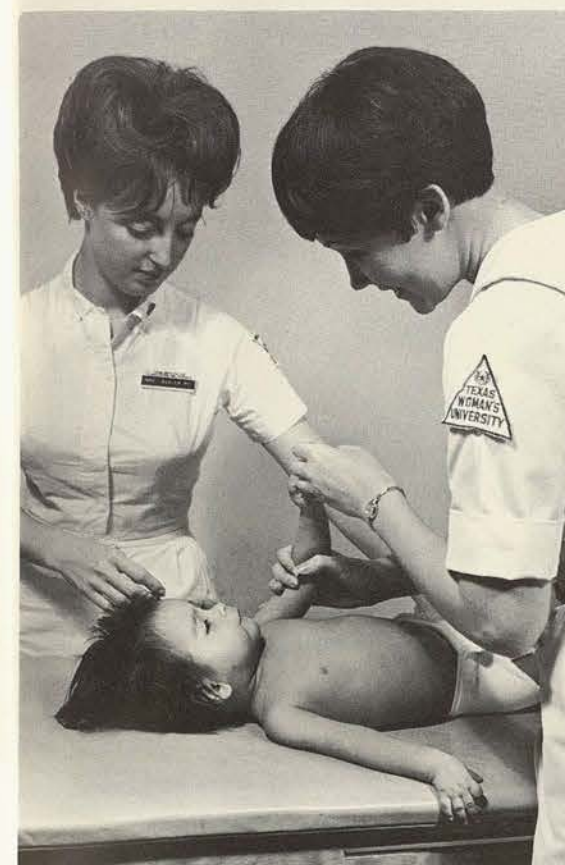

The Physical Therapy program at TWU stresses fundamental courses in basic behavioral and communication sciences to prepare the graduate to meet the challenge of increasingly complex health care needs of a growing population. Clinical sciences are offered early in the curriculum to provide a foundation of practical experience for the appreciation and integration of basic principles.

Every phase of the physical therapy program is carefully planned. Part of the curriculum is conducted in the modern facilities of the TWU Houston Clinical Center. The last semester of the senior year is devoted to clinical education in physical therapy programs in Texas where the student has the opportunity to synthesize technical skills and basic knowledge under the supervision of qualified physical therapists.

The bachelor of science degree is awarded after successful completion of the program. A wide variety of practice is available to the graduate physical therapist.

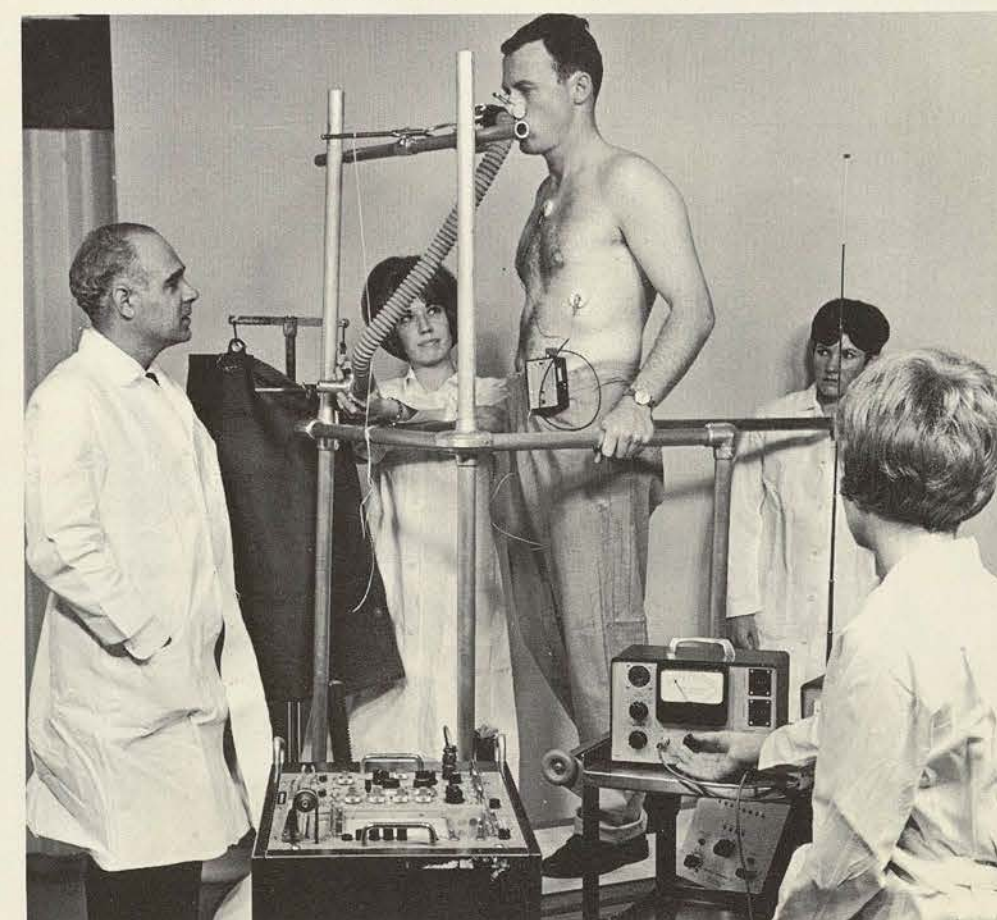

In the Physical Therapy clinic at the Houston Center, a student plays with a child who is strapped to a tilt board as an exercise in standing balance.

Physical therapist aids a student in giving range of motion exercises to a child's arm.

Library Science Graduates Fill Numerous Positions ALA Rates Bralley Library 141 Per Cent Adequate

Library science students have their own building facility and library.

Graduates of the School of Library Science are filling positions of importance and responsibility nationally and internationally.

All members of the faculty are experts in their field, having had training and experience in the best universities and libraries in this country and abroad. The library has personal collection of more than 10,000 books, a wide variety of pamphlets on professional subjects, and microcard and microfilm machines for necessary readings.

A bachelor's degree, a master of arts degree, or a master of library science degree are available. The first two years are spent in acquiring a general education and in getting an overview of librarianship as a profession.

In professional preparation, students have actual experience in a public college, school or special library in Denton or in a nearby city. An extra-curricular organization in library science is Alpha Beta Alpha, a national library science fraternity.

Students utilize the LS library which contains numerous reference works, biographies and other volumes used in their courses.

Jan Rozdil observes Jan Crenshaw as she uses the microfilm machine to study works on the film.

Students select their needed books from the open library stacks.

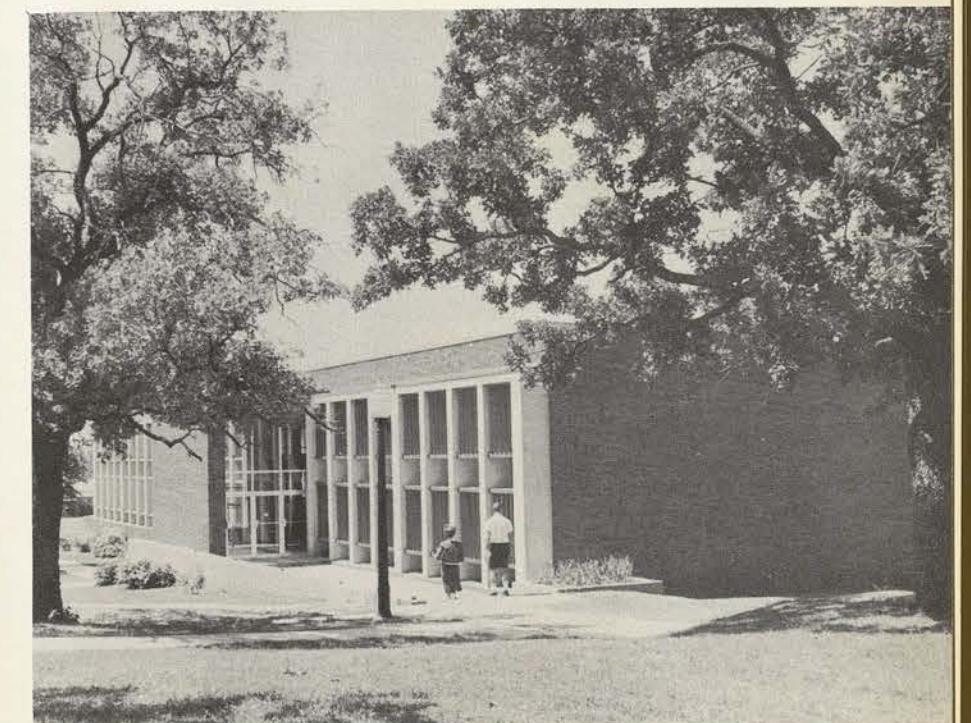

Bralley Memorial Library was placed in the top echelon among the 22 libraries of tax-supported institutions in Texas this year by the American Library Association. TWU was rated 141 per cent adequate, with only one other school, the University of Texas, being rated higher with 150 per cent.

The accrediting standards of the ALA are based on a ratio of the number of books to the number of students. According to Dr. Ivan L. Schulze, the library had a total of 288,160 volumes in August, 1966, to an approximate enrollment of 4,000 students. Periodical subscriptions total 1,350 and the figures have been steadily increasing.

Two special book collections are also a part of the library. The largest of these is the Woman's Collection which contains biographies and stories about women and their accomplishments. The Texas Collection is not as large, but it includes many valuable or rare volumes dealing with Texas history.

A reciprocal agreement for use of the libraries also exists between TWU and North Texas State University, whereby students may use either library.

Dr. Ivan L. Schulze, University Librarian.

Research Institute Conducts Numerous Projects

The Texas Woman's University Research Institute is staffed with a group of scientists, technologists, and graduate assistants who carry on fundamental and applied research in the field of nutrition, textile sciences, and household furnishings and equipment. The research, which is sponsored by federal, state, and commercial agencies, includes approximately 25 individual projects.

Nutrition research has many facets — the growth and development of children, the best plans for maintaining good health in the entire family, methods of feeding institutional subjects properly, ways of maintaining physical and skeletal integrity of the astronaut, and the proper composition of the ration for the American fighting man.

Nutrition research projects are sponsored by such agencies as the federal government, through the Head Start program; the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the United States Army; the State of Texas through special legislative appropriations, and various commercial associations in fields of general interest.

The nutrition faculty includes, along with graduate assistants and technologists, Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director; Dr. Fred B. Vogt, professor of space medicine; George P. Vose, professor of radiological research; Dr. Ralph E. Pyke, assoc. professor of nutrition research; Dr. Alice Milner, assoc. professor of clinical nutrition; Dr. Betty Alford, research associate in nutrition and dietetics, and Dr. Elsa Arciniegas Dozier, research associate in bionutrition. Dr. Conrad L. Kinard serves as a visiting professor in internal medicine and cardiology, and Robert M. Lockwood as visiting professor in radiology.

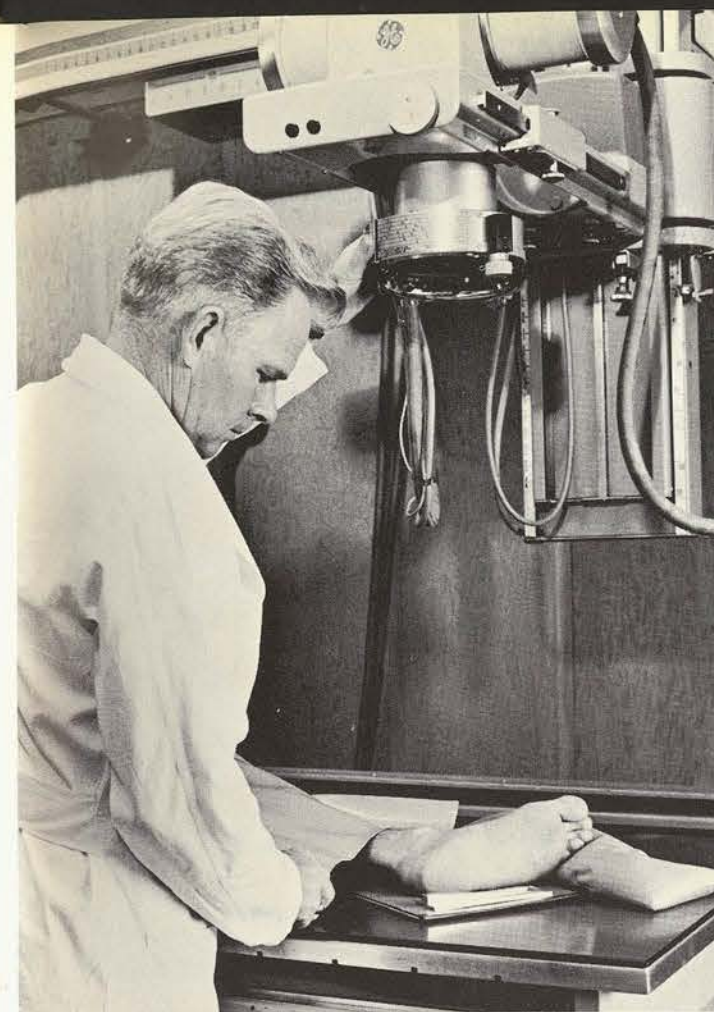

Dr. Fred B. Vogt, a TWU professor of space medicine, administers a "tilt" table test to a bed rest subject after 30 days of supine horizontal recumbency, as one test for cardiovascular effects of immobilization. The "tilt" table test is given to astronauts immediately before and after orbital flight.

