tscw's man of 'today'

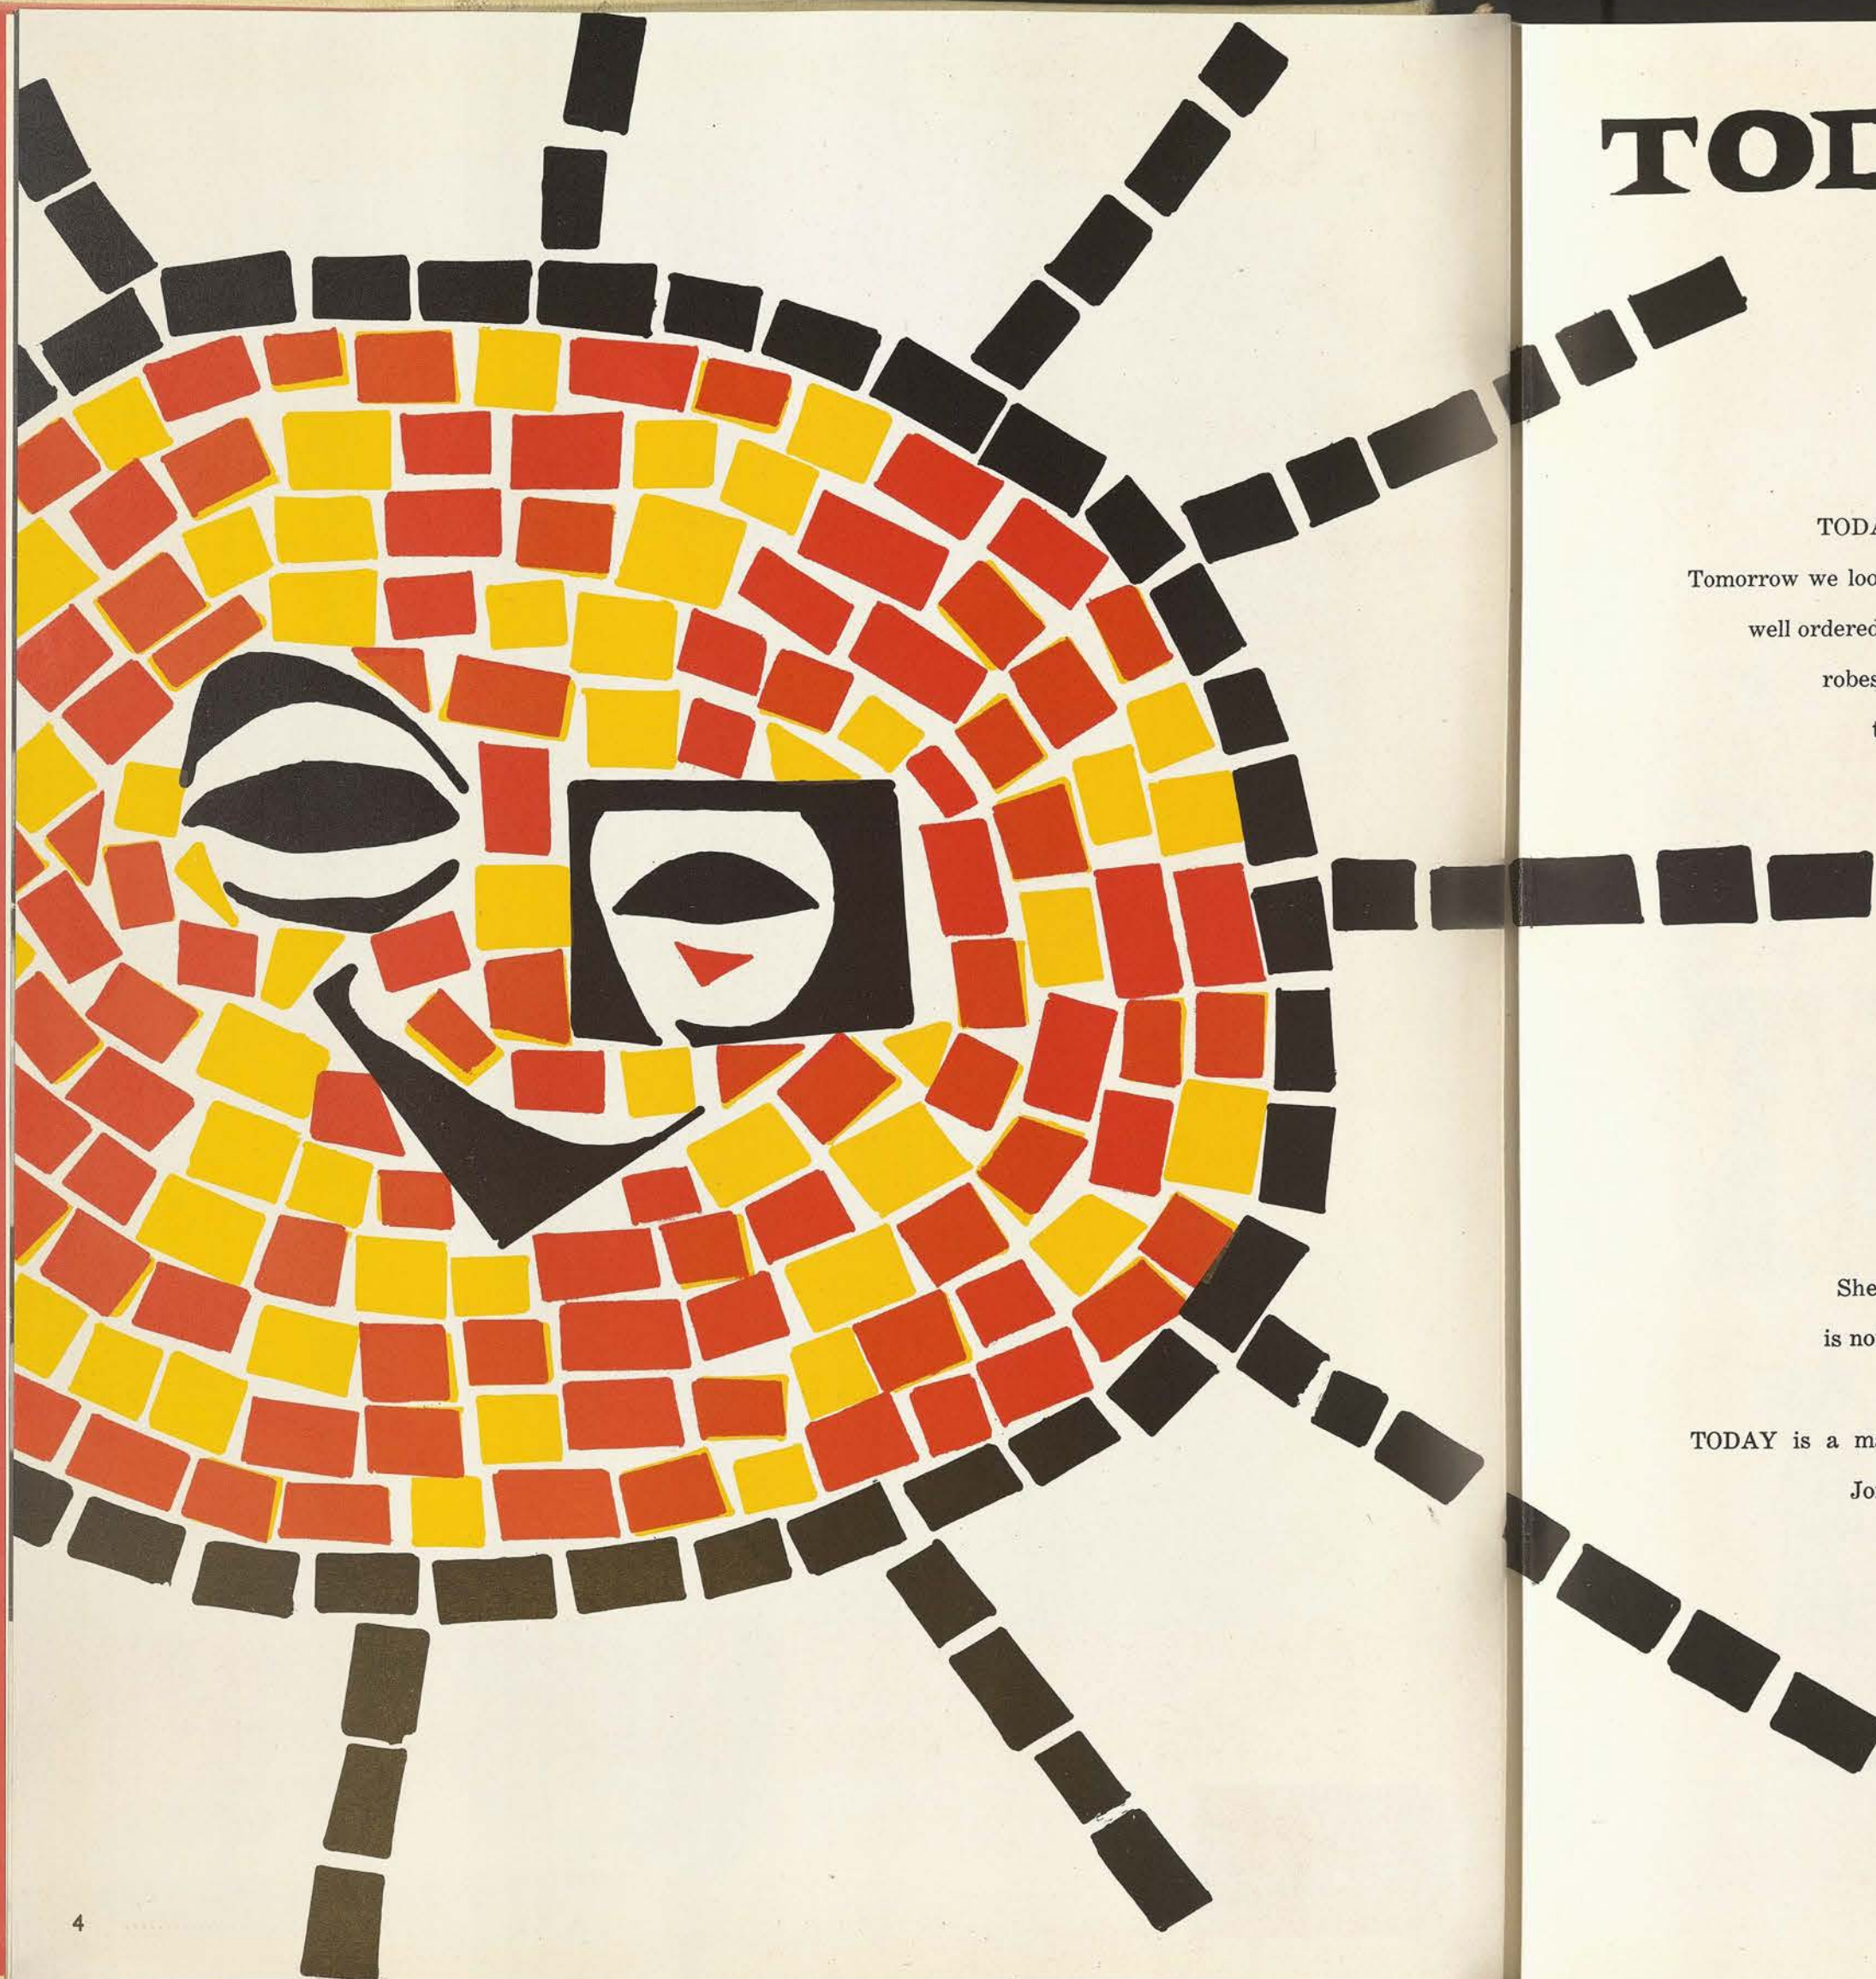

In line with our contemporary "Today" theme, we have chosen to dedicate the 1957 Daedalian to a man of contemporary ideals . . . Dr. E. Robert Black.

To those of us who have had classes under him, we know him as a vast well of knowledge and philosophy. To all others who know him as technical advisor to such activities as Class Stunts, his advice and criticism are held as flawless, and the most familiar reference to authority from members of all classes, is "Dr. Black said . . ." All at once congenial and severely critical, he inspires students to higher optimum in quality for extracurricular and classwork activities.

To the man who commands respect, as a professor of speech, as commentator on the arts, as advisor to college activities, and as an intellect and dynamic personality, we dedicate this volume.

TODAY

TODAY—uppermost in our thoughts, around us like oxygen. TODAY is the most complete survey of everything under the sun.

TODAY is important in our lives, for it destines tomorrow. Tomorrow we look to our jobs and a permanent place in society. It is well ordered as we picture it, and only when we approach it in the robes of today does it become disconnected and unravelled, there for us to knit back together again in its planned form. Today is the elevator without the doorknob, the troubled plumbing, and centipedes. But it is also the day of experience and learning, and a measure of the highest height we can attain . . . at least until tomorrow.