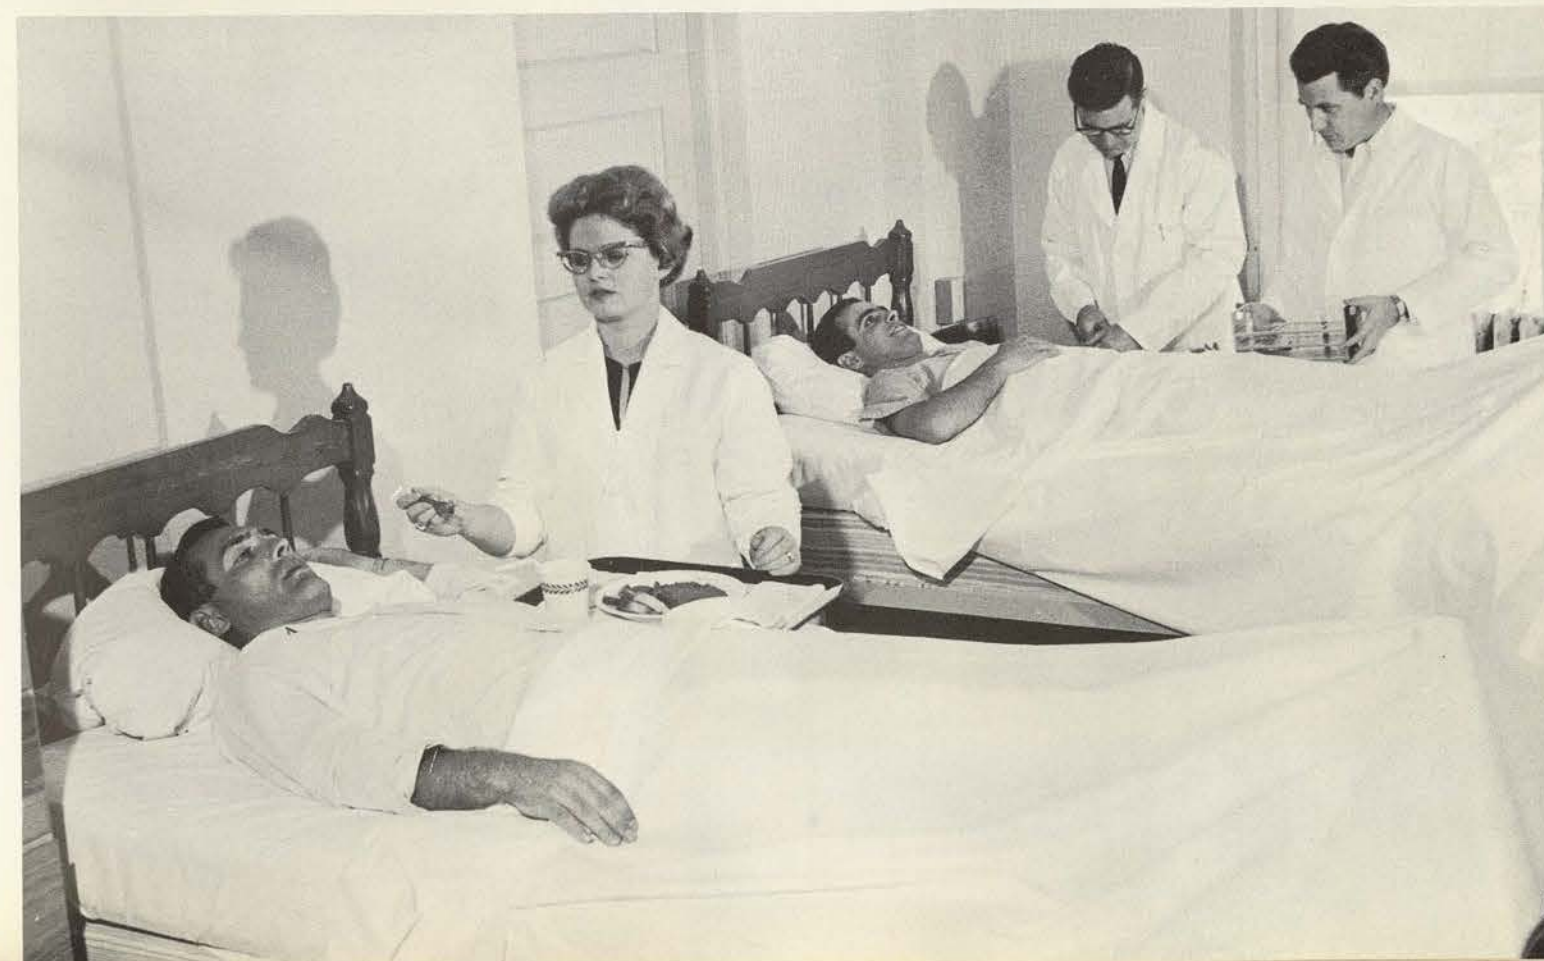

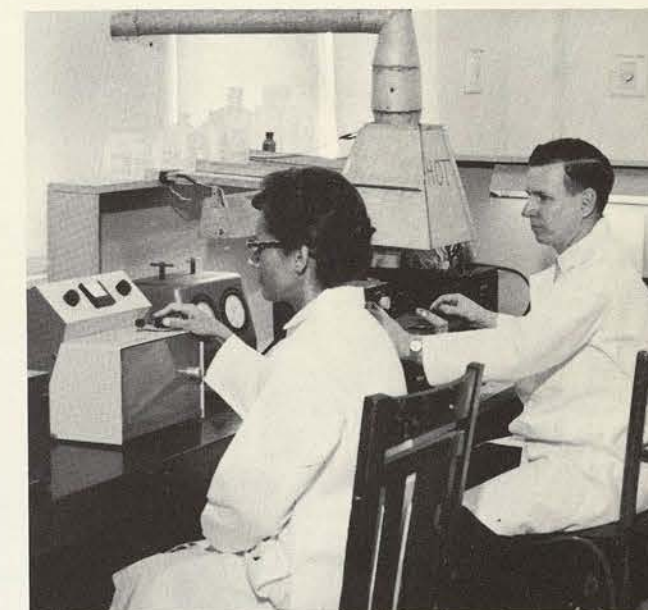

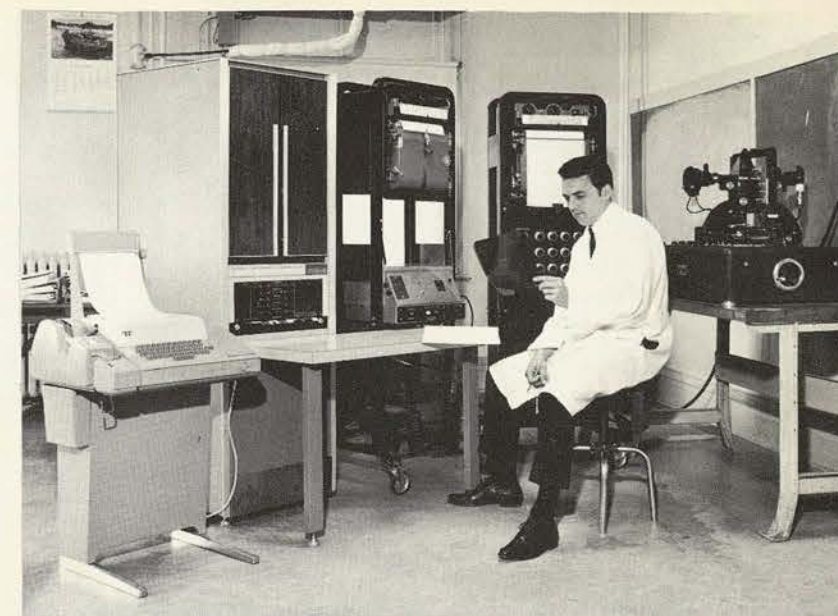

Dr. Conrad L. Kinard is a consultant in internal medicine and cardiology on the nutrition staff.

Leo Wade, M.S., administers a blood volume test to a bed rest subject following a 30-day period of bed rest recumbency.

Charles H. Cawley, research assistant in detergency, conducts an experiment.

Research in Textile Science Extensive Enterprise

Dr. Laverne Bandy Thomas, associate in detergency research, holds a TWU laundry test assembly designed for measuring soil removal, whiteness retention, and fabric strength preservation.

Dr. Elsa Arciniegas Dozier, research associate in bio-nutrition, directs graduate research assistants in methods of analysis for nitrogen, nitrogenous products, and steroids. Assistants are, left to right, Patricia Snyder; Padma Umashathy, India, who is partially hidden; Berta Brightman, and Marcia Clifton. On the extreme right is Gene Van Hooser, a bio-nutrition research technologist.

Research in Textile Science at the TWU Research Institute is a very extensive enterprise, including the conducting of projects on cotton, man-made fibers, and the newer textile finishes for fabrics.

TWU has had a twelve-year association in cotton research with the Southern Utilization Research and Development Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Of three studies conducted under this sponsorship, all have been in the area of outdoor cotton fabrics. For six years the institute has been involved in a research project on men's white shirts, which has included wear and laundering. The study of permanent press or durable press finish has involved research on men's and boy's pants and women's dress fabrics, conducted in the Cotton Utilization and Finishing Laboratories at the institute.

TWU research in laundry methods has gained world wide fame. The TWU Laundry Test Assembly is used by more than 1,300 commercial laundries in the United States, by the U.S. Navy, and by three foreign countries. The test assembly consists of standardized test pieces for measuring strength preservation, whiteness retention, and soil removal efficiency, sewn together with a numbered fabric for keeping track of the number of launderings which have been given to the group of test fabrics.

The staff for textile research includes the following faculty members: Dr. Ramon M. Esteve, professor of textile research; Dr. Elizabeth Thomas, assoc. professor of textile research; Dr. Esther Roberts Broome, associate in textile science research and Dr. LaVerne Bandy Thomas and Charles Cawley, associates in textiles and detergency research.

Along with numerous other grants awarded the TWU Research Institute this year, a research contract at an estimated cost of $95,000 was awarded to them by NASA in March for the continuation of the program of research designed to determine the effect of weightlessness and the confinement associated with the cockpit of an Apollo spacecraft on the status of bone demineralization of the astronauts.

Delphi Society is an all-campus service organization whose membership is limited to 10 seniors. The society encourages scholarship, leadership, and service.

This year Delphi sponsored a tutoring service where students who needed extra assistance in any area of study could secure a tutor. The Tri-C program where students were the guests at a professor's home and discussions were conducted was also sponsored by the society. Tri-C represented Controversy plus Conversation plus Coffee.

The Knowledge Bowl was a special project of Delphi. Based upon the General Electric College Bowl, students participating were asked questions about history, chemistry, literature, music, and home economics.

All-Campus Honor Societies Promote Scholarship

The all-campus honorary society, Alpha Chi seeks to stimulate scholarly development in its members and to encourage graduate work. At one meeting Dr. Harral Landry discussed the characteristics of a graduate school.

The major emphasis of Alpha Chi is to have the new members each year write a paper for the Alpha Chi convention. Several delegates attended the national convention this year. Their papers centered around the theme, "The Search for Truth."

Alpha Lambda Delta, an all-campus honorary fraternity for freshmen, has as its goal to promote intelligent living with an appreciation of the love of study and to promote scholarship among freshmen women.

Recognition is given to freshmen students who have a 2.5 average for either semester of their first year.

Through a tea for high school valedictorians and salutatorians, the chapter encouraged freshmen women to strive for scholarship. Members also worked with Delphi, Alpha Chi, and other societies in serving as student tutors.

At meetings, speeches given by prominent women in fields of business, science, etc., emphasized to members the importance of a good education and the unlimited vocations open to women.

Membership in Honor Women Coveted Honor

Patricia Bone, left, meets Sherry Moon coming in the dormitory at a late hour. Both are Senior Honor Women and may regulate their own dormitory hours if they maintain specific requirements.

Membership in Senior Honor Women is a coveted honor, based upon academic achievement and exemplary citizenship.

When a University woman becomes a senior and knows herself to have a general average of "B" and an unblemished citizenship record for three years at TWU, she may apply for membership in the group from the Dean of Women.

If she meets the requirements, she is given a key to her dormitory and is allowed to regulate her own hours as long as she maintains the "B" average and an excellent citizenship rating.

Who's Who Laurels

Scholarship
Leadership Citizenship
Cooperation in educational and extracurricular activities
Promise of future usefulness

On the basis of the above criteria, 36 students were selected by a student-faculty committee to be named to WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES. Each department had nominated its candidates to the committee, and upon selection, names were sent to the organization's headquarters for approval. Those selected will find their names published in the national periodical published by WHO'S WHO and are eligible to use the placement service of the organization.

Hundreds of schools across the nation participate in the program. Thus the honor is twofold: the distinction is recognized nationally and locally.

The 1967 Daedalian presents with pleasure those students who have merited selection to WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES.

Cherrie Lea Rose

Cherrie Rose, a music education major, served as president of Sigma Alpha Iota and manager of the Choraliers. She had directed music for Stunts, University Revue, Corn Huskin', and Senior Breakfast productions. Cherrie was secretary of the senior class, and she was a member of Chaparral Literary-Social Club and the Senior Honor Women.

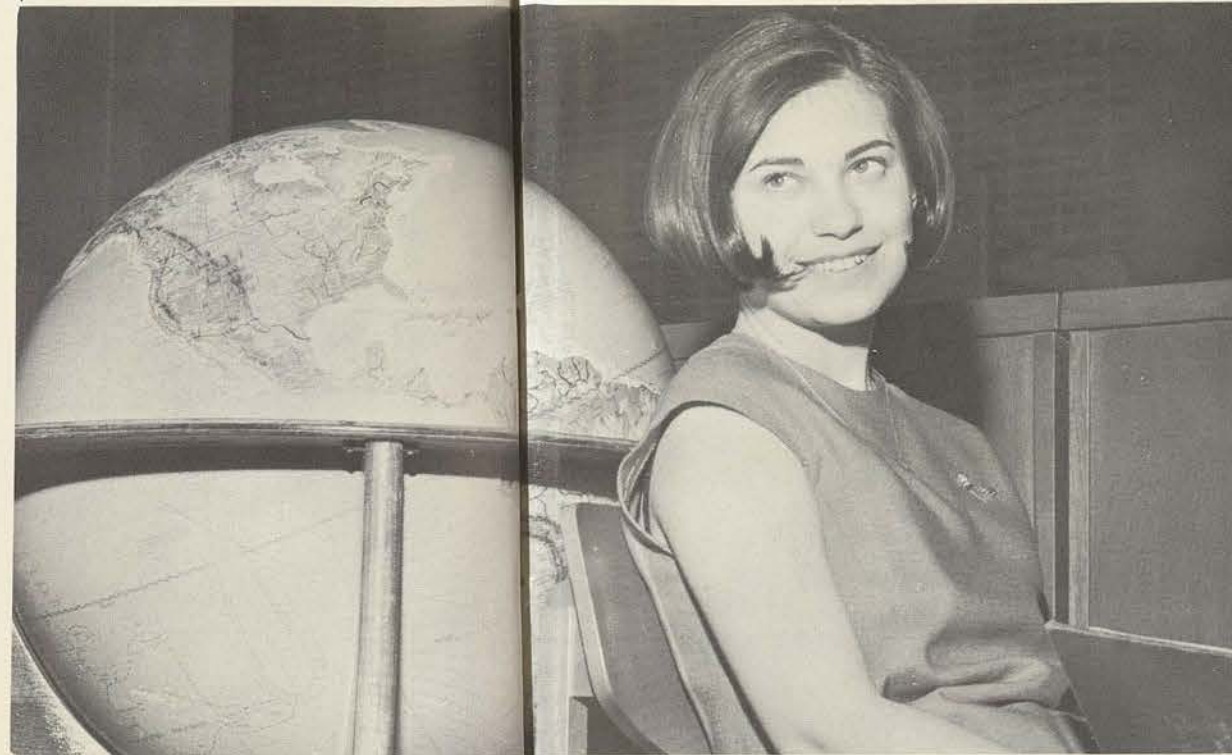

Priscilla Lovelace

Priscilla Lovelace, a home economics education major, was president of Phi Upsilon Omicron, secretary of the Home Economics Club, and a member of the Senior Honor Women, Student Education Association, and Round Table. She received the Waco Rotary Club scholarship and the Mary Gibbs Jones scholarship.

Judy Rosemary Nicholas

Judy Nicholas, a history-government major, was the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association Central Agency director, a member of Delphi Society, and president of Delian Literary-Social Club. She was chairman of the Knowledge Bowl and a Senior Honor Woman. Judy was CGA secretary her junior year, and treasurer of her sophomore class.

Aileene Lockhart

A speech and drama major, Aileene Lockhart plans to work on her master's degree in technical theater. A class beauty finalist three years, she also was a member of Chaparral Literary-Social Club and vice-president of Zeta Phi Eta. Aileene enjoys woodcrafts, plays the ukulele, and likes to folk dance.

Patricia Ann Jackson

Patricia Jackson, a library science major, was president of Alpha Beta Alpha and historian of Sigma Tau Delta. She was literary editor of the Daedalian Quarterly, a Senior Honor Woman, and a member of Phi Alpha Theta and Alpha Chi.

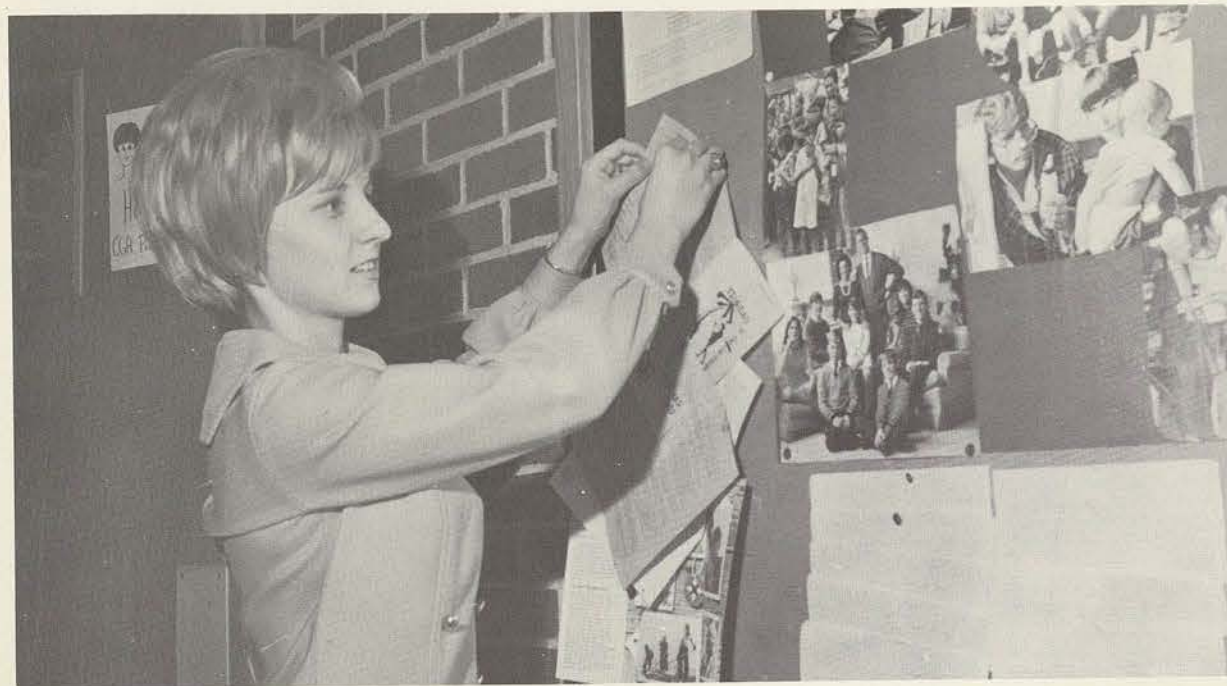

Nancy Lowrey

An advertising design major, Nancy Lowrey has constructed the set designs for several University productions, including Stunts, University Revue, and the Opera Workshop. She also has drawn cartoons and posters for several campus activities. A Senior Honor Woman, Nancy was a member of Delta Phi Delta and Chaparral Literary-Social Club.

Sherry Diane Moon

A sociology major, Sherry Moon served as president of the Sociological Society and as vice-president of Alpha Kappa Delta. She also was secretary of the Citizenship League and a Senior Honor Woman. Sherry is planning to be married this summer, after which she plans to work in the public health department in Bryan, her hometown. Some of Sherry's favorite pastimes are stamp collecting, badminton, and swimming.

Linda Kay Johnson

A sociology major, Kay Johnson will spend the summer in Europe with the Choraliers. She then would like to work with child welfare in a western state. President of Alpha Kappa Delta, Kay was a member of the Sociological Society and a student assistant in the sociology department. She did her field work at the Denton State School.

Adele Daily

A secretarial administration and economics major, Adele Daily was secretary of Round Table, of the Professional Business Women, and of Athenaeum Literary-Social Club. Adele was a Senior Honor Woman and a member of Sigma Pi Beta and Tau Pi Phi. She received the National Secretaries Association scholarship.

Barbara Ann Jablonski

A journalism major, Bobbie Jablonski plans both marriage and a career. She was editor of the Daily Lass-O, and a member of the President's Cabinet, Theta Sigma Phi, and Chaparral Literary-Social Club. She was a delegate to the Associated Collegiate Press Convention and was a Senior Honor Woman.

Donalyn Elizabeth Bush

A speech therapy major, Doe Bush plans to work at the Sunnyside Speech and Hearing Center in Port Arthur. Doe was president of Sigma Alpha Eta, the Aglaian Literary-Social Club, and her sophomore class. She was marshall of Zeta Phi Eta and was named outstanding speech student her freshman year.

Janet Mary Rozdil

A library science major, Jan Rozdil hopes to travel for the University. She was vice-president of the Campus Government Association and was a member of Alpha Beta Alpha and Chaparral Literary-Social Club. She was Student Finance Council president and a delegate to the Model United Nations.

Whitney Vickers McMath

Following her graduation in January, Whitney Vickers married John McMath. A journalism and English major, she served as president of Theta Sigma Phi and was a reporter and editorial page editor of the Daily Lass-O. A Senior Honor Woman, Whitney was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Sigma Tau Delta, Chaparral Literary-Social Club, and Delphi Society.

Ellen Ruth Fisher

An English major, Ellen Fisher participated in the activities of Sigma Tau Delta and Phi Sigma Iota. She served as president of the Student Council of Religious Activities for two years. Ellen was a member of the President's Council and a Senior Honor Woman.

Cecile Nichole Wolf

A nursing major, Nicky Wolf was president of her junior class and vice-president of her sophomore class at the Dallas Clinical Center. Her senior year she served as the center's CGA representative. Nicky was a member of the American Nursing Students Association and the Texas Nursing Students Association.

Carol Ann Sebesta

A nursing major, Carol Ann Sebesta was president of the senior class at the Houston Clinical Center. At the center she was also a member of the Emanons Choir, the Texas Nursing Students Association, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Senior Honor Women. Carol served as secretary of the center's committee to establish a TWU chapter of Sigma Theta Tau.

Marilyn Sue Morris

Marilyn Morris, a nursing major, served as vice-president of the Dallas Clinical Center residence and was chairman of the center's judiciary committee. Marilyn was a member of Delphi Society and Athenaeum Literary-Social Club.

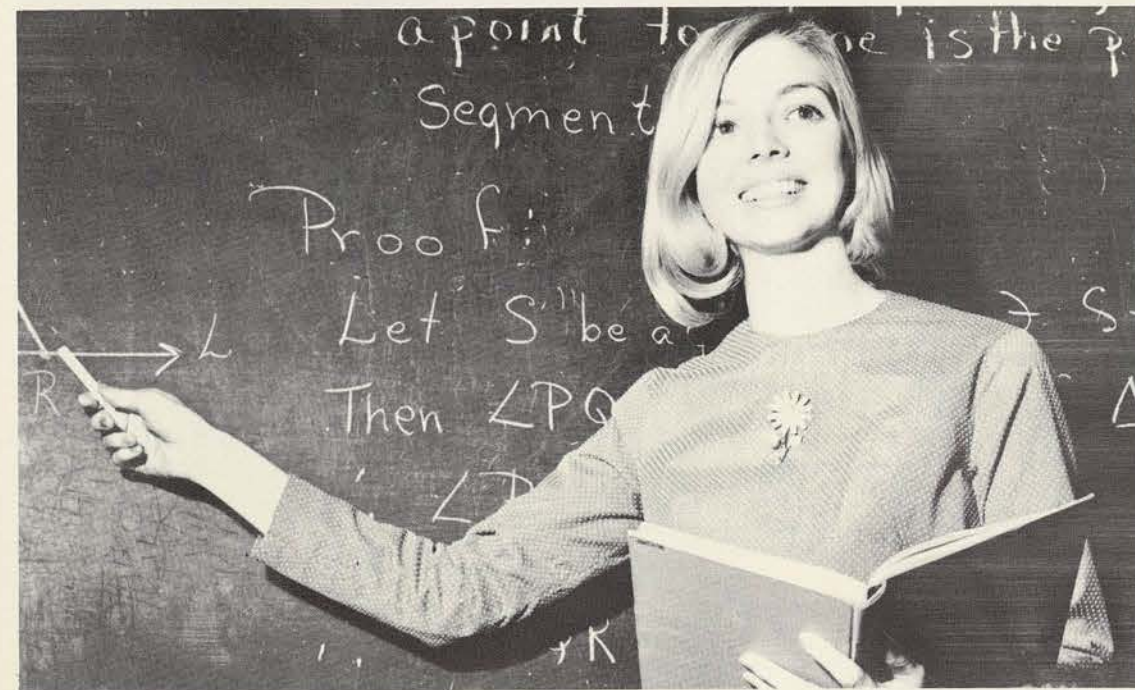

Mary Clare Johnson

An occupational therapy student, Mary Clare Johnson served as secretary of the Occupational Therapy Club and was a member of Phi Epsilon Theta. Mary Clare was also a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, and she was a Senior Honor Woman.

Janie Lee Wellborn

A mathematics major, Janie Wellborn hopes to teach junior high school mathematics in Colorado. She served as president of Chaparral Literary-Social Club and as vice-president of Pi Lambda Theta. She was a member of the E. V. White Mathematics Club, Alpha Lambda Delta, and the Redbud Pageant committee. Her hobbies include knitting, sewing, and listening to music.

Marjorie Carol Paben

A health, physical education and recreation major, Mert Paben would like to work toward her master's degree and then teach in a high school or college. Mert was president of the Women's Recreation Association and chairman of the Gold Rush committee. She also participated on several extramural teams, including hockey, basketball, and swimming.

Marie McCluskey

Marie McCluskey, a health, physical education and recreation major, has been a board member of the Women's Recreation Association for four years and served as manager of the Hockey Club. A Senior Honor Woman, she also was a class yell leader and a Stunts cast member for four years.