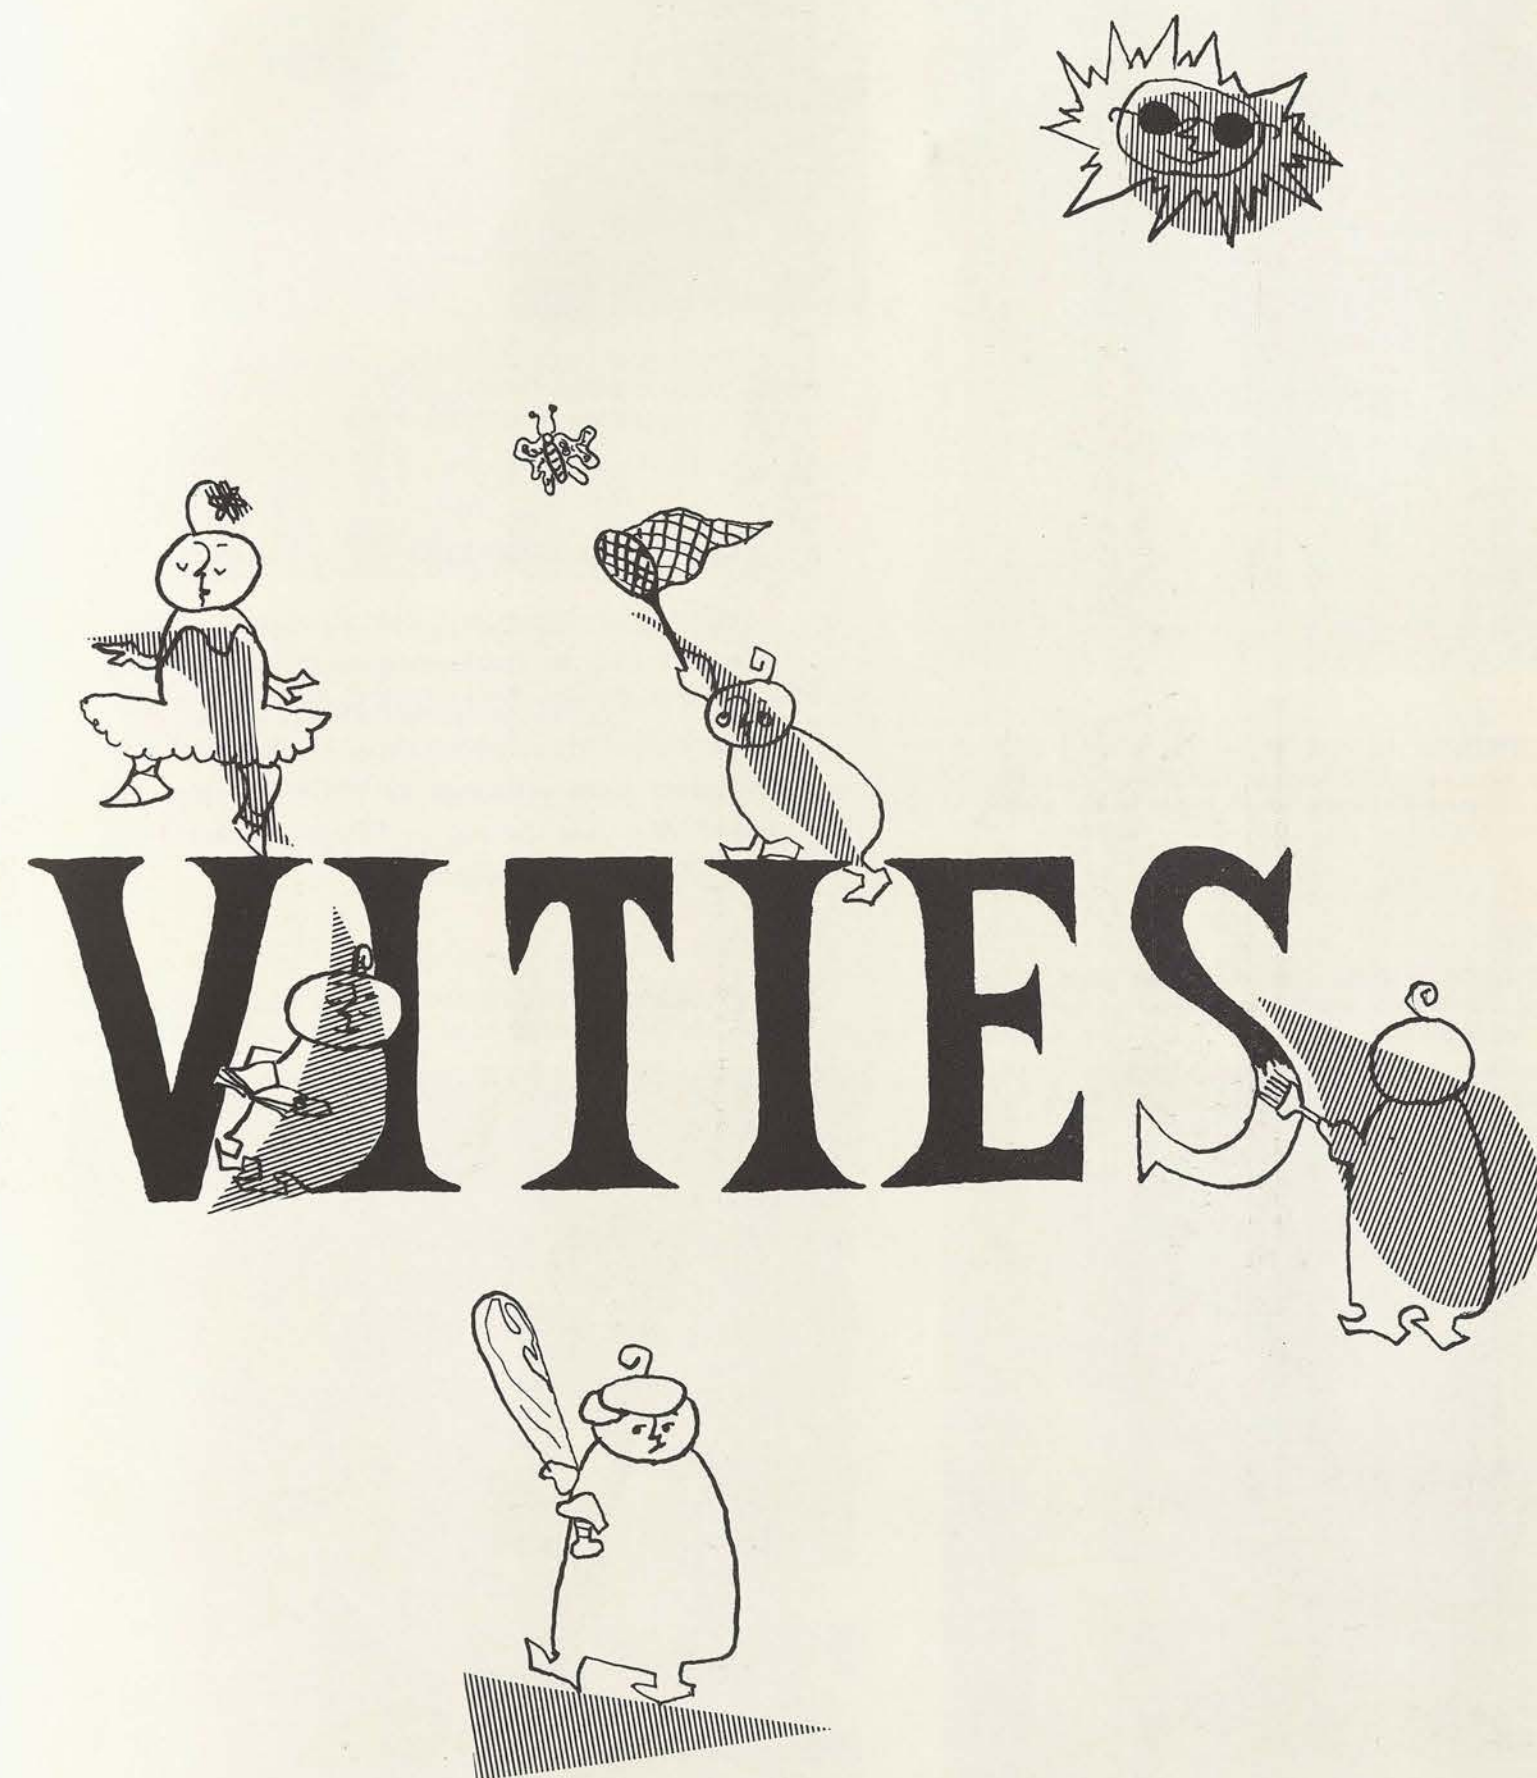

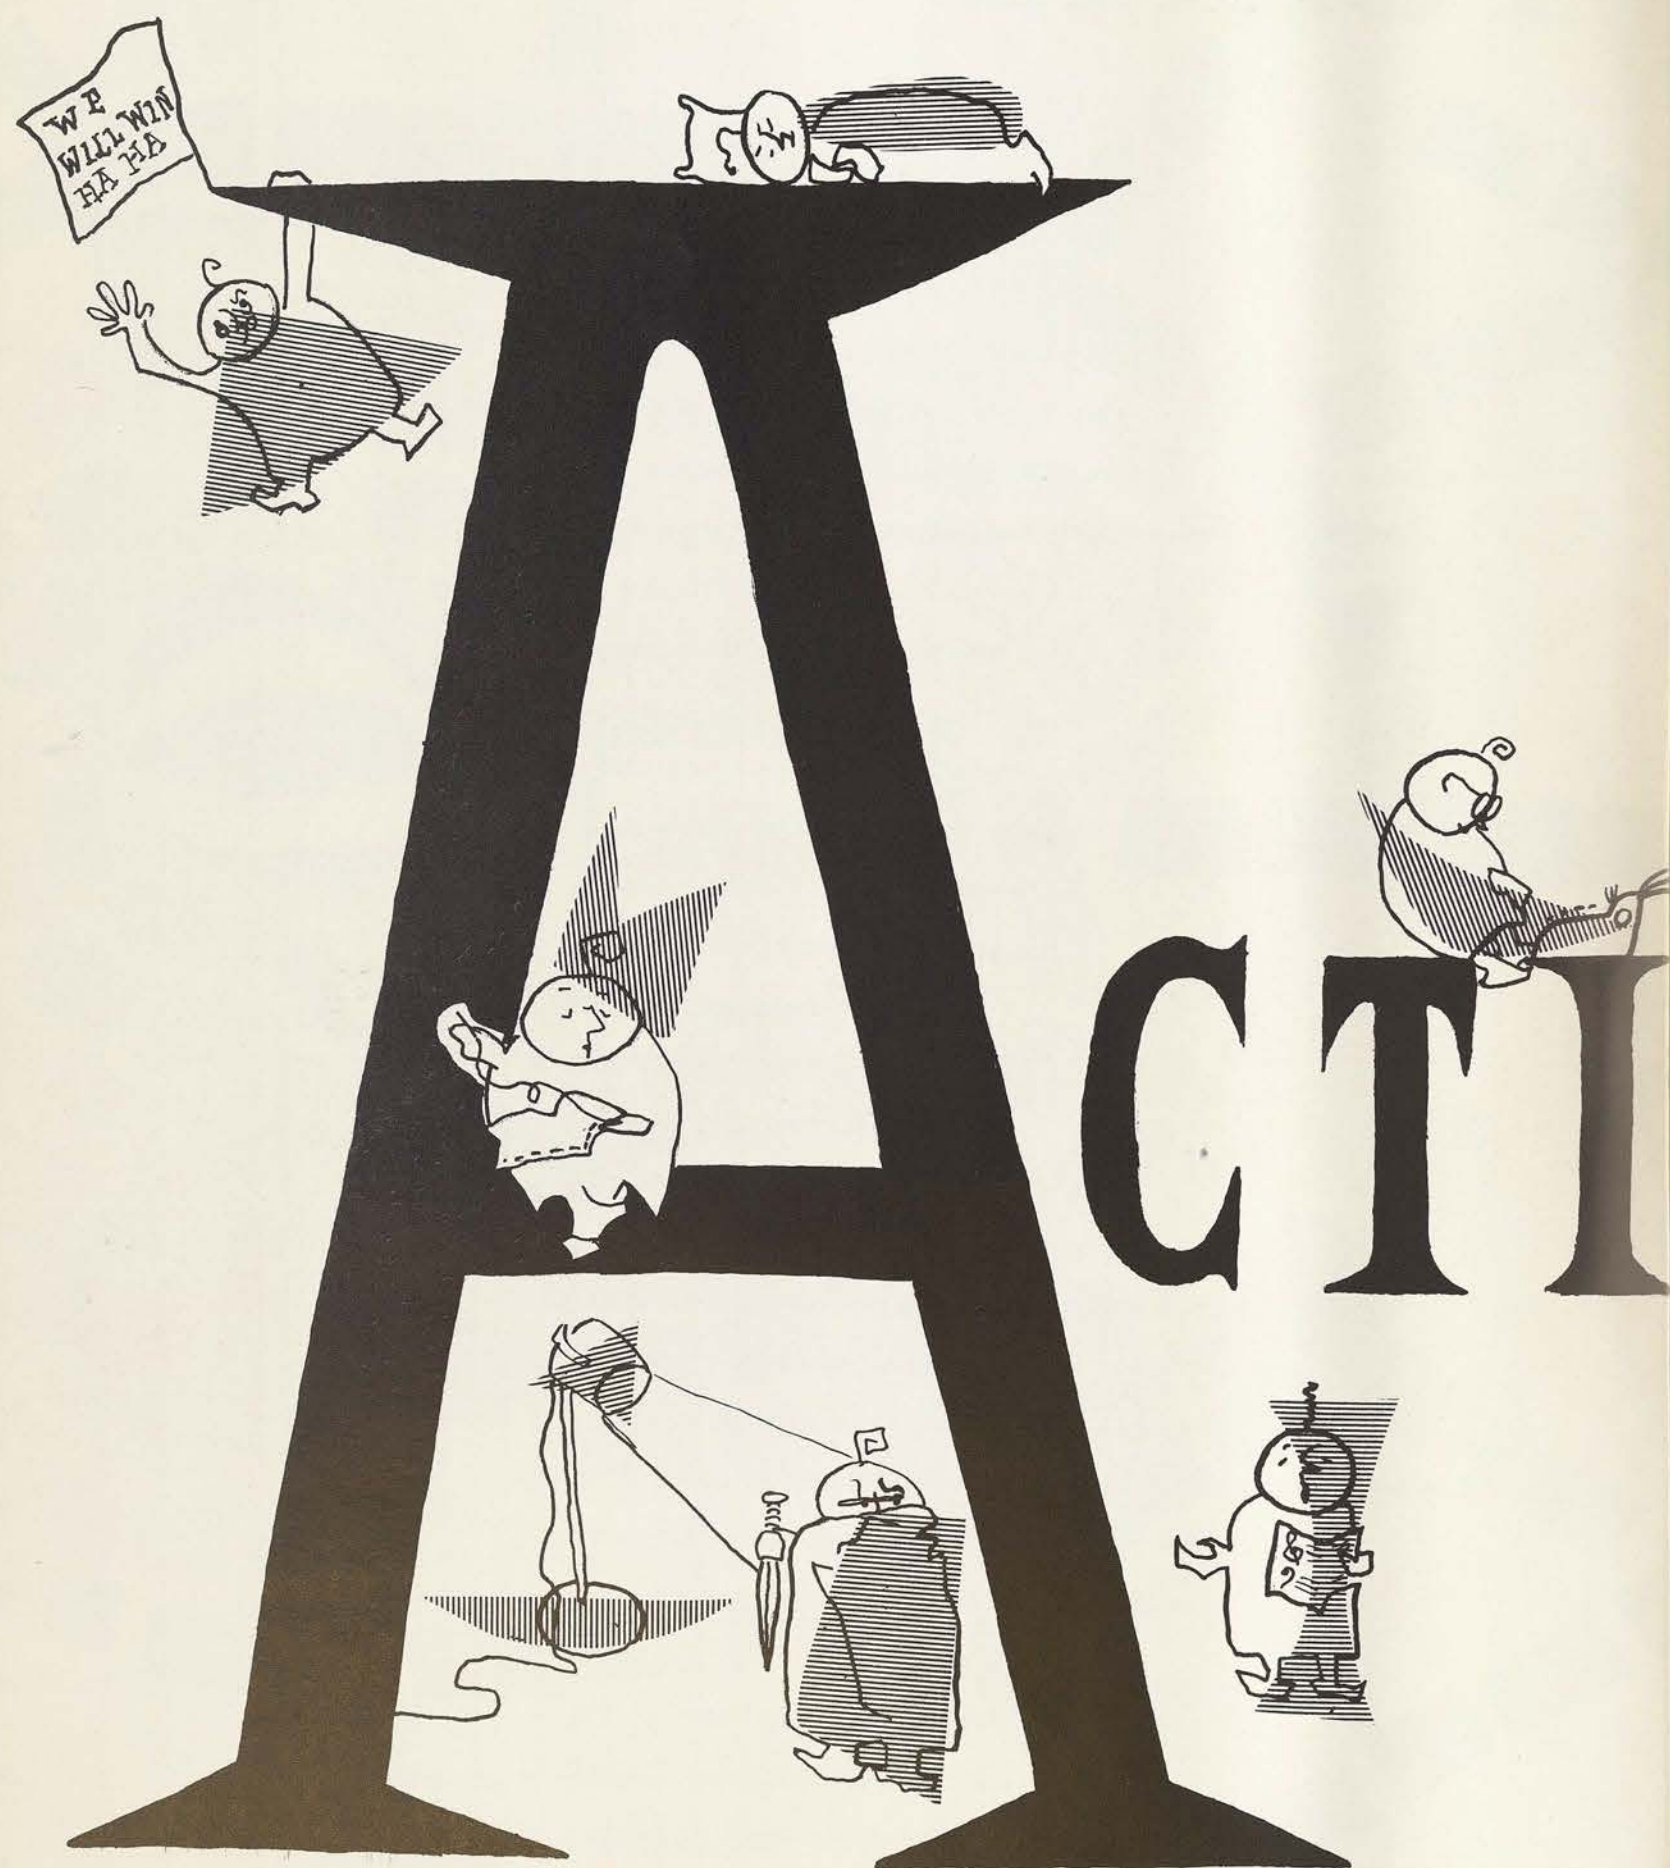

The college student, as we see it, is one of the most contemporary-thinking members of society, with brand-new discoveries to her credit, both private and institutional.

She finds it easier to accept the new campus architecture, is not shocked by growing modern philosophies, and treats solution of the impossible only as a matter of time.

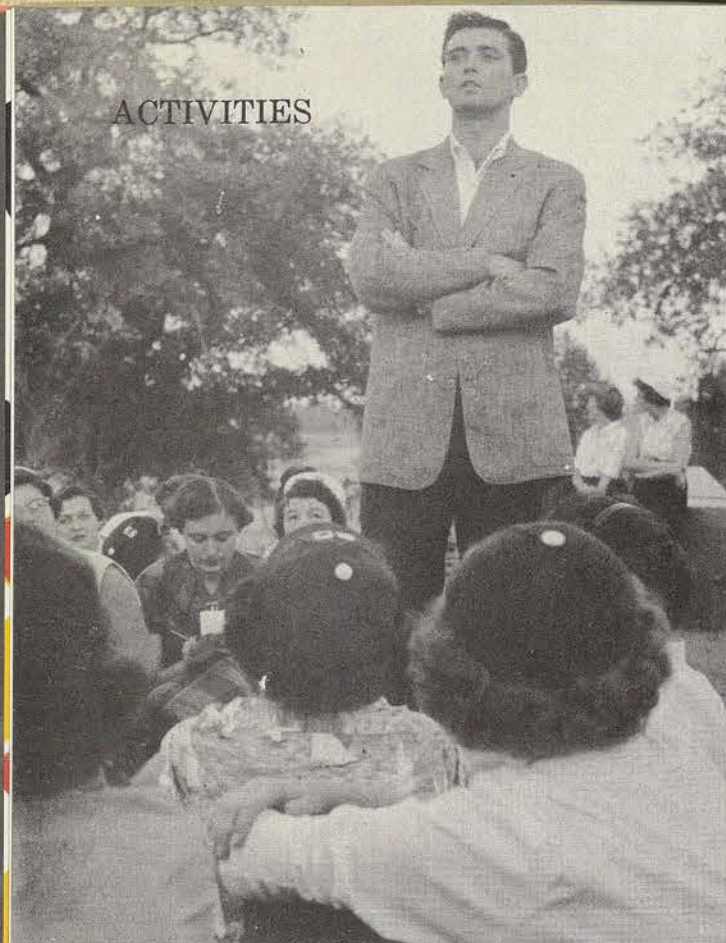

TODAY is a matter of keeping up with the world, not just the Joneses. In this way, the 1957 Daedalian has attempted, humbly, perhaps, not only to mirror today's college life frankly and realistically, but to practice what it preaches by creating what it believes is a contemporary, TODAY-minded idea in college journals.

BIG THRILL for freshmen was a visit from Allan Case, singing lead in the State Fair Musical, "Damn Yankees," who came to the picnic to plug the show and meet the freshmen.

"Give us a chance and look at us go; 1-9-6-0!" pierced the air as freshmen chose their class song at the Frosh Frolic on the lawn of President John A. Guinn's home in September. Fried chicken and picnic trimmings were consumed as TSCW's largest and newest class met the star of "Damn Yankees" and CGA officers in CIA uniforms.

OVER 1000 LANTERNS GLOWED brightly, symbolizing friendship between upperclassmen sponsors and their "little sisters" in the year's first all-college function, the Lantern Parade.

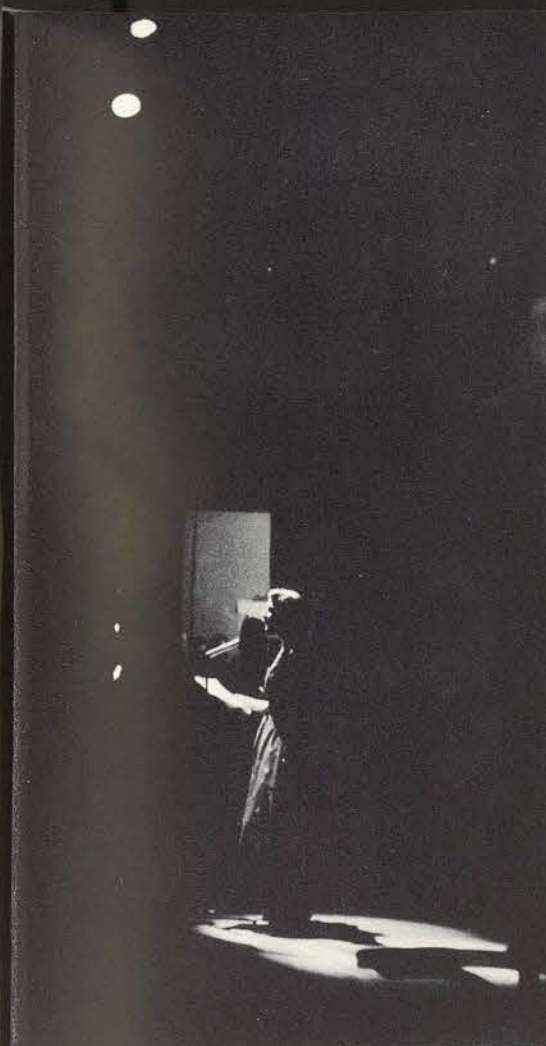

FIRE-LINE ILLUSION is given by time exposure photograph of Lantern Parade march, winding down the street in front of the Education Building. The parade route illumined the boundaries of the 220-acre campus from the Little Chapel, past the Household Arts Building and Demonstration School, down Texas Street and up to the Music-Speech Building, where the tour terminated.

For sort of a mass get-acquainted party for this year's record crop of freshmen, All-College Night, to introduce campus leaders, and the luminescent Lantern Parade, to meet upperclassmen personally, were consolidated into an evening's entertainment which included the friendship parade, old-fashioned sing-song and the all-college program.

ACTIVITIES

rummaging and reminiscing

The Student Finance Council, by offering students bargains in discarded jewelry, clothes, and furniture at below-bargain-base-ment prices at the Rummage Sale at the close of September, raised enough money for several freshman scholarships.

A week or so later the emphasis shifted from all-college to class organization, and all four classes had fall introductory fetes, including the Frosh Frolic, Sophomore Harvest Moon, Junior Hayride and Senior Breakfast. All get-togethers had a reminiscent flavor, the seniors presenting a program of Stunt songs, and the other classes including singing of traditional music.

Story book characters got crepe paper treatment as Gold Rush floats paraded across the TSCW campus and through downtown Denton. The project took hours of making papier mache, stuffing napkins into chicken wire and making book title letters three feet high. Tessies decorated booths by day, then turned into carnival barkers selling food, fortunes and fun that night. Student-produced variety shows carried customers "Out of Space" as Martian dancers, singers and bands performed.

Club hopefuls put on their best party finery to meet literary-social members at a pre-rush tea which preceeded a week of rush parties given by each club. After treasure hunts, steak frys, space rides, scenes behind the Green Door, trips to candy land and gypsy, penthouse and country-style parties, most rushees became pledges. Then it was members' turn to be honored while lowly pledges waxed floors, washed cars, ironed clothes and sang praises to the club of their choice.

Life on the TSCW campus wouldn't be complete without the thrill of receiving that Senior ring, eating Halloween Dinner on white tablecloths decorated with black cats, numerous teas and open houses, or hearing three bells at 2 a.m. which mean a dash downstairs for a fire drill.

STRIPED SUSPENDERS and six-part harmony directed by Sue Hampe won Stoddard's cowboy-attired ladies, singing "Oh Suzannah," the blue ribbon in the Sing-Song contest.

WRA's October Corn Huskin' Bee recreates an early American festival, including hog and chicken calling, log sawing contests and folk dancing, heartily punctuated with the smell of hot cider and other refreshments. The Rusk system tallied the most points toward the WRA cup in the Bee's competition, Smith-Carroll Hall collected the blue ribbon for shucking the most corn in three minutes, and Stoddard Hall's chorus, singing "Oh Suzannah," placed first in the Sing-Song contest.

"I Remember Mama," a freshman theatre production, stages the trials and tribulations of a Norwegian family in America. The story is told by Katrin, the oldest daughter who later became a successful writer by telling it in a book published under a pseudonym. Throughout the play the wisdom and love of Mama was the bulwark on which the entire family depended. It was Mama who made the relatives realize after Uncle Chris' death that love is more important than money and pride.

LAST MINUTE retouching is applied to the makeup of the doctor by Dr. Josh P. Roach, director of the production.

LITTLE CHAPEL SERVICE began the final day of judging sweetheart nominees.

Eleven Aggie "brass" judges spent a glorious TSCW weekend judging and socializing with that many nominees before choosing Shelby Sanders for the 1957 Aggie Sweetheart title. Nominees were elected from their classes, underwent preliminary judging by Aggies via photographs.

The Aggies, several thousand strong, returned northward to TSCW several weeks later to escort their Tessie dates to the Pre-Corps Trip Dance on campus and the Corps Trip itself in Dallas.

"I MAY VOMIT!" groans the convalescent Sheridan Whiteside (Ruth Brown) as he surveys the admiring or indifferent crowd of people who have come to watch or assist in his entrance from "that drafty sewer you call the library." Among the varied specimens of mankind subjected to his sufferings are (left to right) a neighbor-admirer, Mrs. McCutcheon (Marijo Roach); June Stanley (Cindy Searles); the local-yokel doctor, Dr. Bradley (Dana Smith); Whiteside's nurse, Miss Preen (Dodie Anselin); and his secretary, Maggie Cutler (Alice Coleman).

WHITESIDE'S GIRL FRIDAY, Maggie Cutler, is the only one of his associates who manages to be blasé about the famous man and is able to put up with his tantrums and ups and downs.

man who came to dinner

Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's "Man Who Came to Dinner" is a direct characterization of the late Alexander Woollcott, author, humorist, broadcaster, and super-cynic. In the play, Sheridan Whiteside (played by Ruth Brown in the Little Theater-Arts in Action presentation) is all of these.

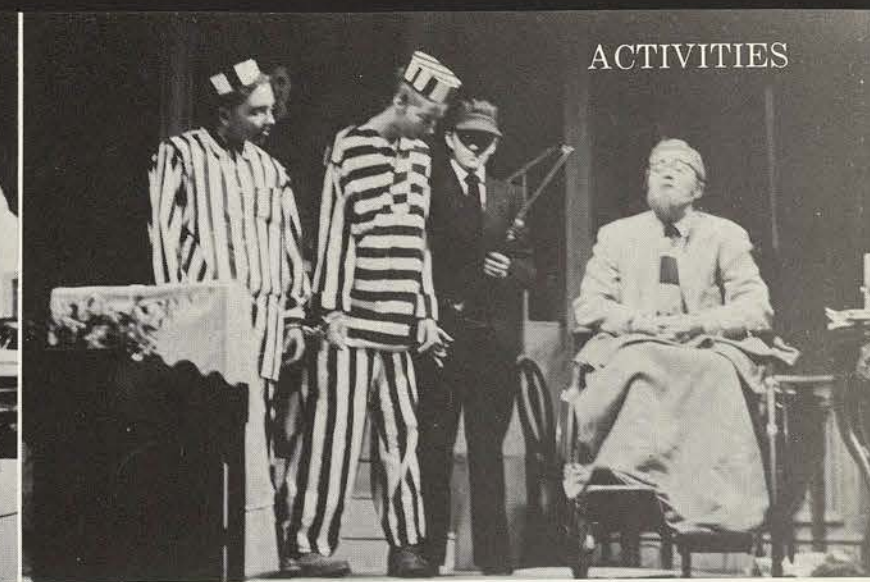

Whiteside manages to lead everyone a merry—or miserable—chase during a convalescent period for a broken leg, from driving the Earnest W. Stanley family from their own living quarters and disrupting their personal lives to rearranging the love-life of Whiteside's actress-friend, Loraine Sheldon.

The TSCW presentation, directed by Dr. Robert Black, played to capacity all three nights during its run as part of the Arts in Action series. All actresses in the play indicated by their performances that they thoroughly enjoyed the reign of Sheridan Whiteside.

PERFECT GUESTS for dinner, in Whiteside's estimation, are two convicts from the Elias P. Crockfield home, including Henderson and Michaelson (Edna Steen, Cindy Searles), the former who as a hatchet-fiend "always chopped them up in a salad bowl."

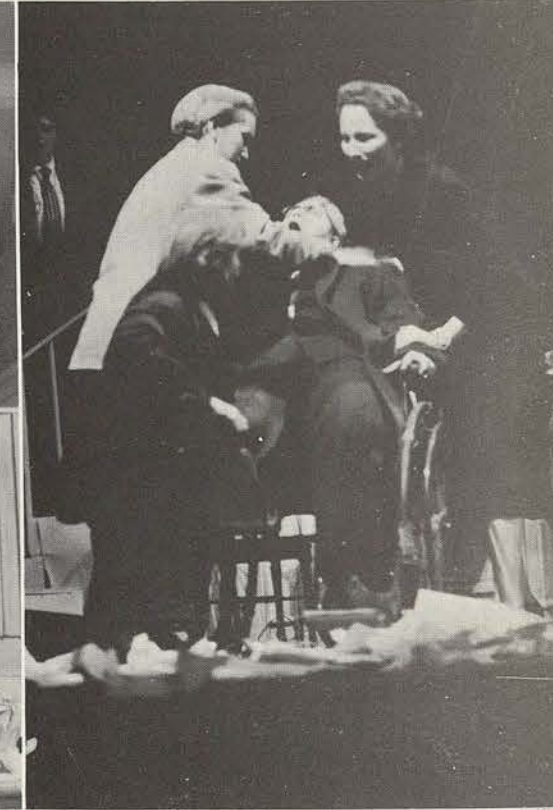

"GOOD EVENING, Mr. Whiteside," was the usual greeting of Harriet Stanley (Barbara Ward), the slightly nutty link in the Stanley family and an intense admirer of Whiteside.

OVERFLOWING WITH PEACE AND KINDNESS, Whiteside broadcasts with his singing guests, in this case the Denton Boy Choir, representing the calm before the storm, represented by Stanley family outbursts and Miss Preen, having just been bitten by a gift penguin.

MORE GIFTS AND GUESTS, Actress Loraine Sheldon (Helen Travis) and an Egyptian mummy case make a case in point on how to get rid of an unwanted guest and an undesired mummy case, via trapping during a dramatic recitation. Banjo and Whiteside co-conspired.

"OWW, DAMN IT!" Whiteside breaks his leg again while leaving from a week-long confinement. Coming to his call are a reporter, Bert Jefferson (Jane Johnson), Dr. Bradley and Maggie.

about stunts . . .

When Shakespeare said, "the play's the thing," he just hadn't seen Stunts.

Perhaps this is a slight exaggeration by technical standards, but Stunts, activity-wise, are the most important event of the school year to nearly 1500 on-campus students of TSCW.

According to the calendar, Stunts and preceding preparations occupy about three weeks of the school year. This is realistically a gross underestimate, since embryo Stunt ideas start coming to life early in the school year, and often it's "I'm going to write a Stunt this summer," or "I've had this in the back of my mind for years."