Joane Van Nieuwenhuize

An elementary education major, Joane Van Nieuwenhuize served as president of the Student Education Association and was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Pi Lambda Theta, and the Association of Childhood Education. Among her hobbies are riding and knitting. A Senior Honor Woman, Joane plans to teach in an elementary school in Baytown.

Patricia Sorrels

A journalism and English major, Pat Sorrels was a reporter, religious news editor, and managing editor of the Daily Lass-O. A Senior Honor Woman, Pat served as secretary-treasurer of Theta Sigma Phi and was a member of Sigma Tau Delta and the Choraliers. She is planning to be married after her graduation in August, and would like to teach high school journalism.

Diane Herkenratt

An art and clothing and costume design major, Diane Herkenratt was a member of Delta Phi Delta, the Mademoiselle College Board, and Chaparral Literary-Social Club. She was a member of the Art Club and had several of her works selected for a tour of the country. Diane participated in the Dallas Cone-Titche Show and the Grand Prix Illustration Fair.

Carolyn Ann Wilson

A recreation major, Carolyn Wilson served as senior class historian and as vice-president of both Delphi Society and Alpha Chi. She was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta and used her talents as a cartoonist drawing cartoons for the Daily Lass-O. A Senior Honor Woman, Carolyn was on the Dean's List for four years. She enjoys working with arts and crafts and painting.

Barrie Tolson

Barrie Tolson, a speech and drama education major, plans to teach drama or act with a repertory company. President of Zeta Phi Eta, she was active in many speech productions. Barrie was program chairman of Delphi Society, a member of Chaparral Literary-Social Club, and a Senior Honor Woman. She was technical director of the Knowledge Bowl.

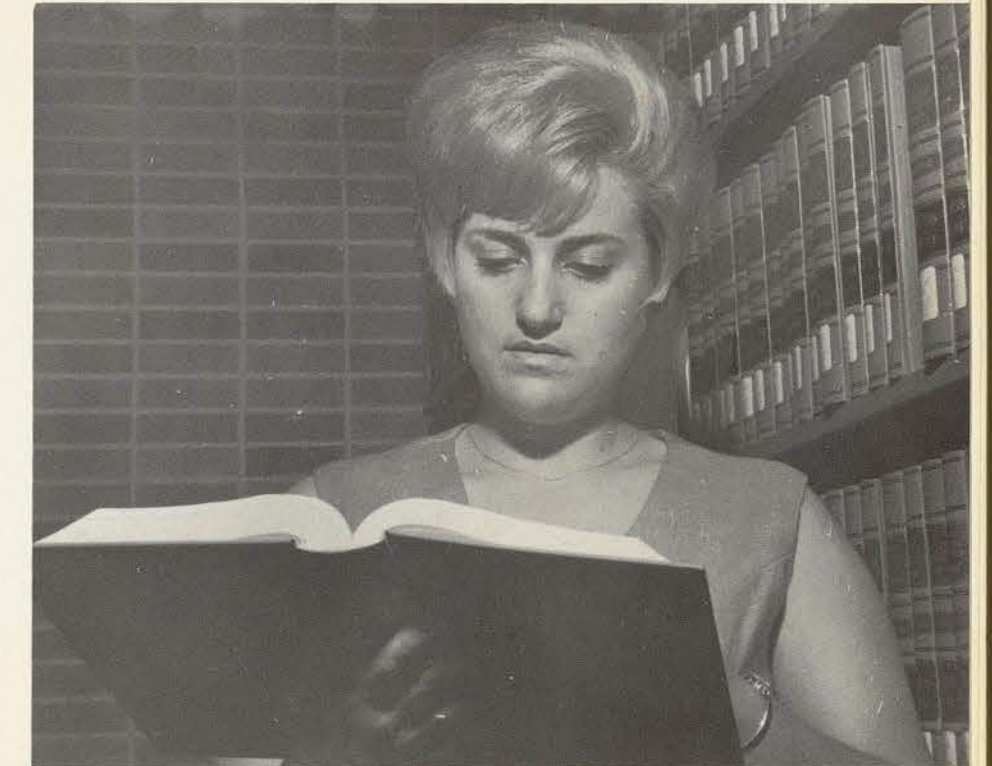

Marsha Madden

A history and English major, Marsha Madden was vice-president of Sigma Tau Delta and secretary-treasurer of Phi Alpha Theta. She was a member of Alpha Chi, the Senior Honor Women, and Alpha Lambda Delta. Her senior year Marsha was nominated for the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship grant. She plans to attend graduate school or to teach.

Johanna Leister

A speech and drama education major, Johanna Leister has acted in numerous student productions. Her junior year she was named Zeta Phi Eta of the Year. She was president of Delphi Society, was 1967 chairman of alumnae correspondents committee, and was the 1965 Aggie Sweetheart. She also was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Chaparral Literary-Social Club, and Senior Honor Women.

Laura Gasaway

A library-science major, Lolly Gasaway plans to work toward her master's degree in library-science and then to enter law school to prepare for a career as a law librarian. Lolly served as CGA parliamentarian, president of Citizenship League, and president of her junior class. She was a member of Delphi Society, Alpha Chi, Alpha Beta Alpha, and Chaparral Literary-Social Club.

Rebecca Nita Stark

A journalism major, Becky Stark served as president of the Campus Government Association and was a member of the President's Cabinet. A Senior Honor Woman, she was vice-president of both Theta Sigma Phi and the Student Press Club of the Southwestern Journalism Congress. Becky was a member of Delphi Society, a Daily Lass-O reporter, and business manager of the 1966 Daedalian.

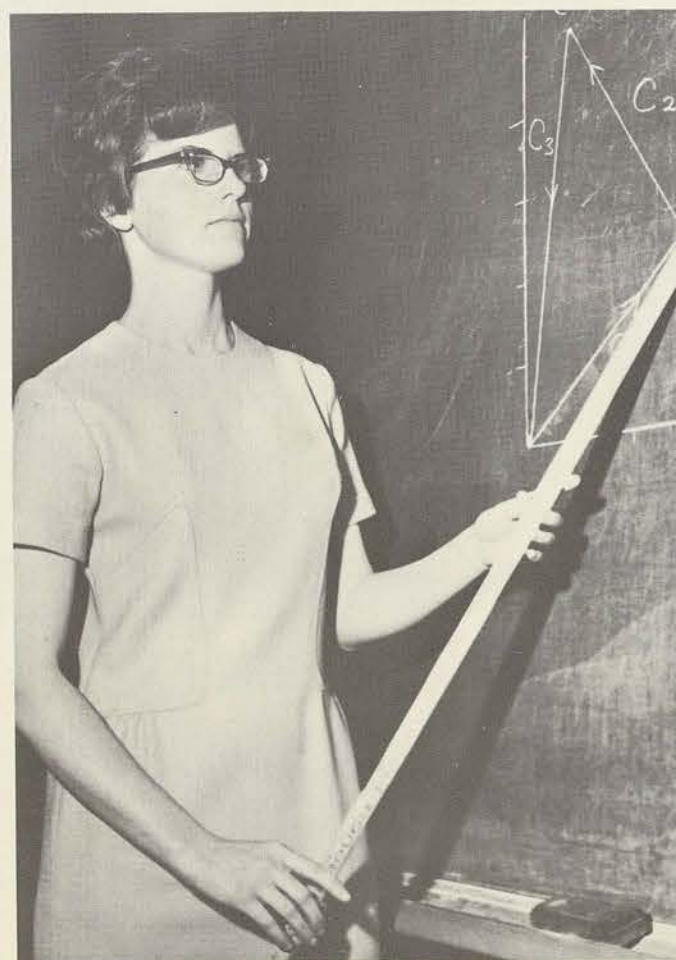

Dorothy Jeannette Griggs

Dorothy Griggs, an English major, has served as president of both Alpha Chi and Sigma Tau Delta. She was a member of Omega Rho Alpha, Alpha Lambda Delta, Alpha Beta Alpha, and Senior Honor Women. Her freshman year, she was a delegate to the Model United Nations, and she participated in the Citizenship League.

Glenn Yarbrough Performs At Redbud Pageant Annual Ball Is Bright Climax to Redbud Week-End

Nationally famous singer Glenn Yarbrough highlighted the Redbud Pageant with such hits as "Time to Move On" and "Baby, The Rain Must Fall." The popular soul singer was accompanied by the Fred Ramirez Trio.

Performing for a full house, Mr. Yarbrough delighted his audience by asking them to join him in two numbers as the chorus. He then silenced the enthusiastic group with a moving rendition of "She."

The show included the vocal-instrumental team of Moffitt and Davies. The pair proved their talent and versatility in both comedy and voice.

A student and her date find the cool air and bright stars a pleasant break from dancing.

Seventy-two-year-old Jan Garber leads his orchestra with singing and dancing at the Redbud Ball.

Redbud Queen Cherrie Rose and Dr. J. Wilgus Eberly led the first dance of the Redbud Ball. Under a 16-foot sunburst ornamented with signs of the zodiac, students danced to the music of Jan Garber's Orchestra.

Redbud princesses and crown princesses were presented at the beginning of the dance. Their brightly-colored dresses in different patterns for each class added to the red, gold, and yellow color scheme of the dance.

Over 150 high school girls had met on campus that afternoon to learn the latest techniques in dress and grooming at the annual Redbud Conference.

Successful Year Experienced by CGA Members Under New Constitution

CGA Vice-President, Jan Rozdil

CGA Treasurer, Nancy Loyd

Participation and interest in student government served as the guideline for activities and proposals sponsored by the Campus Government Association this year. Under the new constitution, CGA was divided into two groups: the Student Council and the President's Council.

Two major projects of the Student Council were proposals for a student evaluation of teachers and the establishment of a faculty-student committee to air problems of the two components of the University. The President's Council tackled a detailed revision of the handbook and presented their changes to the Student Council in May.

Council members were kept busy working on five standing committees, University Review, Orientation, Gold Rush, the Redbud Pageant, elections, and assemblies. Students showed a marked increase in interest in what student government had to offer. Motto for the year was: Activation through Participation Works.

WRA Functions to

The Women's Recreation Association serves the purpose of furthering interest in leisure time activities. WRA is an all-campus organization of which each student is automatically a member.

WRA initiated the year with the traditional WRA Fun Nite, which serves to introduce to the freshman the numerous activities available through participation in WRA. The Lantern Parade which is a symbol of the unity and friendship among the four classes was sponsored by WRA and CGA. Another annual event sponsored by WRA was Corn Huskin' Bee, in which dormitories participate in contests for blue ribbons.

Besides these events, WRA sponsors four seasonal clubs: hockey, volleyball, basketball, and softball. Among the weekly clubs they sponsor are badminton, tennis, track, bowling, judo, fencing, golf, Caporettes, and recreational swim. Within these clubs, WRA sponsors intramural and extramural teams.

As an all-campus organization, WRA functions to enrich the life of each student by making available activities and functions in the realm of recreation.

Round Table Functions To Encourage Active Clubs, Sponsors Rush Events

Round Table, an all-campus organization, is responsible for coordinating the numerous clubs on campus into a functional unit. It functions to encourage active, healthy clubs and attempts to help them with any problems which might arise.

Round Table is divided into four councils: Departmental Council, Special Interest Council, Literary-Social Club Council, and Honorary Fraternity Council. These councils work through Round Table to solve any difficulties within their respective clubs.

Round Table also enforces the point system, whereby one student will not become overburdened with too many club offices.

An ice cream social in the fall kicked off the year for Round Table members. Round Table, in cooperation with the Literary-Social Clubs, sponsored the pre-rush Round Robin and the Pre-Rush Tea, whereby prospective rushees could view the clubs and learn about the clubs' activities. A spring picnic and election of officers concluded the year's projects.

Prospective rushees sign the guest book at the pre-rush Round Robin, sponsored by Round Table, held in the AS Building.

SCSA Experiences Busy Year, Sponsors Activities

Student Council of Social Activities President, Cheri Holland

The Student Council of Social Activities aims at promoting the social life and the social graces of TWU students. SCSA kicked off the year's activities with the Freshman Frolic in September at which TWU and A&M freshman were the special guests for a picnic and all-campus dance.

Fall activities included the Aggie Sweetheart selection, the Pre-Corps Trip dance, a Christmas Formal, and an all-campus dance prior to Special Study Week.

Spring semesters events included a dance in February and two "Manners Make the Lady" forums in which A&M students spoke on dating etiquette, romance and marriage. Three "Man Your Manners" panels from TWU in turn spoke to A&M students.

SCSA concluded the year's activities with the Redbud Ball and a "Dad's Day," a new program in which the fathers of students were treated to a campus tour, sports, and a picnic.

SCRA Strives to Encourage Spiritual Development Among University Students

The Student Council of Religious Activities exists to stimulate the spiritual life of the university students. To achieve this goal, SCRA sponsors dormitory vespers and weekly services in the Little Chapel-in-the-Woods, as well as special activities during the year.

Among the SCRA activities this year were the Meet Your Ministers Assembly, Spiritual Development Week, a Christmas caroling party, the Chapel Service at Christmas, Palm Sunday service, and all-campus vespers.

Through the organization, SCRA strives to encourage spiritual development and self-examination among TWU students, realizing that such spiritual growth is an essential element in the life of a mature University woman.

The Student Finance Council sponsors various projects to raise money for the purpose of awarding scholarships to deserving students.

Working for quality rather than quantity, the SFC council this year felt it was better to sponsor a small number of large projects rather than many small projects.