Truthfully, TSCW students are Stunt-minded in the intense stage for a short interim lasting for four years between high school and employment or marriage.

Other tributes to the importance of Stunts are that February is referred to as Stunt season rather than winter, and the class that wins the Stunt cup gains permanent prestige in the eyes of all, just as if they'd won the Pulitzer prize.

Stunts this year claimed a few distinctions all its own. It was a sort of an Era of Good Feeling (notwithstanding a few healthy, minor skirmishes), with classes enjoying the hospitality of joint coke parties during breaks in rehearsal schedules. The secrets of sets and themes were not held in as supreme importance as before, and often construction went on with open doors and with the exchange of nails, hinges, tools, and even advice. Stunt casts and crews also attained an almost impossible and certainly difficult height by developing and maintaining friendship in competing camps, despite the occasion and the season.

Perhaps disinterested onlookers and critics will question the emphasis and space devoted to Stunts in this section. To this we say that as much attention doubtless is paid to football in other institutions, and instead of football, we have Stunts. (And privately, we think this is an improvement.) We also swear by the fine old doctrine of "give 'em what they want."

We sincerely believe that this is what you want. We hope so.

streak of the winners — junior class

Stunts came to a dramatic climax Saturday night when Dean Emerson said, "Will the President of the Junior Class". And by that time the juniors were bombarding the stage and Dean Emerson. They didn't stop yelling until well into the night, and then a few dazed juniors could still be heard asking, "Did we really win?" Class of '56 exes were happy not only for their sister class but because of one sentence in the stunt program: "We wish to dedicate this stunt to the Class of 1956."

CAMPAIGNING FOR CGA PRESIDENT, Kay Williams finds no place more appropriate for a soapbox serenade than Smith-Carroll laundry room where she talks with two students about election issues, campaign platforms and reminds them to "Vote for Kay on election day."

soapboxes and ballot boxes

All-College Elections brought posters, handbills and candidates wearied by door-to-door campaigning. Nominated by their classmates, office hopefuls filed to a student-faculty committee who drew up a slate of candidates for top campus posts: College Government Association and Women's Recreation Association officers and Student Finance Council president. After campaign speeches the Pub became "advertising space" to attract voters. The topic of the hour was "Who do you think will win?" Enthusiastic campaigners interrupted groups to tell their qualifications and goals. Returns came in after 6 p.m. the night of March 12, with news spreading like wildfire via "runners" on the campus and long-distance calls.

BACKBONE OF IT ALL was student-faculty nominating committee who thought and discussed and thought some more to make sure that each nominee was a candidate for the office for which she was best suited.

"WONDER HOW THEY MADE THAT?" Bobbie Wiggins asks as she gazes at one of the many ingenious posters which decorated the Pub during campaign week.

"LET'S SEE NOW; who are you running against?" Pat Gaughan (third from left) asks CGA candidate Sally Roberts as Sis Wones, Tric Whitehurst and Pat Quesenberry examine Sally's handbills.

EVEN IN THE SHOWER, candidates sought out potential voters to ask their support. Trudy Becker, CGA secretarial hopeful, cautions Caroline Young not to get her handbill wet.

"WHAT IS YOUR STAND ON MILK MACHINES?" Mike Murphy, CGA secretarial candidate, parries questions of an interested group of constituents in Smith-Carroll's third floor lounge.

Self-Development Week began with a Daily Lass-O-sponsored Best Dressed Girl contest, the winner of which had her picture submitted to the national contest in Glamour magazine. A Posture Queen was chosen from dormitory representatives. One hundred of TSCW's most representative girls became princesses to climax the week with a multi-color spectacle, the Redbud Festival.

"SOME OF YOU look like you're going to fall apart when you curtsy," Dr. E. Robert Black, technical advisor, tells princesses at dress rehearsal Wednesday night.

FEATURING "BEAUTY" TIPS

STEP ONE leads to good posture, grace and level-headedness.

you mite* be beautiful, too

*you might at that

EACH LASH must have that turned-up and curled-up feeling.

AFTER TREATMENT, the eyes require a treatment.

SHAPE OF THE BROW merits special care; one must be single-hair concerned.

According to many of the fashion and beauty experts, there are certain steps (if taken daily) that will lead directly to beauty, poise and success. Lou Campbell has her nightly ceremony which should lead her to beauty, poise and above all, success (if the accompanying illustrations are any indication). What does her mirror reveal?

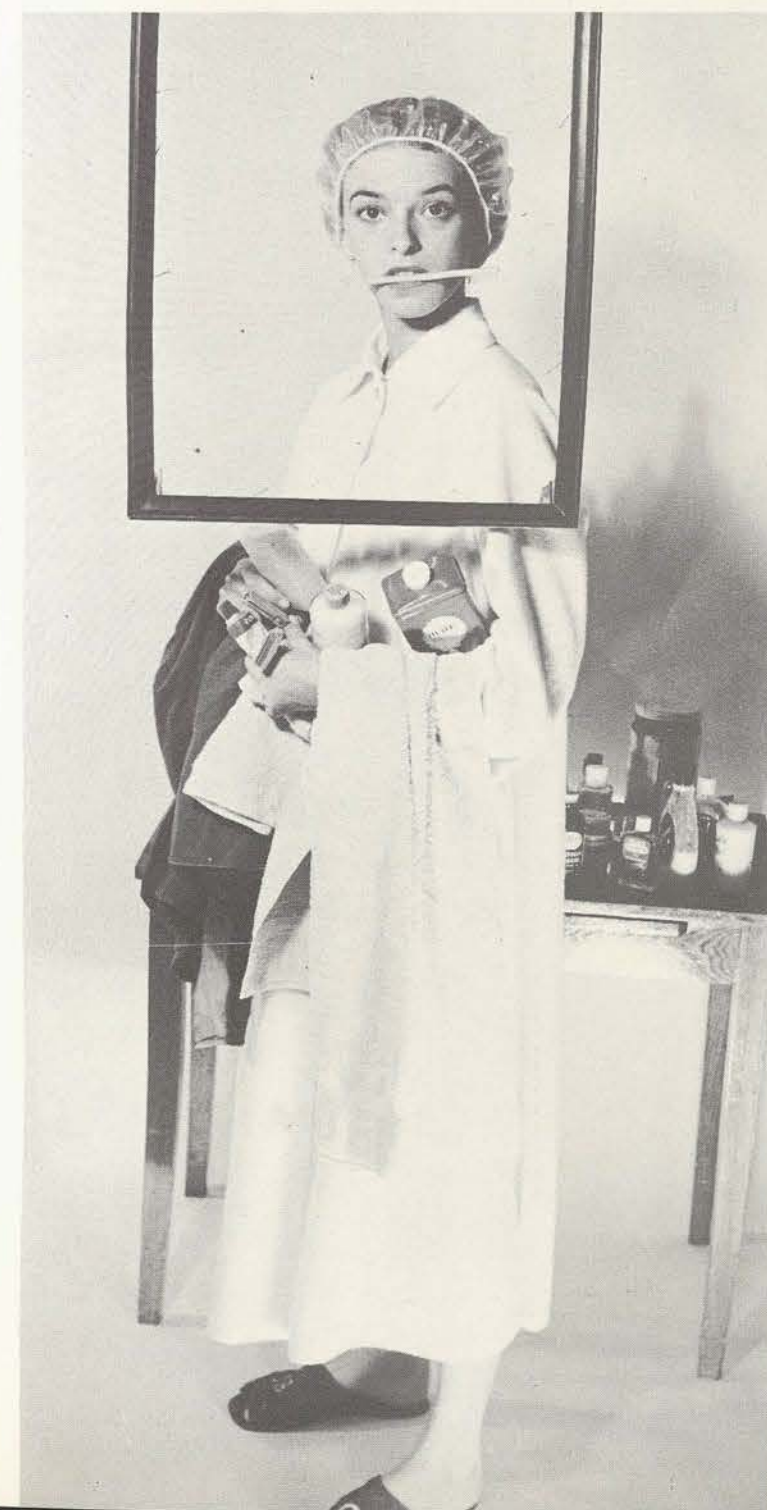

EXERCISE is an improving performance, and it helps the flat tummy and to flatten the tummy.

CIRCULATION can't help but be improved with this treatment.

CLEANLINESS IS A "MUST". Tools, materials and other equipment for the bath may be carried in a bag, if you prefer.

FEATURING "BEAUTY" TIPS

NEXT STEP is a cooling creamy cleaning, and you must use the upward stroke.

NOT TOO TIGHT, NOW, and not too loose, and no caught fingers and you have a lovely rag-pincurl.

KNEES KNOW and request certain soothing lotion care.

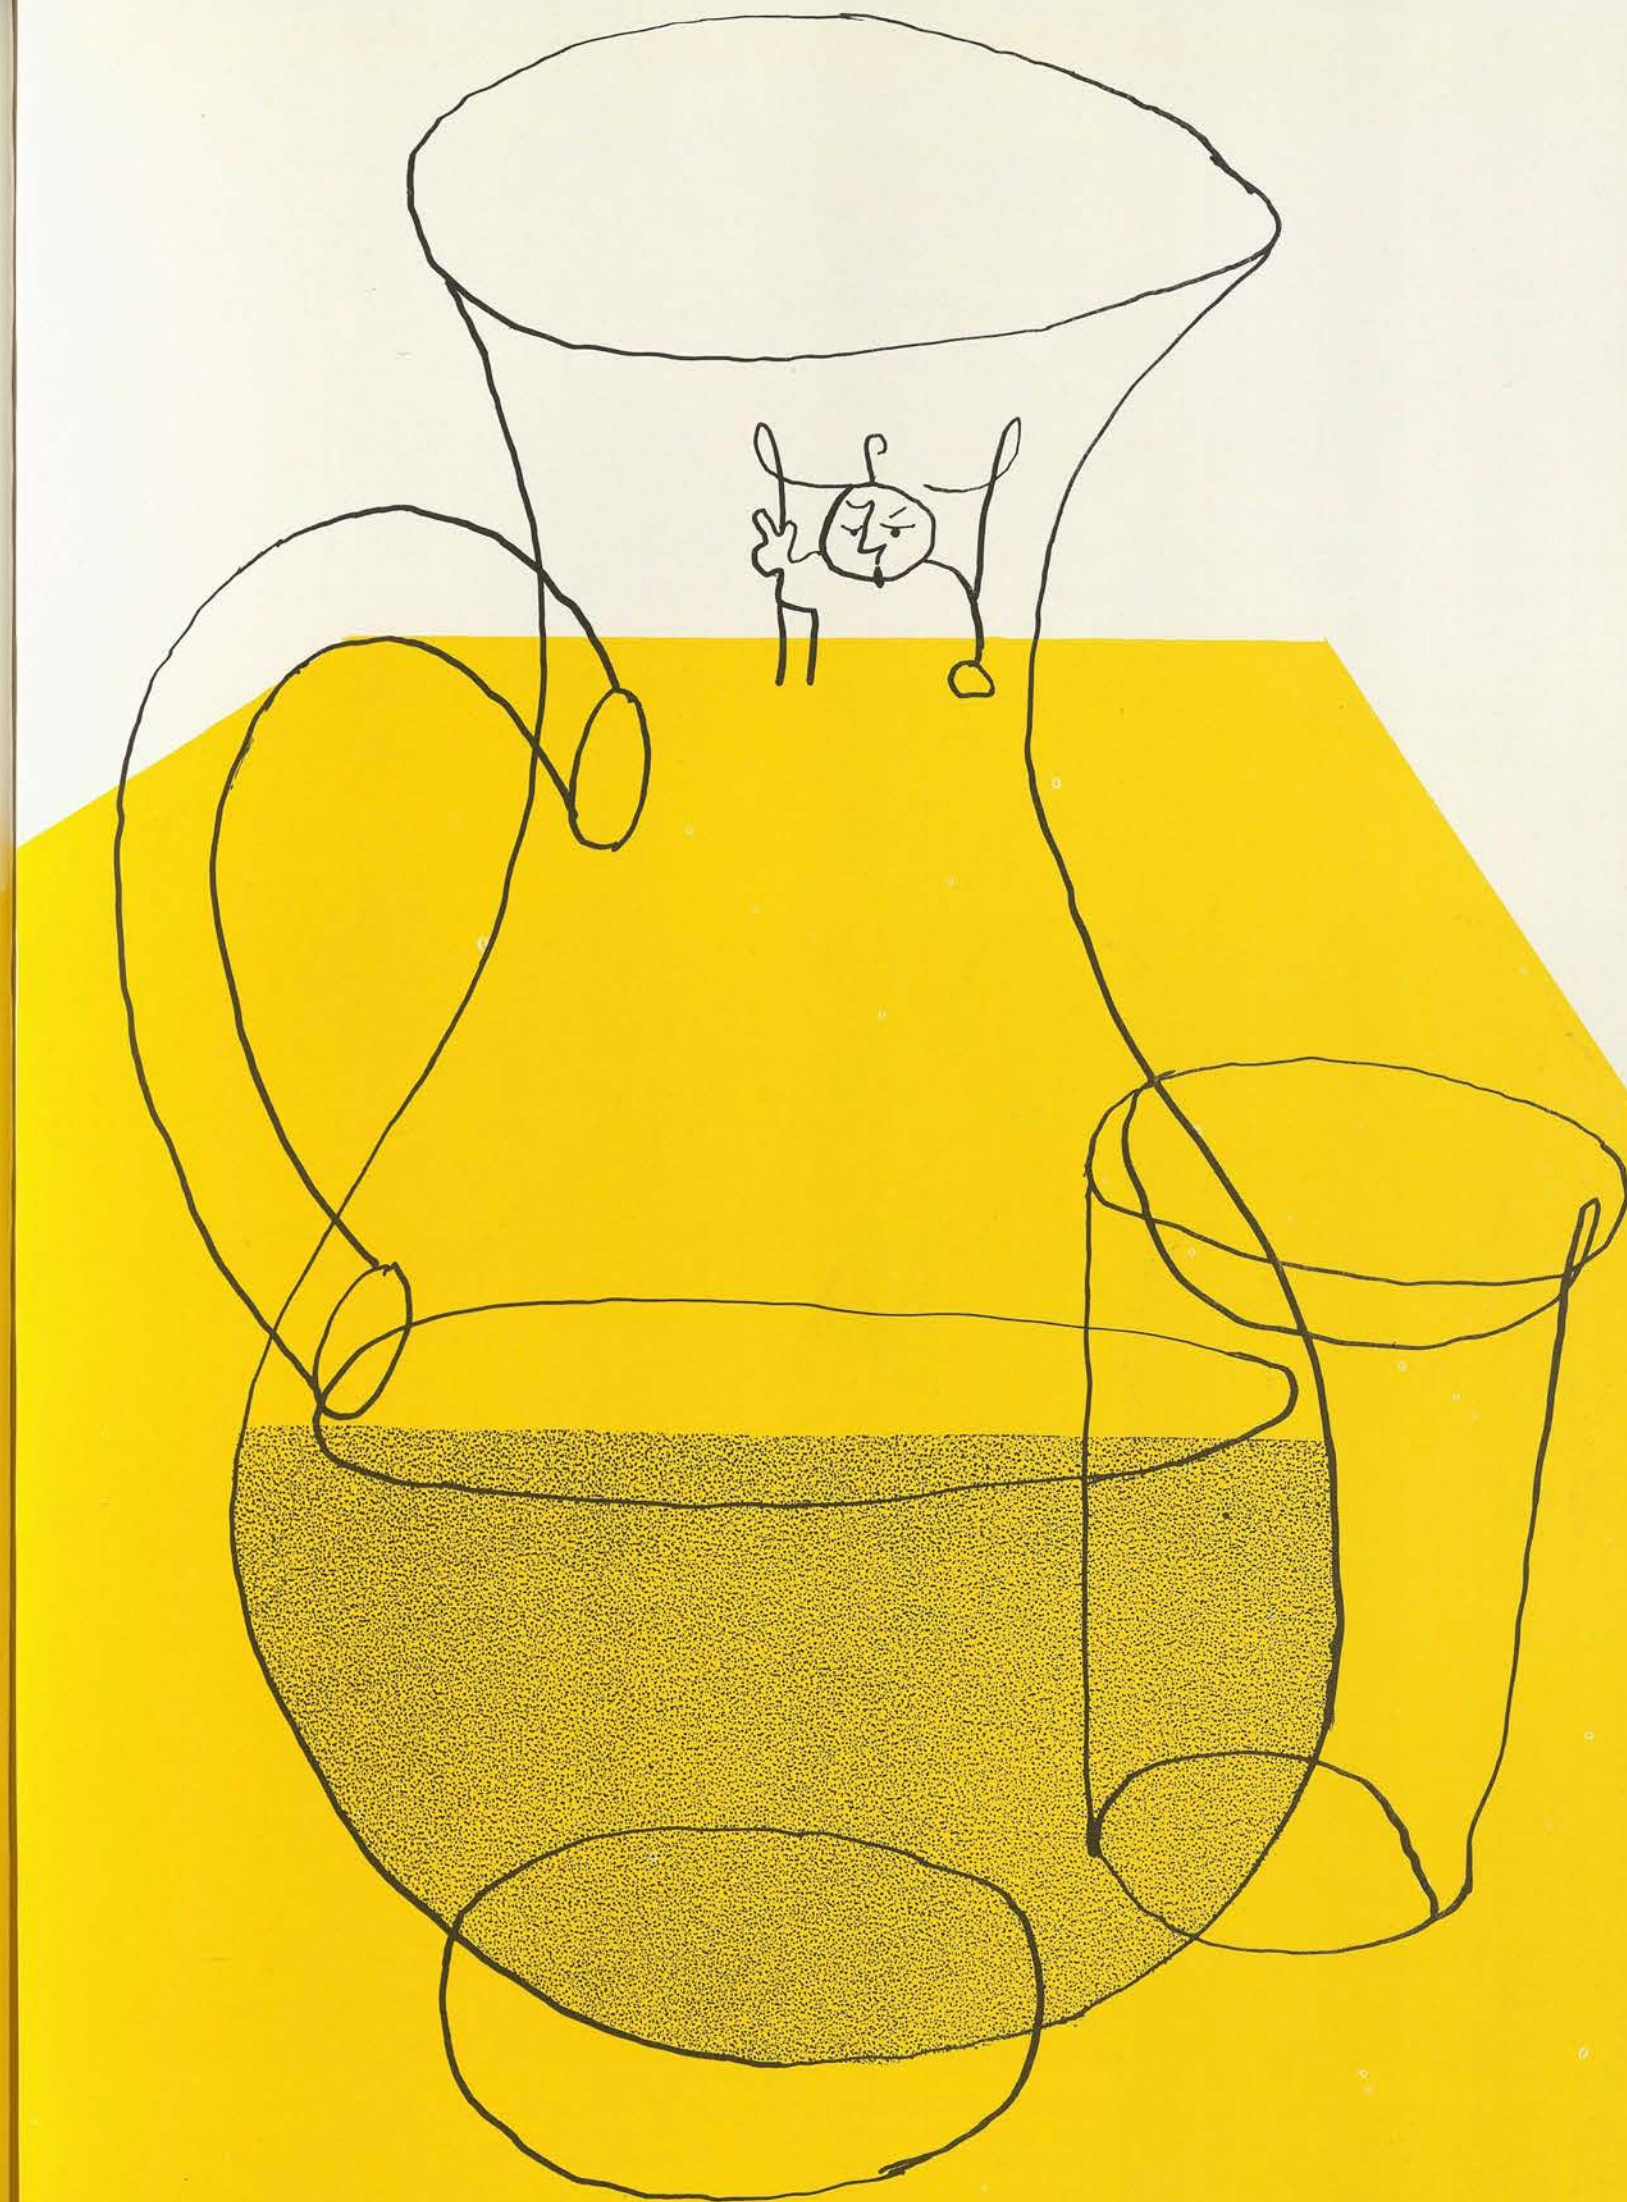

ONE MORE sticking, cooling, and smoothing lotion goes on the face.

ONE MUST relax the eyes before sleep in order not to have circles as a result of the long beauty routine.

FRESHMAN ASSISTANTS, who got the opportunity to aid on all sections, include (left to right) Edna Steen, Alberta Allen, Donna Jean Hobby, and Ruth Ann Abat.

QUARTERLY MATERIAL is meticulously proofread by Mrs. Juanita Helm, editor, before it is printed.

LINOTYPIST for the Lass-O and the Quarterly is Herbert Church, whose busy fingers set up thousands of words each day.

PRESS FOREMAN is Henry Blagg, always ready to help in any emergency, whether it's a broken press or a needed ride to town.

college press: publication center

jean hagedorn

Jean Hagedorn's main interests are her major, speech therapy, and both student and national governmental affairs. Jean's been representative to the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association for two years and has been instrumental in planning and executing the TSCW projects in TISA. Interested in politics and the national scene, Jean was an enthusiastic booster to "get out the vote" during the fall elections.

jean francis

Two important items in life—food and knowledge—are the concern of nutrition major Jean Francis. Jean has mastered the complex field of dietetics and nutrition as well as subjects in intellectual areas, including french and philosophy. She's been president of Le Cercle Francais and of Newman club during her years here. The Borden scholarship winner is known for her sense of humor and gusty laughter.

shirley brownlow

Shirley Brownlow is probably best known as the editor-in-chief of the Daily Lass-O and as the owner of a quite lofty gradepoint average. Not only does she possess scholastic and journalistic merits, but she takes interest in all phases of dormitory and campus activities. Shirley says she'd like to work as a general or feature reporter for a small-town newspaper, but immediate plans include marriage.

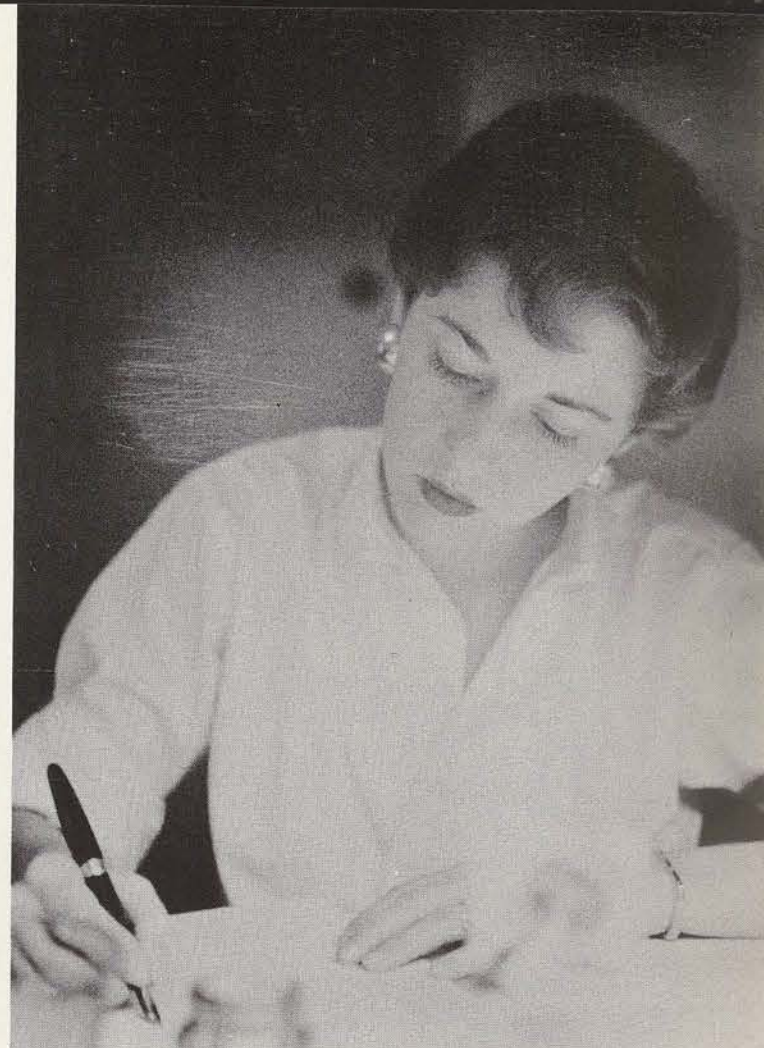

mary ann mc connell

A career of helping others rehabilitate is the one chosen by Mary Ann McConnell, senior Occupational Therapy major. Excelling in crafts, Mary Ann can use her skills in teaching others to manipulate these crafts for recovery purposes. Mary Ann, active on the campus as a counselor her sophomore year and in her social club as an officer, collects old editions of books. In addition to that, she has a flair for writing and has had work published in the Quarterly.

Aware that there's a lot in the world to know, Suzanne Kingsley works at learning—night and day. Suzanne majors in English and is an ardent student of french literature and the language, preferring to read Sartre, Moliere, and others in the original, untranslated form. Suzanne has kept a flawless scholastic record while at TSCW and served as Alpha Chi president this fall. The Foote Scholarship recipient hopes to do work in a house publication when she completes her college work.

Strictly an antithesis to the usual conception of a librarian is perky Janice Rich. The senior student not only likes books but music; she's been a modern choir member since she was a freshman and also collects records. Janice heads her departmental honorary society, Alpha Beta Alpha, this year. She hopes to do graduate work, and her ultimate aim is managing a high school library.

Margaret "Pug" Hunter Roberts started off her TSCW career with a bang as freshman class president, and she's been a steady performer for the school and her class since. She's been Houston Hall president, College Government Association secretary last year. Pug has an insatiable desire to make friends and meet people of all types, and her natural curiosity gives her all sorts of subjects on which to talk. A business major, Pug has been a fixture as assistant in the Dean's office since her sophomore year. She recently joined her husband overseas after completing her college work at mid-term.

doris jean odle

A rare individual who can tackle mathematics without qualms is Doris Jean Odle. Quite simple, says Doris Jean, because it all works out logically. As one of the mathematics department's top students, it is logical that she has served as president of both the E. V. White Mathematics Club and the honorary society, Kappa Mu Epsilon. With an aptitude for the sciences, the industrial facet appeals to Doris Jean, so she would like to work in engineering and research fields.

"The girl behind the desk," Ethel Solomon, not only has been known to students for most of the college interim as a residential assistant, but has done outstanding work in not one but two departments—journalism and radio-television. Her internship on the paper at Texarkana last summer was instrumental in gaining her a Sigma Delta Chi scholarship for journalism, her major. Besides that, she has served as station manager to WCST this year. Ethel intends to work as a wire service reporter.

The best possible substitute for a dynamo is enthusiastic, energetic Jane Perry, whose leadership of the 1957 class has inspired them to many victories, both in Stunts and in other group projects. Having directed three of four of her class's Stunt presentations, she has won unlimited admiration from co-workers and class members. Jane's a major in health, physical education and recreation and has a special fondness for modern dance, having toured with the TSCW group several times. Music plays a big part in Jane's life, too, and she collects all types of records, one favorite being "Swan Lake."

shirlene williamson

Shirlene "Willie" Williamson loves camping, the outdoors, and her major, health, physical education and recreation. Her excellence in her field and in participation sports (she won a badminton cup this year) are equalled only by her unexpected dry sense of humor. Willie, who has held several WRA offices, will probably teach after graduation, and has her eye on graduate work and a college teaching position.

beth vernon

Sociology major Beth Vernon has been described by teachers and associates as an outstanding case worker during her pre-graduate training at the Dallas Juvenile Detention Home this year. Beth, interested in SCRA and other religious organizations, wants to combine her interests by being a church social worker. Also hoped for in the future is advanced degree work.

dixie yates

The girl with south in her mouth, Dixie Yates, is a prospective interior designer for the city of Baton Rouge in her native Louisiana. With thorough training in her field, Dixie has a working knowledge of the whys and wherefores of blending fabrics, color, and furniture, and of other decorating problems. Not to be underestimated is Dixie's record of leadership at TSCW, including her presidency of Round Table this year and of the Student Finance Council last year. She's also been president of Austin Hall and was a freshman class officer.

It would be hard to say whether Linda Crawford has been more outstanding as a student of advertising design or as a campus leader, but the two qualities put together spell a sure-fire success and ranks her as one of the most impressive of TSCW's products. Linda, who's Student Council of Social Activities president this year, has an unassuming personality which squelches the usual stereotype of the temperamental artist. Her work, like Linda herself, is light, contemporary, and charming.

Alicia Crump's hobby and major are very much the same, since both relate to household arts. She's majoring in home economics education, and her spare time she likes to collect cookbooks, including a United Nations cookbook with recipes from various nations. Phi Upsilon Omicron president this year, Alicia is practice teaching two classes in clothing and foods this term at Richardson. After her graduation in August, she will teach in Dallas.

Clothing and costume design is the field of Betty Aday, who has modeled her own creations in the Cone Mills show at the State Fair for the past two years and in other showings at department stores and agencies over the state. Betty also designed and made her own formal gown for Redbud when she was a princess in the Festival. She's been secretary in the home economics department this year.

The youngsters who get Grace Becker as their teacher are really going to be lucky, for this year's College Government Association secretary has a completely agreeable, easy-going personality on all occasions. She's senior advisor this year to Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholarship fraternity, and coordinates this job with her CGA post and practice teaching in the TSCW Demonstration School. Grace became a spring bride just past Easter this session.

Hard-hitting determination and meticulous work as personified by Pauline Winter has paid off in one of the most ambitious WRA programs in recent years this session. And so it has been with "Pot," Women's Recreation Association president for 1957, during her college years here. Majoring in recreation, she has made recreation her work (to "re-create," in her own words), and work her recreation. Pot wants a recreational director's position after she graduates.

Perhaps TSCW's "ideal girl" is Judy Nuhn, having gained all plum honors the school has to offer, both for beauty and student government. She can list having been Senior Beauty, Aggie Sweetheart, and Redbud Queen, as well as College Government Association president this year. On top of that, Judy has just finished a year as head of the south-wide Southern Intercollegiate Association for Student Government. Judy, a clothing and textiles major, participated in the Cone Mills show at the State Fair this year, modeling one of her own designs.

lou batla scott

Lou Batla Scott, who sings, plays, and does just about anything musical, is going to pass on her talents and abilities to others through teaching music. Lou has accompanied the Modern Choir for several years and, as a leading student in the music department's roster, she's been president of Sigma Alpha Iota this year and of the Music Club last year.

COLLEGES

HEADQUARTERS FOR DEPARTMENT are in the old Household Arts Building, in which the CHAS research department also works. Occupational therapy students stage an annual children's marionette show in the building's auditorium.

Most students in TSCW's Art Department are aiming towards careers with advertising agencies, department stores, interior design departments, or clothing manufacturers. Non-majors also can find courses to help them gain pleasure and recreation in art.