Successful again this year was the selling of late minutes of 60 cents for one hour late permission on Friday nights to freshmen, sophomore, and junior students.

During Pledge Week, the SFC Chicken Fandangle was held in the SUB Recreation Room, and pledges were asked to help sell the tickets. Dorm study breaks were also held during special study week, and students were able to purchase food in the dormitories.

The year's activities were concluded with the Gift Day Assembly at which time scholarships for next year were awarded.

Daily Lass-O Serves As Laboratory Newspaper For

The Daily Lass-O is the only daily newspaper in the United States which is published by a woman's university and is the laboratory newspaper for journalism majors.

As Lass-O staff members, journalism majors not only learn newspaper work, from reporting daily to reading galley and page proofs in the print shop, they also learn the responsibilities of being a journalist.

The Lass-O is published four days a week, with the exception of holiday sessions. It is a four-page tabloid newspaper which strives to report the news events on all three of TWU's campuses.

This year the Lass-O editorial board consisted of four senior journalism majors who defined the policy of the newspaper and wrote the daily editorials. During the spring semester, the Lass-O staff also directed the selection of the Best Dressed Girl on campus for Glamour magazine.

For the work of the staff for the spring semester of 1966, the Lass-O received a first class honor rating from the Associated Collegiate Press.

A multitude of problems seemed to plague the publication of the 1967 Daedalian yearbook, but with a lot of student and faculty assistance, perseverance, and confidence the last pages were finally mailed to the Marvin D. Evans Company in Fort Worth.

In the fall, the photography editor, Karen Hardy, had to leave for health reasons. Then during the spring semester Donna Shults, the editor, had to leave school for medical reasons. Well, if you miss the photography editor, just how much do you think the editor would be missed?

Jane VanDeventer, senior class president, agreed to serve out the term as editor, but lo and behold, she came down with the mumps three weeks later and two weeks before deadline. Mr. Frank C. Rigler, Daedalian sponsor, called upon Diana Dickerson, 1966 Daedalian editor, to serve as graduate coordinator. She managed to calm everyone down and see that the Daedalian was completed in time.

But somehow after long hours, sleepless nights, and hectic moments the Daedalian was finished, and now it is in your hands. We hope you like it. We're glad we're able to present you with another volume.

Quarterly, TISA Agency Serve University Students Villagers Promotes Interest Among Local Students

The official literary magazine of TWU, the Daedalian Quarterly publishes the fiction, essays, poetry, long narratives, and plays written by TWU students throughout the year.

In addition to the stories which won the Freshman Writers' Contest, the Daedalian Quarterly also added more art work, done by students in the art department. Much of the art work illustrated the stories.

As the oldest Southwestern college magazine, the Quarterly encourages students to use creativity and imagination in writing.

The magazine is sponsored by the Department of English, and members of the editorial staff are Dr. Virginia Moseley, Mrs. Mildred Nelson, Miss Julia Crisp, and Miss Caroline McGown. Dr. Gladys Maddocks is the faculty sponsor.

The Texas Intercollegiate Student Association is an organization of Texas colleges and universities which strives to develop effective and responsible student leadership on campuses.

As one of its services to member schools, TISA maintains an office of general information called the Central Agency. It is an executive council office held by one of the member schools and elected at the state convention. TWU has held this office for several years.

The Central Agency director maintains the TISA file of information related to student government, its problems, TISA conventions, and project reports. The director dispurses such information to member schools requesting it.

Each member school also has a student representative. Penny Strickland, TWU's representative, was responsible for disseminating information on campus about TISA activities. This year TISA sponsored a leadership conference, several area conventions, and the state convention.

The purpose of the Villagers' Club is to acquaint members with each other on and off campus and to acquaint them with policies, traditions, and social activities at TWU. Each member is given equal representation in all University affairs. Announcements of upcoming events, whether social or scholastic, are made known through the club.

Activities included an annual coke party for prospective local students, participating in Corn Huskin' activities, sponsoring a Christmas party, working at the Festival of Nations, and having a picnic in May. From September through December, the Villagers sold Little Chapel-in-the-Woods Christmas cards.

The club is composed of local TWU students living in and around Denton. Students living in Fort Worth or Dallas are also eligible.

Adelphian — Adelphian — Adelphian

Adelphian Literary-Social Club's purpose is to develop the individual through social, cultural, and creative experiences, and to encourage her to participate as a leader and as a follower.

Although "adelphian" in its literal translation means sister, the members have captured a truer meaning when they interpret the club's name to mean a special friendship, a friendship so special that it lasts through the years and reaches across the oceans.

As a club project, the Adelphians held a Christmas party at the Denton State School. During the spring semester, several speakers spoke at club meetings. Members planned a trip to Six Flags Over Texas in the spring and sponsored a booth at the Festival of Nations.

The goal of the Aglaian Literary-Social Club is to enthusiastically and creatively instill a social unity for the purpose of individual development and maturity.

Among their functions each year is at least one major project to change and/or improve the organization. This year they gave a party each month in honor of the girls in "their" dorm at Denton State School, with special recognition given to birthday girls.

Also they sponsored a needy family at Christmas. They purchased two toys for each of the five children and gave a basket of food to the family. Members collected six large boxes of clothes for the family when they were home for Christmas holidays.

The Aglaians boast that their club is a special feeling — it is not something one can define, but a special something one feels through a great unity. "You will find as you look back upon your life that the moments that stand out are the moments when you have done things for others." — Henry Drummond.

At the Alpha Omega initiation banquet Beatrice Brossig, center, was named best pledge for the year. With her are pledge captains, Norma Gonzales and Sheila Hall.

The campus's youngest literary social club, Alpha Omega, has adopted as its project contributing to "Books, U.S.A." and collecting cancelled stamps which are used to send food, tools, and clothing to other countries. In keeping with the club's purpose to promote a wholesome interest in social living, members enjoyed a traditional Christmas party, initiation banquet at which the best pledge was named, and a spring picnic in honor of seniors.

This year the members attended the opera in Fort Worth and began a club newsletter with which they hope to keep in touch with members in the clinics.

The club's motto — Looking to New Horizons — is indicative of the members' willingness to find ways to serve the school and to expand their own cultural horizons. The club mascot is the phoenix, symbolic of its formation from two older literary-social clubs. Club colors are red and yellow.

Sixty rushees were entertained at the traditional steak fry rush party, where each rushee was presented a Rocking-C leather nametag, cedar blocks, and scroll letters. For the acceptance party, pledges and members attended a performance of Mantovani and his orchestra at McFarlin Auditorium at Southern Methodist University.

Club members attended the Fort Worth Opera Association's presentation of "Madame Butterfly" in December. Mrs. Joan Wall, a Chap co-sponsor, was a cast member. At the annual Honey Supper January 17, members formally initiated new Chap members. Senior members were honored by the club with a breakfast in the spring, and each was presented a blue Rocking-C branding iron.

Alpha Beta Alpha

The honorary library science fraternity, Alpha Beta Alpha, has as its purposes to increase interest in library development, to foster professional spirit among students of library services and to promote enriching association among students specializing in the fields of library work.

Club activities for the year included a picnic, parties at Christmas and on Valentine's Day, and a special Christmas project. For the Christmas project, members provided stereo records for Fairhaven, a rest home in Denton for elderly people.

Mrs. Ruth Viguers, editor of "Hornbook," a children's literary magazine, was the guest speaker at the club's spring banquet. The formal initiation of pledges also was held at the banquet.

Alpha Kappa Delta

Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honor fraternity, was formed to stimulate scholarship and develop interest in research in the field of sociology. Juniors and seniors who have maintained a B-average throughout their university career are eligible for membership in the organization.

The slate of activities for the year included initiation in October, with Dr. Maureen Gallaher speaking on her research in Columbia; in November, Mr. Ralph Chamber spoke on "Prying Devices in the American Culture," and at the December meeting Miss Ingrid Applee spoke on "Research at Timberlawn in Dallas." In February the members had dinner at Underwood's Cafeteria; in April, they sponsored a candy sale, and in May, the annual picnic was held.

Kappa Epsilon Mu

Kappa Epsilon Mu strives through its activities to unite students interested in chemistry and to acquaint them with current topics and opportunities in chemistry.

KEM club also published a departmental newspaper, the Pipette. Members often attended American Chemical Society regional meetings with faculty members, where they had the opportunity to hear outstanding lecturers in the field of chemistry.

KEM members participated in the Festival of Nations and sponsored social activities for members of the club and chemistry faculty.

Honorary

Kappa Mu Epsilon

The honorary fraternity for students of mathematics, Kappa Mu Epsilon has as its purposes to further interest in mathematics in those schools which place their primary emphasis on the undergraduate program and to help the undergraduate realize the important role that mathematics has played in the development of western civilization.

Other purposes of the organization are to develop an appreciation of the power and beauty possessed by mathematics, due mainly to its demands for logical and rigorous modes of thought, and to provide a society for the recognition of outstanding achievements in mathematics on the undergraduate level.

Honorary

Sigma Pi Beta

To honor those students in the Department of Business and Economics who have a high scholastic rating is the purpose of Sigma Pi Beta.

In February members of Sigma Pi Beta conducted the departmental meeting. "Book in Review" was the title of the program and members reviewed fiction and non-fiction works written in the field of business and economics. Members also traveled to Dallas on a field trip.

Sigma Alpha Iota

To raise the standards of musical productivity, to instigate more interest and enthusiasm in the field of music, and to retain a cooperative spirit is the goal of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity.

Slate of activities for the year included an annual get-acquainted party for music majors, joint musicals with Denton alumnae in the fall, American musicals in the spring, caroling for a convalescent home at Christmas, and the annual spaghetti dinner at the end of the year.

Sigma Alpha Iota members ushered at recitals presented by the Department of Music, sponsored lecture recitals, and acted as campus hostesses for visiting artists.

Theta Sigma Phi

Theta Sigma Phi is a professional fraternity for women in journalism. The Alpha Pi Chapter had outstanding programs and speakers during the year. Guest speakers included Mr. Bill Rives, editor of the Denton Record-Chronicle, and Miss Vivian Castleberry, art and women's editor of the Dallas Times-Herald.

New members were initiated into the chapter in October and April, and members conducted a cookie sale during the Texas High School Press Convention in December. Gerry Glasscock represented the chapter at the national convention in Fort Worth in August, and she presented a report of the event at the October meeting. Mrs. Ruth Arrasmith became the faculty sponsor this year.

The society honored outstanding journalism students and the best news sources among the faculty and student body at their Matrix dinner in April.

Wesley Foundation

The program of the Wesley Foundation was centered around the study group and the coffee house. The study group was composed of a small group of people who gathered weekly for a serious, short-term study on some aspect of Christian life, such as theology, literature, current events, and philosophy.

In the coffee house, a variety of programs were offered including foreign art films, qualified speakers on topics of current interest, folk singing, and student panels and discussions. All students are welcome to participate in any Wesley Foundation program.

Baptist Student Union

The Baptist Student Union members have a calendar full of events and activities. This year they held three vesper services each week. The main purpose of the BSU is to help college students find a church away from home and to still make religion a part of their everyday life.

TWU BSU members held a joint retreat with A&M members between semesters. The highlight of the spring semester, for professors and students alike, was the annual "Top Prof" luncheon.

This fall the Neighbors Program for international students was initiated with the international student luncheon. International students were presented with a translation of the Bible in their own language.

Guinn Students Win Third in Song Contest

Named for TWU's president, John A. Guinn Hall was first occupied in September, 1965. An attractive building, it was built in line with the newest concepts in dormitory construction.

Although one wing is reserved for freshmen students, the other wings are available for sophomore, junior, and senior students. This year three dances were held in the dormitory living room. In the dormitory song contest at Corn Huskin', Guinn students won third place.

A special project begun this year was the compilation of a telephone directory listing all the students in the dormitory. Private telephone jacks are available in each room, and students may have their own phone installed if they desire.

Lowry Hall

Lowry Students Have Parties For Special Events

Noted for the warmth and graciousness of its ample living room, Lowry Hall is named for J. H. Lowry, an early chairman of the Board of Regents.

Lowry is the smallest dormitory on the campus and is occupied by freshman students. The atmosphere in Lowry allows a friendly association among all the residents.

Dormitory dances were held twice a semester in Lowry's spacious living room, and parties were given on special occasions and at every holiday. Two of the unique traditions at Lowry are a formal Christmas party and a pledge week for new counselors.

Austin Hall Residents Win Corn Huskin' Contest

Austin Hall

Happiness for Austin Hall residents was winning the over-all Corn Huskin' contest by accumulating the most points for contest participation. Students in the dormitory also won the volleyball championship in competition with students from other residence halls.

Two dormitory dances, with the themes of the dances being Mardi Gras and April Fool's Day, were held during the year, and students sold sandwiches to raise money for the dormitory. In the spring, students had a picnic at Lake Dallas and a patio party.

Mrs. Kathrine Ince, right, residence director, speaks with a Lowry resident.

Centrally located on dormitory row, Houston Hall, a freshman dormitory, is named after General Sam Houston, a famous Texan.

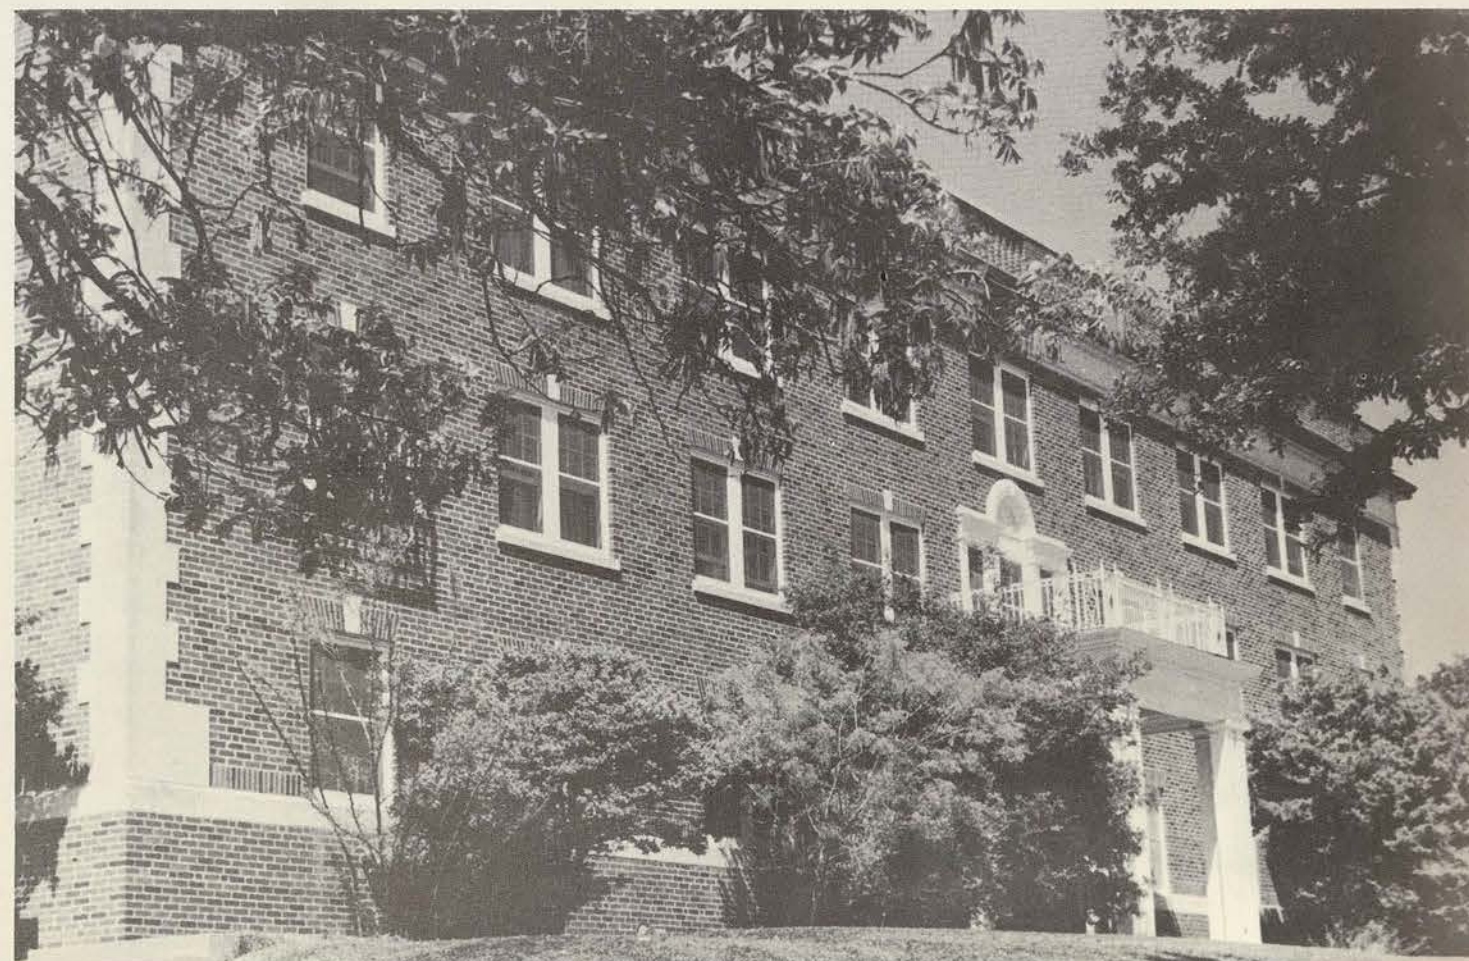

A "Harvest Moon" dance held in the early fall was given by the Houston residents and small dorm parties were held impromptu during the year by the counselors for getting acquainted and to have a dorm break.

A new Christmas tradition was initiated by the Houston students this year when they constructed a manger scene at the Little Chapel-in-the-Woods and had a candlelight pilgrimage to the chapel. A Christmas party and open house was also held. "A Spring Visit to an Art Gallery" was the theme of the spring dorm dance held in the Student Union Building.

Social Activities in Fitzgerald Highlight Year

Fitzgerald Hall, named after Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald who served at one time as chairman of the Board of Regents, is occupied by freshman and upperclassman students.

A dormitory dance, get-acquainted party, Halloween party and picnic were held during the year. Also held were a Christmas party and open house, and a party prior to the Easter holidays.

Mrs. Lois McCandless, Fitzgerald Hall residence director, admires her flowers.

Fitzgerald Hall

Hufford Residents Sponsor Two Dances, Parties

The University's cooperative dormitory is Mary Hufford Hall, which is named after a former dean of women. Upperclassmen as well as freshmen reside in the dorm.

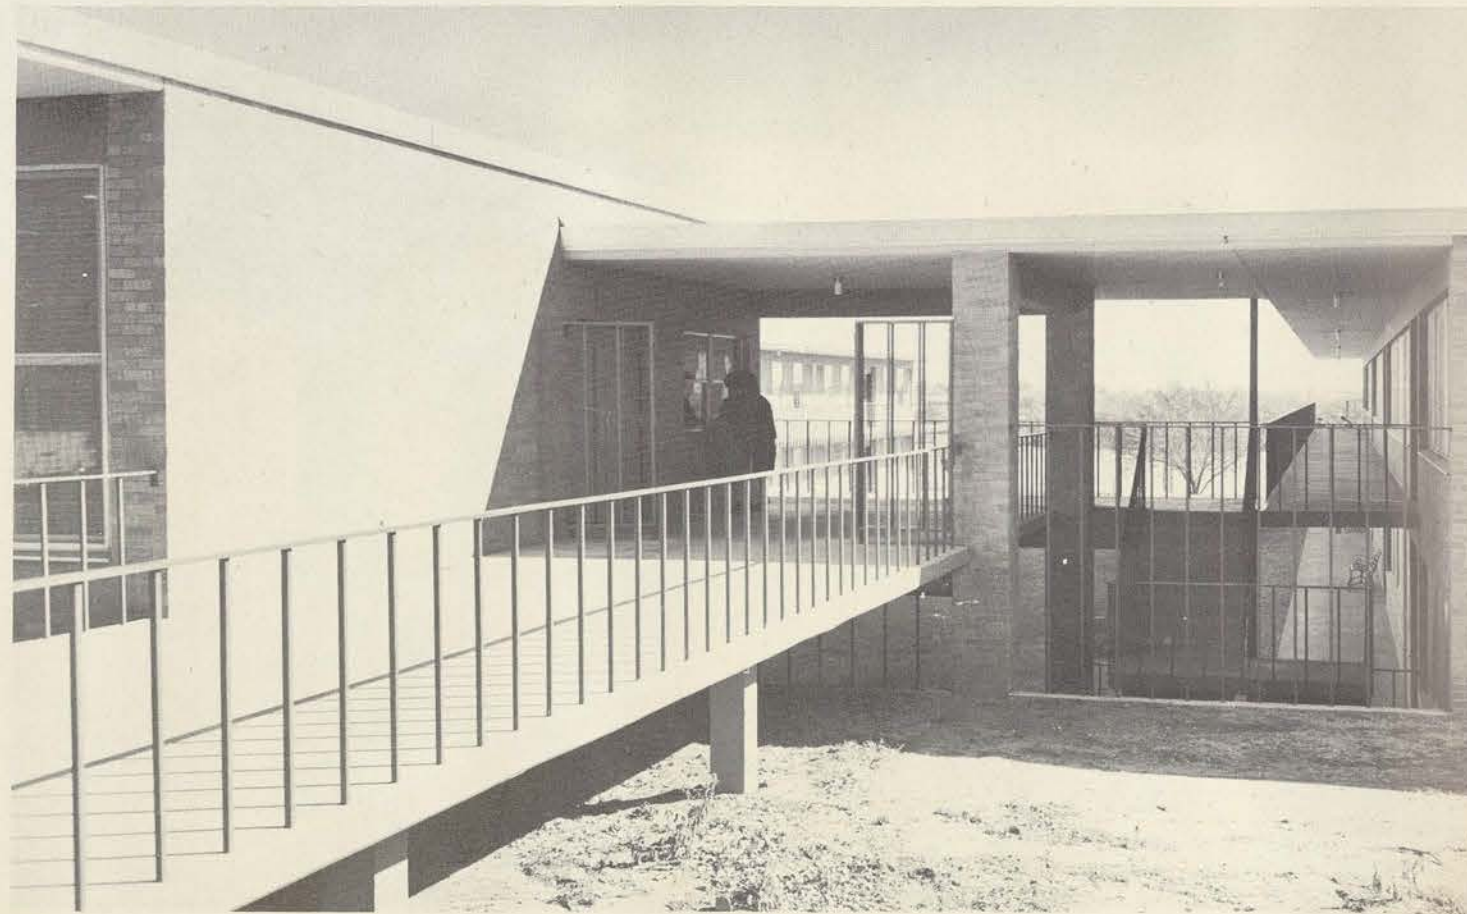

Activities held by the students this year included two dormitory dances, a Halloween party, a Christmas party and open house, and a "going away" party for students leaving at the end of the first semester.

Dormitory residents also had a dinner at Christmas at which time members of the administration were special guests.

Mrs. Geraldine Fuller is new to the TWU campus this year and is director of Mary Hufford Hall.

Gleason Residents Maintain Home Environment

Home economics students take a refreshment break in the living room of the home management house.

Planning accessories used in the home is only one phase of home management studied at Gleason.

Nine weeks during a semester, a senior home economics student resides in Gleason Cottage, the home management house, where she has a variety of experiences connected with the management of a home. Students entertain guests for dinner once a week, and they plan their weekly meal budgets around the low, medium, and moderate income.

This year students entertained visitors at an open house at Christmas for the first time. In the spring, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Guinn were the resident's guests for breakfast.

Kathy Porteus prepares the evening meal at Gleason.

Gleason residents plan their weekly meal schedule. Each student has a certain responsibility in maintaining the house each week.

Graduate Students Have Own Residential Hall

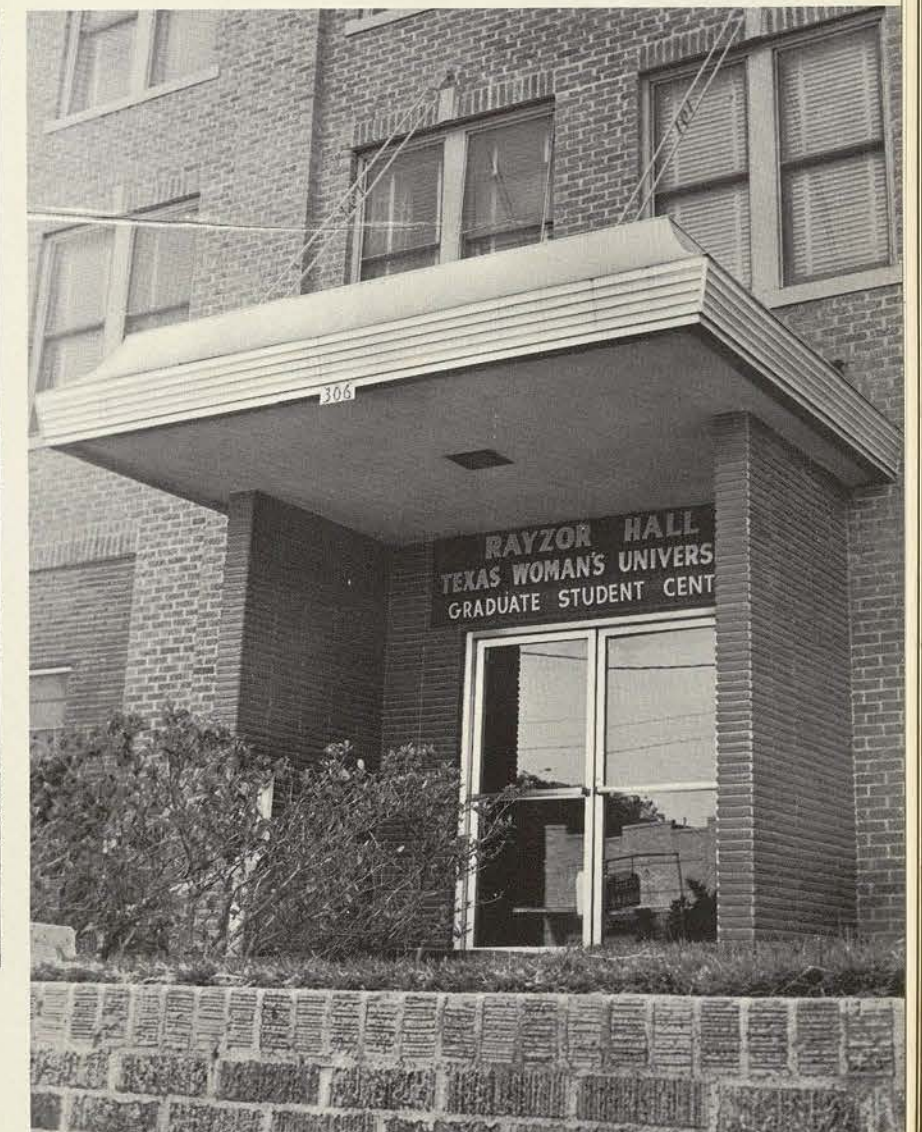

Mrs. Dell Chapman, director, at the end of the table, converses with graduate students in the dining room of Rayzor Hall, the graduate student center.