THREE STORIES of art studios and galleries are under the Art Building's roof. Available facilities include woodworking, ceramics, metal-working, painting laboratories and a photography studio.

STUDENT GALLERY on the Art Building's left wing displays top work of students in all classes. Students are often able to market pieces to private persons or to manufacturers. Here, students gather to compare their work with that on display.

This college has earned for itself and for TSCW eminence in the field of research and applied household arts. Nutrition studies, detergency and textiles are among the research projects carried on by the college. For studies in a slightly different scope, home economics majors cover household fields in practical home management, foods and clothing.

HOUSEHOLD ARTS BUILDING, one of the newer and larger class buildings, has facilities for cooking, sewing, and research labs and includes its own auditorium and display rooms.

TEXTILE STUDY gives student an understanding of what can be done with materials by surmising the qualities, manufacture of textiles.

COLLEGE OF NURSING

college life — tscw style

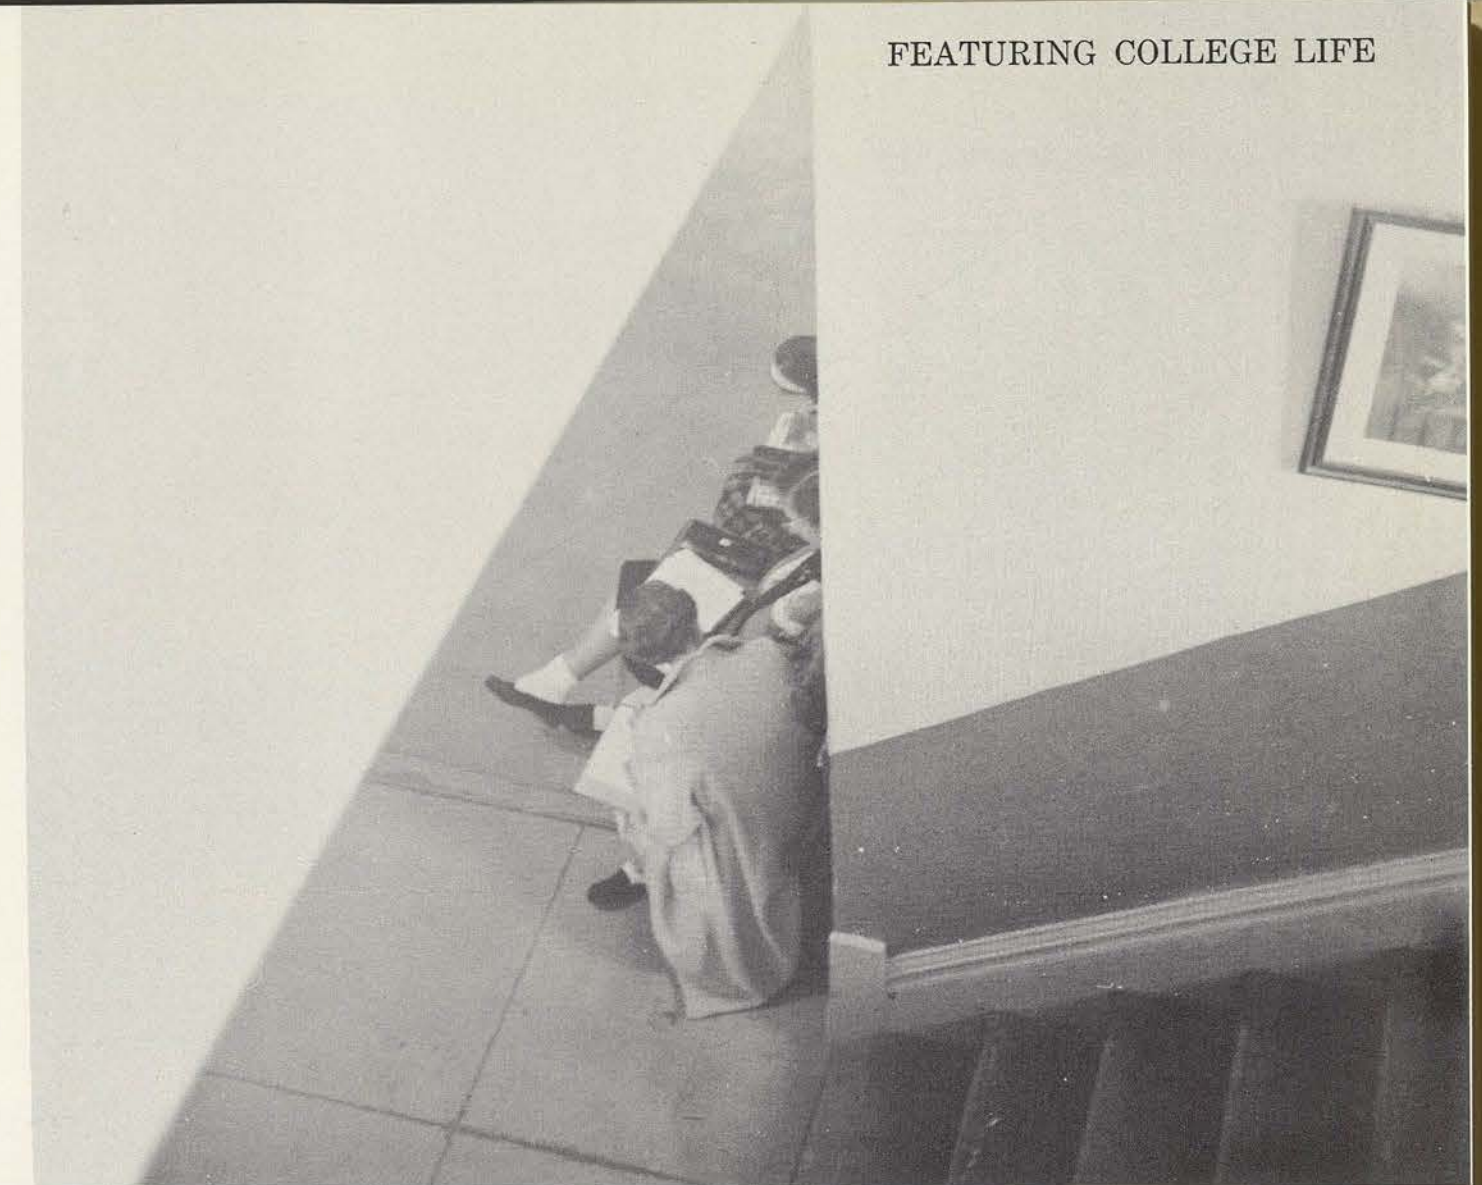

The greatest thing that's been invented since Shinola is college life—TSCW style.

For most, college life is quite different from the banjo-plunking stereotype of not so long ago. Life observed at TSCW—on the campus, in the classroom, in the dormitory—reveals a community of young women in a rush, furiously concentrating on the passing scene. They realize that a lot has to be accomplished in four short years.

PUB-SITTING comes under the classification of one of the most important activities of the day, since everyone knows that its atmosphere inspires the most intellectual tete-a-tete, or at least provides an opportunity to study, catch up on letters and grab a bite before class.

WHETHER AWAKE OR NOT each Tess finds it necessary to make a dutiful weekly trip to the College Laundry, where she must get sheets not only for herself but her roommate, who never manages to come herself.

THE LAST FEW MINUTES means a lot before a test, particularly if class members conduct a hallway buzz session while waiting on the bell for classes.

THREE TIMES A DAY girls meet for food and talk in one of the four dining units of Hubbard Hall. They usually talk about the food, classes, committee meetings, and then they discuss the food again.

REHEARSALS for everything from an assembly program to Stunts is a most familiar way for Tessies to spend evenings. Only club and committee meetings seem to occur most frequently.

dana smith

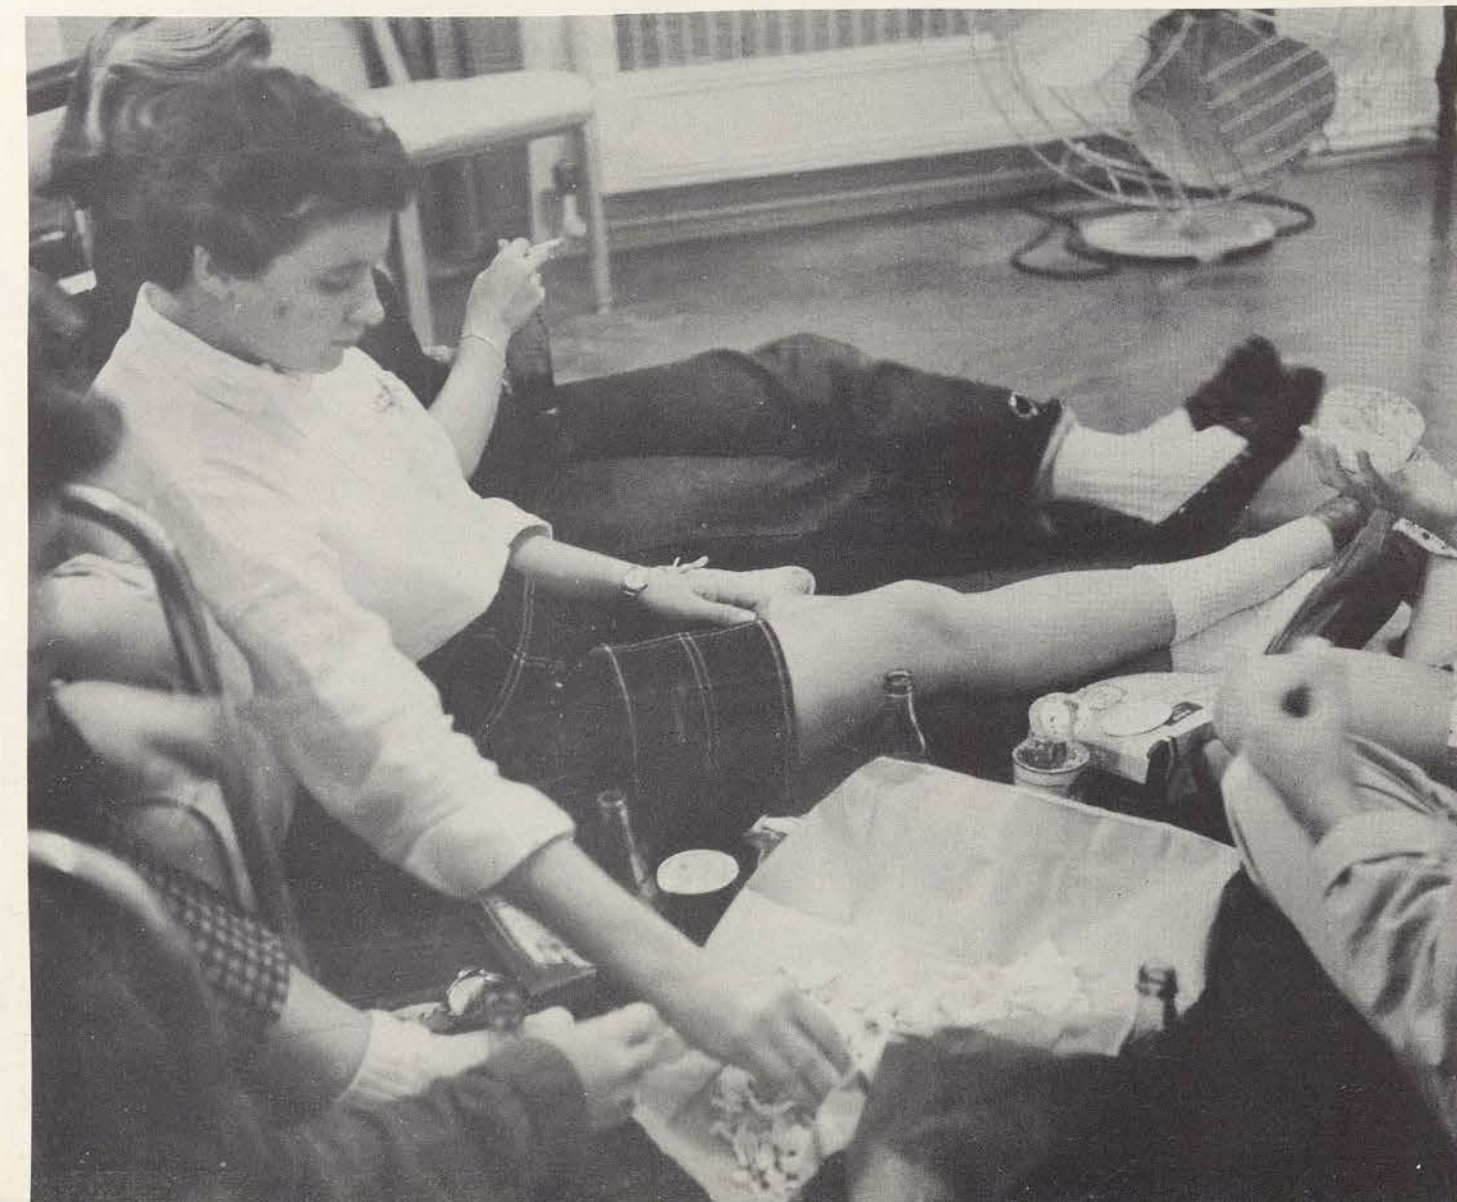

CLASSES THEMSELVES, forming the core of campus activities, set the pace for all other events of the day and night, depending on homework, laboratory activities. Classrooms at TSCW are noted for informality, geniality.

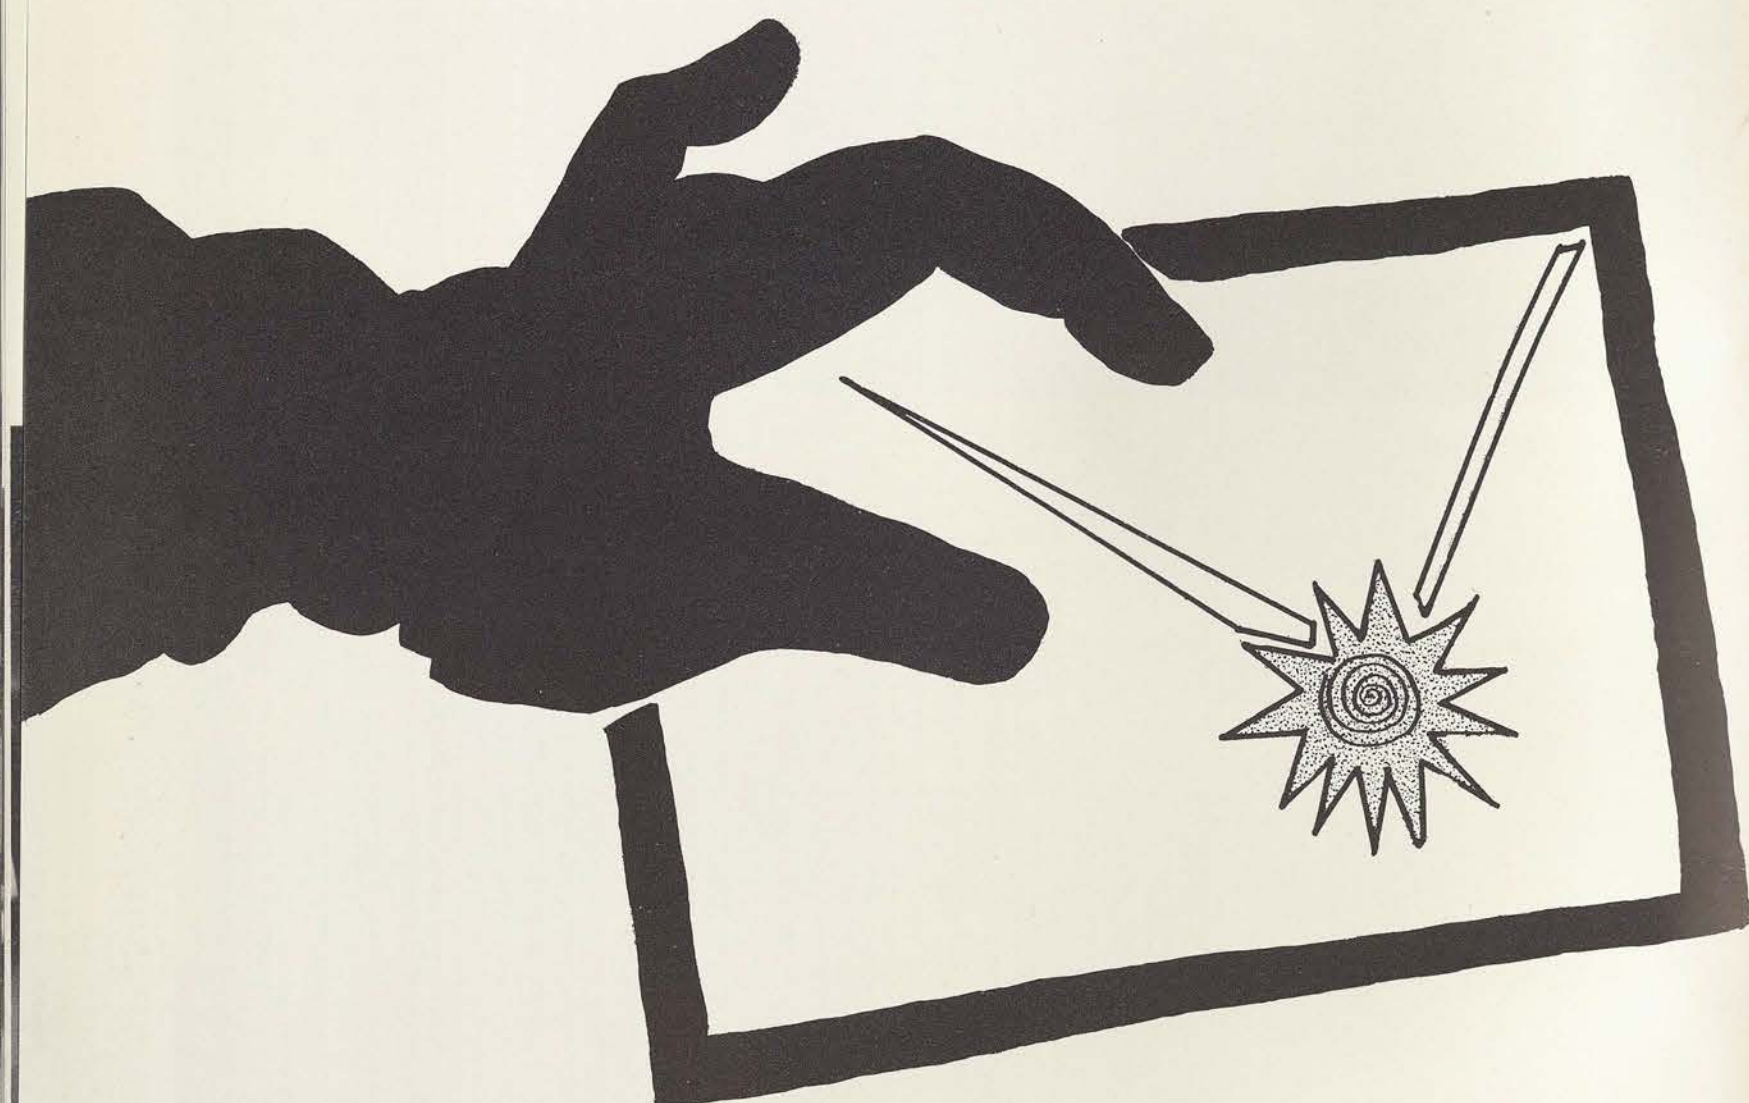

PUB FOUNTAIN helps appease that aching void between breakfast and lunch.

MANY A MIDNIGHT SESSION is held over fritos and cheese, whether the event is an election night vigil, as this one, or someone's birthday, or even more frequently "just talk."

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN • DENTON, TEXAS

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

17 December 1956

To the Class of 1957:

It is my hope that this edition of the Daedalian Annual will in the future fulfill a variety of substantive purposes for you. As an intimate companion throughout rich and useful lives may it remind you of happy, satisfying years at TSCW. As a silent but compelling voice may it always speak to you about TSCW in terms of intellectual stimulation, personal achievement, and high moral values, of useful work and superior training, of competence and self-realization, of loyalty, friendship, and gayety, of tolerance, culture, and understanding.

But the 1957 Daedalian should do more than just serve you as a titillating reminder of a wonderful era in your lives! It ought to challenge you as alumnae to exercise your leadership powers in support of the Lone Star State's great university for women. In a leading institution like this the processes of development must never be interrupted or even permitted to slow down. A solemn obligation rests upon you to do your part, to make sacrifices if necessary, in order that the distinguished university of which you are forever a part may, in its unique and independent character, continue to shower blessings upon American society.

Sincerely yours,

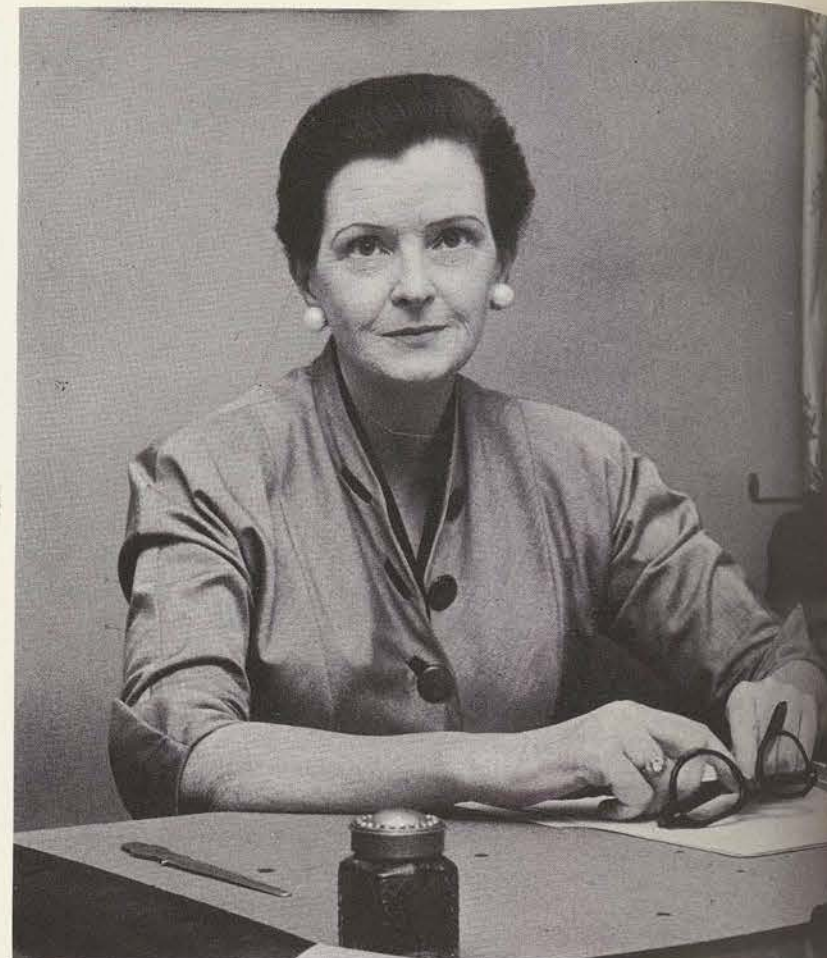

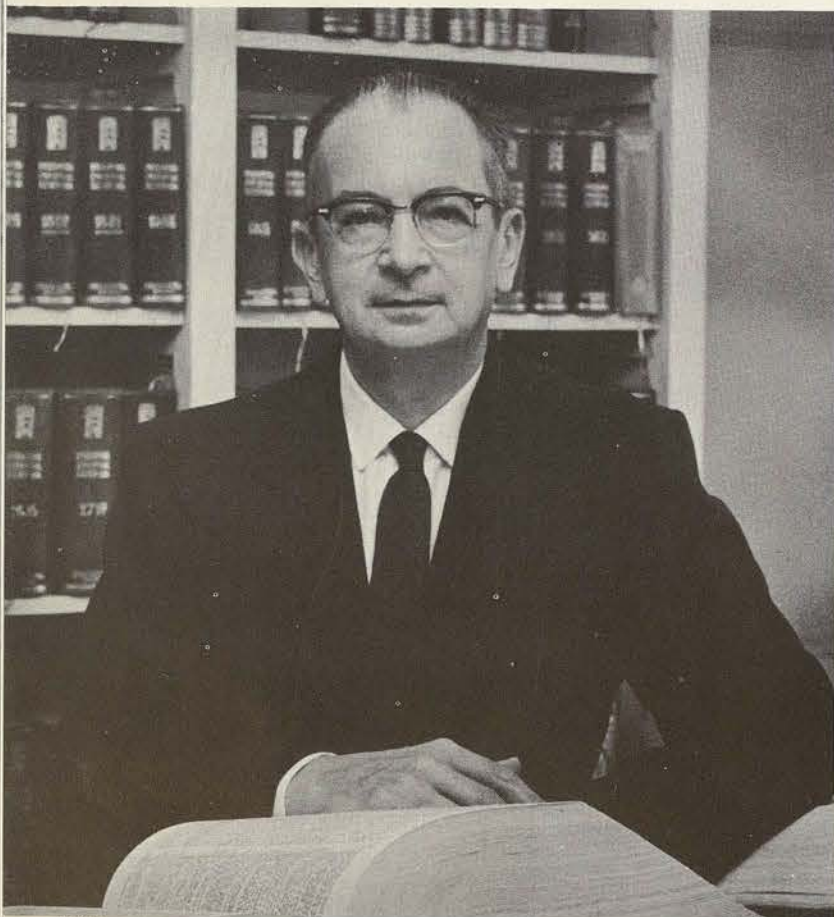

John A. Guinn

MRS. JOHN HAZLEWOOD

This year's business of the TSCW Board of Regents included recommendations starting the move to change the name of the university from "TSCW" to "Texas University for Women," to better advertise the true stature of the school.

This year also saw the addition of two new board members, Harvey Wuest of Seguin and Mrs. John Hazlewood of Amarillo. The two were appointed to the board by former governor Allan Shivers shortly before his term of office ended in January.

TSCW's Alumnae Association, with new offices in the Union Building, serves a two-fold purpose for the college: it inspires and aids chapter work in towns and cities all over the country and also keeps track and in touch with former students.

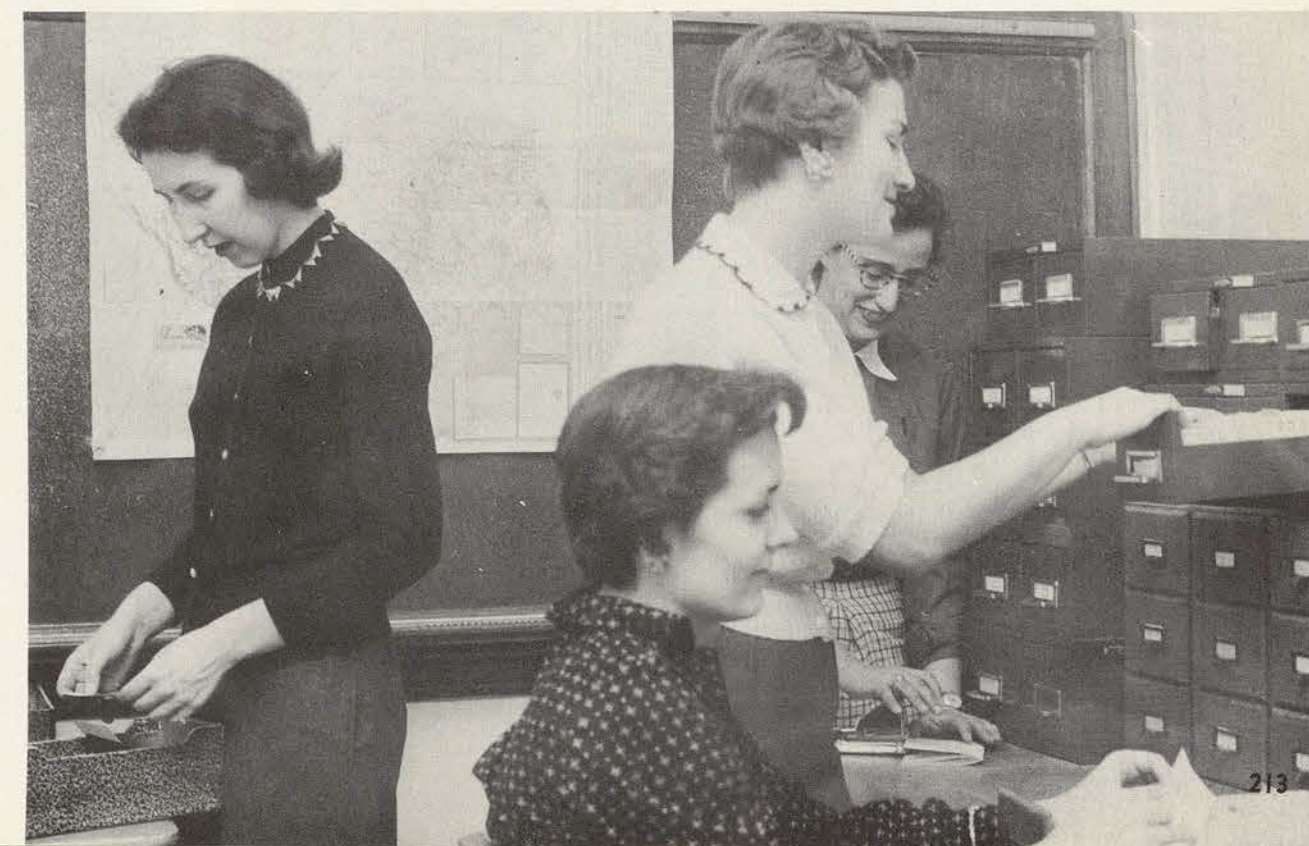

And the association also serves as one of the most effective publicity and promotional forces in behalf of the college, not only by providing social and scholarship activities to draw more attention to the school, but in the examples of community leaders and professional women that they set themselves.

ALUMNAE BULLETIN EDITOR Ann Minick is responsible for the semi-monthly newspaper for ex-students. The eight-page paper features news of the alumnae chapter activities and current campus news, as well as items about former students.

DORMS

STACKS OF MAIL is nearly literally what freshmen get each time the mailtruck comes to the TSCW Station post office. This foursome (left to right), Sally Puddy, Vivian Dunn, Derranis Munkres and Elizabeth McCarty, have plenty to read between 8 and 8:15 coffee time.