Rayzor Hall

Many comforts of home as well as a unique study area are available to graduate students at Rayzor Hall.

New Building Facilities at Dallas

RIGHT: Students enjoy the color tv in the private "date" lounge where they can also meet their guests. BELOW: Students board the TWU bus each morning to travel to Parkland Memorial Hospital.

Clinical Center Modern, Outstanding

CGA President Linda Bromert conducts her weekly meeting at the Dallas Center.

Dormitory Keyed to Youthful Outlook

RIGHT: Students eat and visit in the colorful new dining room. BELOW: Sleeping bags are not always easy to handle, discover these students on a camping trip to Cedar Break and Lake Texoma.

Class is over and students stream from the modern one-story classroom building in Dallas.

By Featuring Many Pure Bright Colors

Pure bright colors, keyed to the youthful outlook of the more than 300 student nurse occupants, provide the special decorative aspect of the new Texas Woman's University College of Nursing, Dallas Clinical Center.

The decor is in strong contrast to the white uniforms and green hospital walls that comprise the nursing environment. For instance, in the main lounge in the dormitory royal blue and emerald green rugs, subdued colored sofas and striped multi-colored drapes offer a conversational atmosphere.

LEFT: Each dormitory room features built-in desks and drawers for two students with private bath and a telephone jack so students may have a private phone. BELOW: The main lounge in the dormitory provides a bright gathering place for entertaining guests.

Residential dormitory at the Houston Clinical Center is a modern facility for TWU students in nursing and occupational therapy.

Houston Students Combine Activities

Life at the Houston Clinical Center is a combination of fun, studies, and numerous clinical experiences. A number of social functions are held each year, such as a welcoming party for sophomores, a Christmas dance, beach parties, and other activities sponsored by various organizations.

After a year of basic courses on the Denton campus, nursing students gain experience in a variety of specialized fields at hospitals in the Texas Medical Center. They also received public health experience with the Houston Health Department.

Occupational therapy students come to the Houston center for clinical experience after six semesters in Denton. Other programs at the center include physical therapy, graduate rehabilitation, and other graduate courses.

Juniors gather at a reception for Miss Lucile Leone.

Sharon Rau and Terri Davis present Miss Lucille Sommermeyer, associate dean, with a Christmas gift.

Occupational therapy students demonstrate several tests for muscles in the hand and forearm.

The Emanons, Houston Clinical Center Choir, includes both nursing and OT students. The choir is directed by Sherri Smith and accompanied by Cynthia Sheuer.

With Rewarding Clinical Experiences

Discussion of patient's chart with instructor precedes study of patient care by sophomore students.

Carolyn Smith, senior, practices the use of the stryker frame with Omadee Garza, senior, serving as the patient.

Occupational therapy students at Houston Center demonstrate the activities of daily living and orthodesis procedures.

1 - 9 - 6 - 7
Can't go wrong. Sing our song!

Tessies stand and sing to '67
Sing their praises
Shout 'em to the heavens
We will have our fun and trouble
But never fear 'cause we'll come through
Rah - Rah - Rah
Stand then we'll sing to you again
All you 'copters fly high

Shout the praises of 1 - 9 - 6 - 7
The greatest class there is alive.

Seniors Recall Their Four Years With Sentiment

Jane VanDeventer presents a special helicopter to the Fort Wolters pilots who came to campus during 67 Days 'til '67.

The number 67 has come to mean a lot of things to each senior. The minute we stepped on campus that number was even more important than our student account numbers. Even then it set us aside in a unit of oneness.

The vibrancy of '67 has touched this campus with the strength of sophistication, the intelligence of common sense, the gentleness of a flower, and the wit of being human. Four years ago, four years seemed like an eternity. Now it seems as if someone has pulled half those months from the calendar.

It is with sentiment that most of us think of the diploma and with uncertainty that we think of the future. It's not easy to leave four years of life. It's taken us four years to realize we love this college. It's not often that we'll admit it, but we do have intense feelings of gratitude and warmth.

But the mystery of the future beckons, and far be it from '67 not to accept the challenge. Good show '67, may you always be humble winners and proud losers.

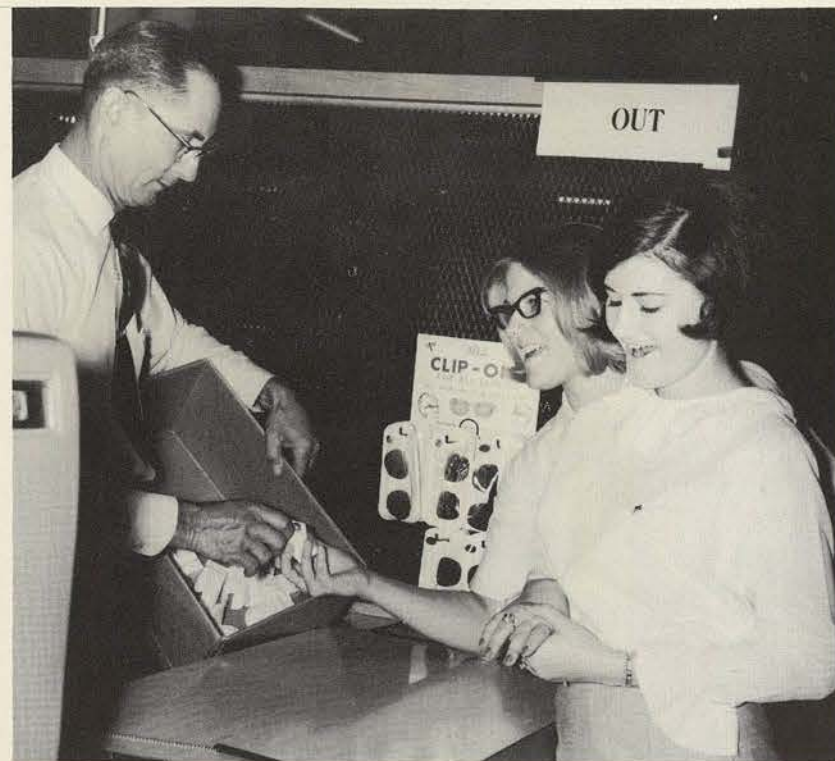

Jane VanDeventer
Class President

A beaming senior displays "Ladies" sweat shirt.

Dr. Harral Landry, senior class sponsor, is certain "senioritis," a form of spring fever, can be cured.

A Senior Year Must Be the Best Year of All

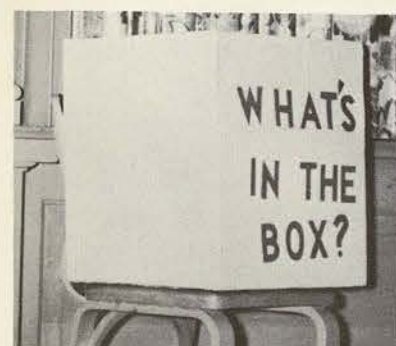

Seniors Fonda Johnstone, left, and Mary Beth Milmo delight in receiving their senior rings and realizing they are really seniors after all.

And again, the words which have plagued them since their sophomore class stunt.

Seniors dine in Hubbard Hall at breakfast given them by the sophomore class of '69.

As Freshmen, '67 Captures the Golden Stunt Cup

As sophomores, the Class of '67 presents its first X-Hour program.

As freshmen, the Class of '67 manages to weather the perils of X-Hour.

With their first hectic weeks behind them, '67 produces the FTA.

And as Sophomores, '67 Won a Second Stunt Cup

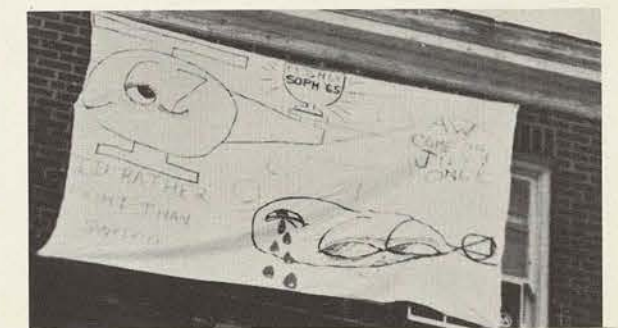

Toyshop captain takes up for Lily in "As the Clock Strikes."

Now she's the president, but Doe Bush is a lowly pledge here.

Sophomores prepare to defend the dorm stunt sign.

A proud helicopter sign hangs from Stoddard Hall.

Lily, the ballerina, makes marital advances towards Ralph, the saxophone player, in sophomore stunt.

Sorceress prepares to cast a spell over the villagers.

Certain their husbands are stupid, the Dutch women refuse to listen.

Everyone is happy in the little Dutch village, above right, until the sorceress casts her evil spell, below right, and then a husband gets a big pie in the face from his wife, who was once quite nice.

The Dutch wives woefully lament "Won't You Come Home My Dutchman?"

Judges Spellbound By "Dutch Fantasy," Award Juniors Third Stunt Cup

Juniors prepare to redo their sophomore stunt at University Review.

Juniors in Smith-Carroll Hall helped design the Gold Rush display.

This junior was named best dressed girl?

Nancy Loyd exclaims joy at being named '67 CGA treasurer.

The Last Year, the Senior Year, Finally Arrives

Seniors don freshman beanies and sing class songs outside the pub celebrating 67 Days 'til 1967.

Sorceress, Marie McCluskey, becomes angered in the Junior Stunt as members of the "Ladies of 67" perform at University Review.

Some days are bad days for seniors, but when Marie McCluskey finally got around to having her laundry done . . . well Marie?

But Where Have Those Wonderful Months Gone?

Senior problems often present some hair-raising experiences, illustrates Pat Sorrels.

Dr. Leroy J. Garrett, junior class sponsor, enjoys an invigorating bicycle ride after his classes.

As a class, we have passed through happy and sad moments together this year, as we have in the years past. But things have become meaningful to us as time quickly passes us by.

Before we even realized the year had begun, our little sister class appeared and caused us some worry. But as we helped the Class of '70 along the new pathways, we remembered how we, as freshmen, were strangers once too. We honored them with a class party, and the Junior-Freshman Assembly was a happy memory.

At our Transfer Party we greeted our new class members, and the hayride and picnic to Lake Dallas was very successful. For our money-making project we sponsored a Mexican supper, prepared by class members. The proceeds helped to pay for the Christmas party we gave to the underprivileged children in Denton with the assistance of the class of '70.

Stunt time is perhaps the happiest memory. Even though we didn't win the Stunt cup, we won new friendships found through working together for each terrific stunt performance.

May our best wishes follow the Class of '67 after graduation . . .

May our little sister class be as proud of us as we are of them . . .

May next year be our best, as a class and as University women . . .

May we always remember to "look to the rainbow."

Jacquie L. Dooley
Class President

Junior Year Holds Many Memories for Class of '68

Hey, Fish! Clap like this —

1 - 9 - 6 - 8

We're the class that's really great!

Forever will our hearts be true — TWU!

What's ever right we'll strive to do.

And we'll be the best in our school's history — just wait and see —

With charm and Tessie loyalty.

The Sunday before Stunts, Juniors gather on the bridge to commemorate the day they painted it without permission their freshman year.

While waiting to go to Lake Dallas for their hayride and picnic, Juniors have a hootenanny in front of the old gymnasium.

Two down and two to go — this ends our sophomore year. Looking back, it has been a year of fun, of new friendships, of accomplishments, of failures.

But it has been a year to remember . . . The Transfer Party; Senior Breakfast and its four scripts; the Christmas Party; Stunts; the Scholarship Show with the new look; the Sister Class party, and other activities sponsored by the class.

We have learned to take our rightful place in the University society, working for the benefit of all. And now with memories of the past and our knowledge, we look forward to our junior year at Texas Woman's University.

Toby Tate
Class President

Sophomores Remember Year of Fun, Friendships

1 - 9 - 6 - 9

We're the class that's feeling fine

Hey, '69ers give us a cheer,

Show the other Tessies that we all are here.

We'll stand together, never be apart,
Through thick and thin and day and night
This school is in our heart. All right!

So up to the top girls, we'll be the best,
We are the class that always leads the rest.
Molly and her helicopter will always be the sign,
Of the class of sixty-nine.

1 - 9 - 6 - 9

Come on 'copters, one more time!

ABOVE: Sophomores gather in Jones Hall for a lively hootenany. LEFT: As no one wanted to study anyhow, sophomores lounge around their dormitory room. BELOW: This sophomore hopes the important message is from a male friend, and not from a member of the administration.

We are the fish of '70
We're going to fight for victory
In everything we do, we will be true
To our class, to the fish, TWU!

Come '70 we'll graduate
In honors we'll surely rate
As fish we will pull through in all we do
For our class, for the fish, TWU!

Chorus

(1) slap-clap, clap, clap, clap
(9) slap-clap, clap, clap, clap
(7) slap-clap, clap, clap, clap
(0) slap-clap, clap, clap, clap
Come on fish, clap, clap
Let's go! clap, clap.

Freshman Class Arrives on Campus, 2,000 strong

Dr. Victor R. Durrance, freshman class sponsor, relaxes after a hectic day of sponsoring.

Two Thousand Freshman! My gosh, what was I to do? Well, with 2,000 girls I had lots of help. We, the Freshman Class of 1970, joined forces in order to combat one of the most dreaded diseases — the plague of the red beanies. We hope we have been successful.

Beginning with FTA in November, through the Christmas party for underprivileged children in Denton, and up to our Stunt, "No Strings Attached," we have grown closer together as a class, and closer to the upper classes, to the faculty, and to the administration.

At the close of this, our first year, we can no longer say "no strings attached," because we do have strings. Strings attached to the Texas Woman's University which will last a life time.

Julia Horany

Freshman Frolics

Moving into a dormitory can be pretty hectic for student, mother and father.

"Like man, I said cool and I mean FTA is really cool."

Rain, go away! Freshmen say during Lantern Parade.

Freshman sign welcomes Texas Aggies to the campus.

To the Daily Lass-O — for pictures, publicity
To all Club Presidents — for cooperating with us and
To all the people who helped.

"Sir, I didn't realize your daughter was a senior when I failed her!"

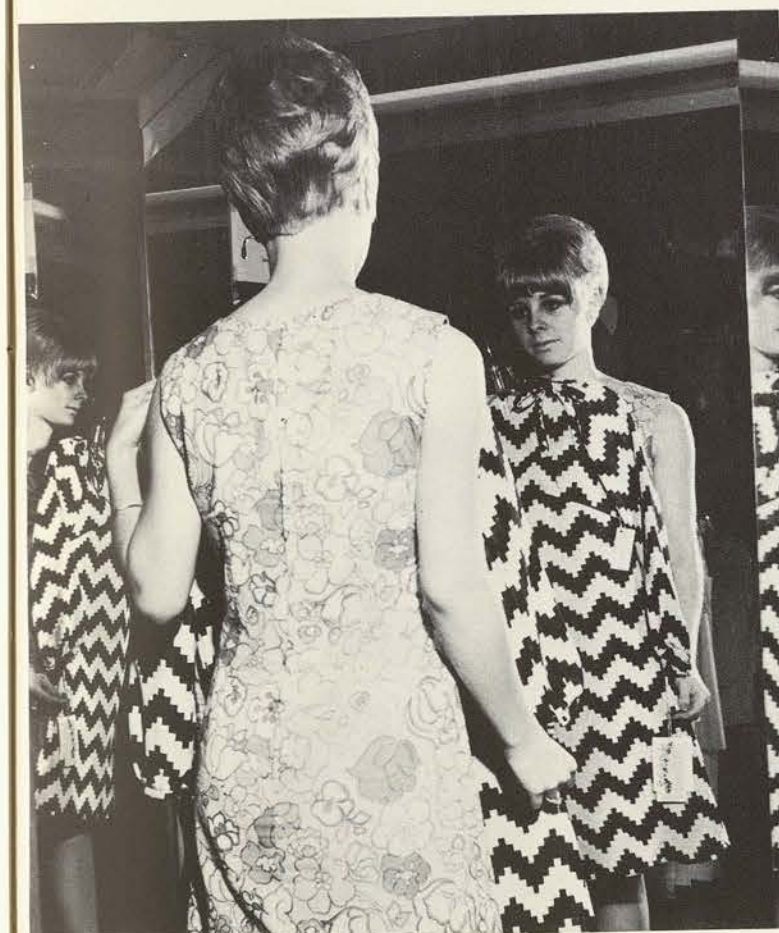

"Don't look now Charlie, my friend, but I think someone is actually watching our movements."

"I did tell my parents I would learn 'something' at college."

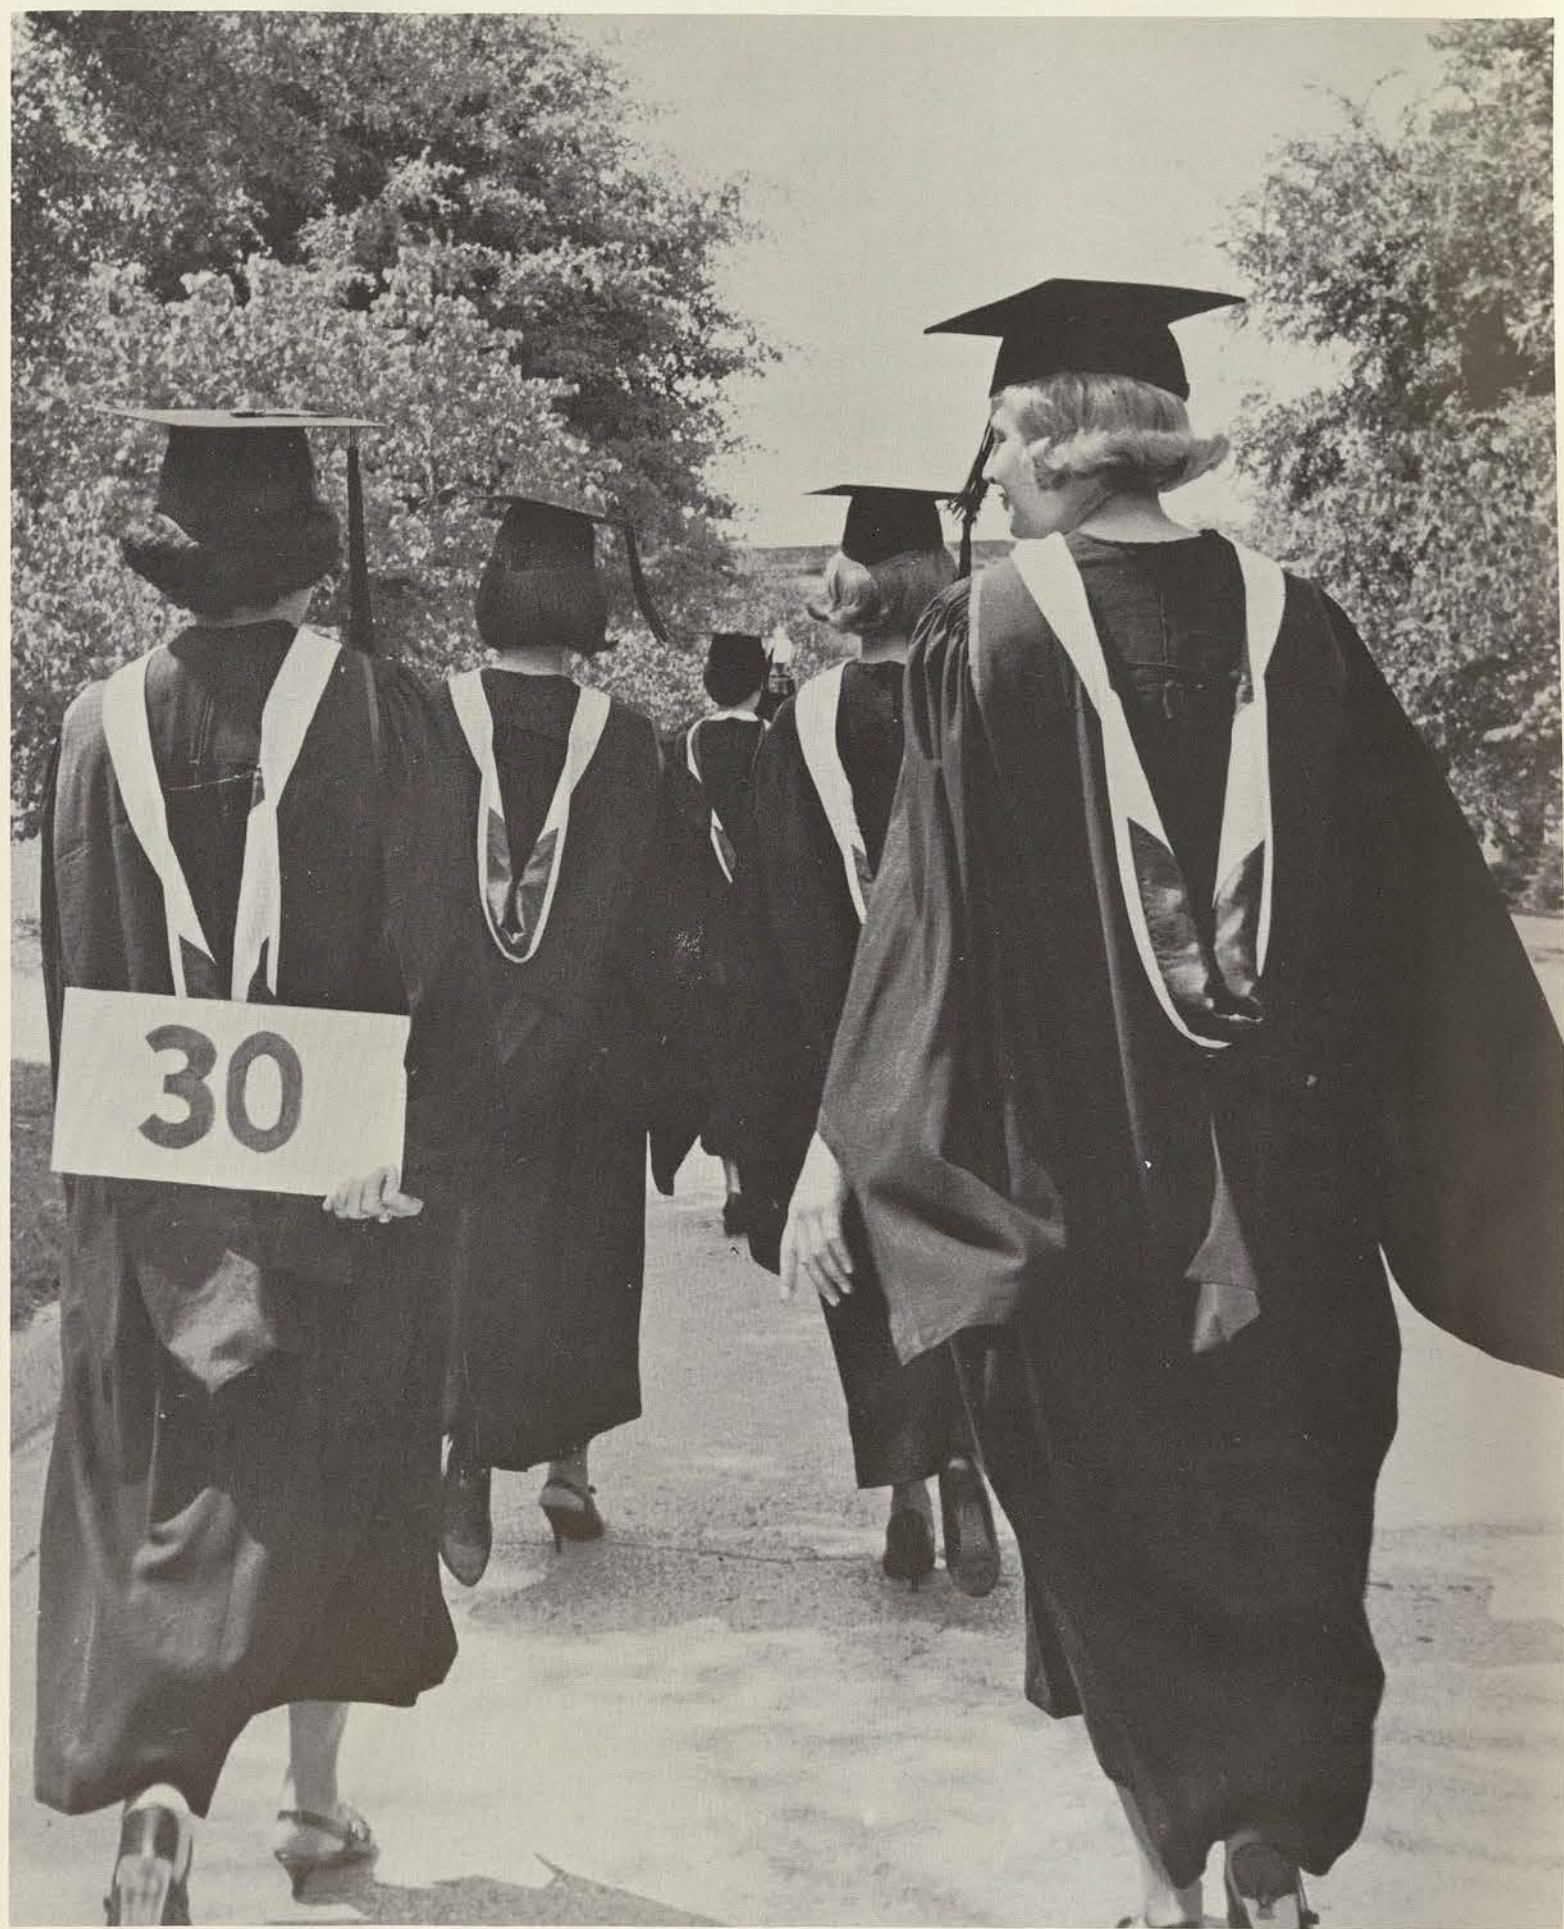

"Those fraternity guys at NTSU really 'bug' me following me all the time."

... think big about fashion?
... crave the best your budget can afford?
... want to dazzle on campus and off?

Then shop downtown Denton on the square — at Russell's, of course!
The store where all the young TWU fashionables gather to view the newest and greatest in fashions from shoes to swimsuits — to suits and formals!
Everything you need from head-to-toe in an ever changing, up-to-the-minute array.