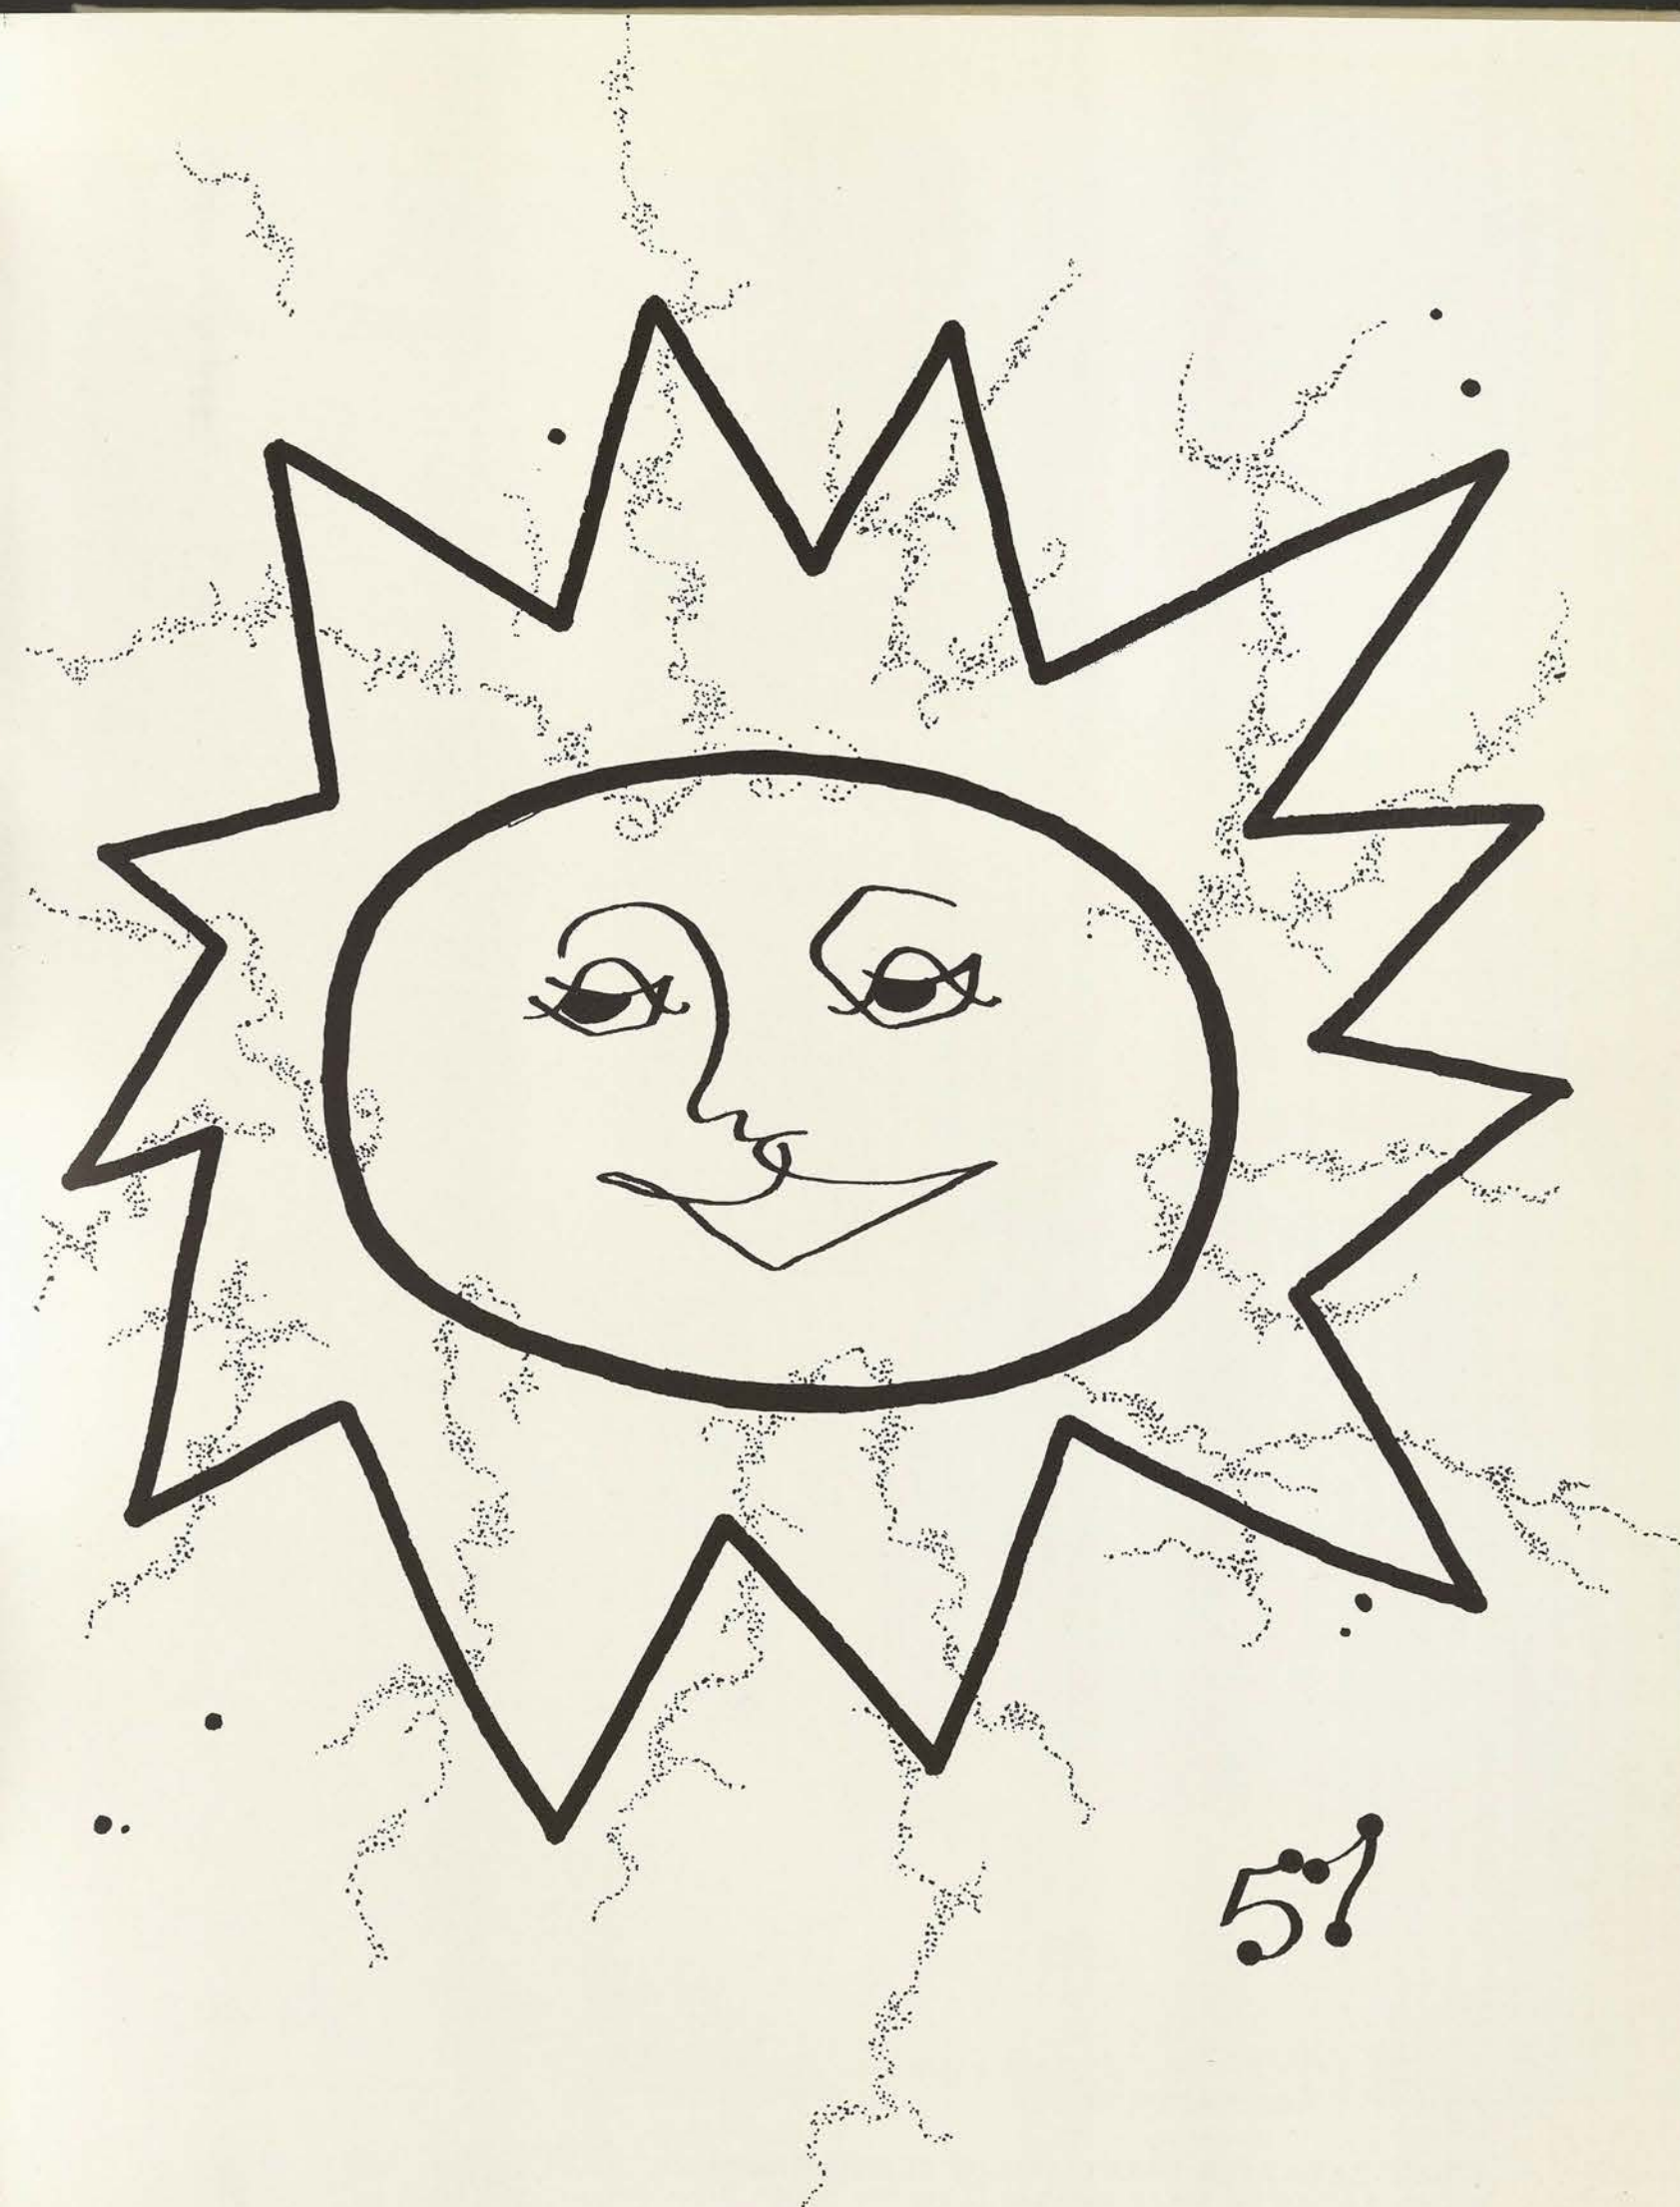

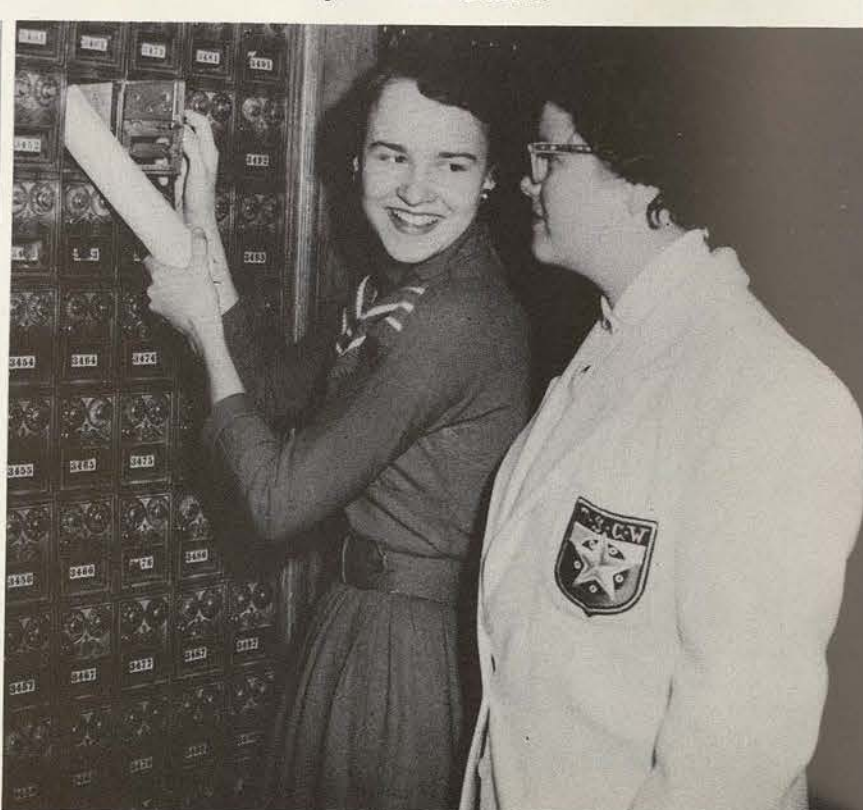

SENIOR JOAN HUMPHRIES sleeps right on. She knows that the shuteye is more valuable than a trip over to the Pub. No use to check the box more than once a week, and then it's only to feed the pet spider.

four-year story: tessies and their mail

"WILL WE GET A LETTER A DAY if we mail one, Mr. Weaver?" asks sophomore Sonia Black. The sophomores can make at least one daily trip to the P. O. in expectation of mail.

"IF I DIDN'T SUBSCRIBE TO A PAPER AND A MAGAZINE," says junior Carol DeLoach to senior Joan Parks, "I'd never get a thing in this box." By the time a Tessie is a junior she finds that more than a couple of trips a week to her box is just wasted time.

"THIS," SAYS JANE PERRY, SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT, "is only the beginning of all the committees we need for the Senior Open House, the Senior Breakfast, and all other activities for the Ladies."

senior officers

"JUST LOOK WHAT WE'VE GOT TO DO BEFORE WE GRADUATE," exclaim Carolyn "Jeep" Wall, vice-president; Shirley Blakemore, treasurer; and Donna Staley, secretary, as they wade through the year's votes, money, and bookkeeping.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MURRAY KENDRICK, senior sponsors, visit the Union Building Ballroom during the Christmas Dance festivities.

HOUSE SECRETARY AND DIRECTOR, Patty Carpenter (left) and Mrs. Adline Denman go over the guest list for the Christmas Open House.

"LET'S GET READY FOR A REAL SINGIN' HAYRIDE," urges Junior Class President Jane Rankin, complete with trial-size hay bale and uke, anticipating the annual Junior Hayride.

"JUST AS SOON AS WE 'CHECK' THE FOOD ONE MORE TIME," chorus Ann Badolati, treasurer; Jo Brown, vice-president, and Caroline Young, secretary.

DORMITORIES

THE SMITH IN SMITH-CARROLL isn't necessarily limited to its nomenclature, but may be used to indicate the dormitory's president, Dana Smith. Dana, along with other residents of the house, makes full use of the lounge and kitchen on each floor.

DORMITORY DIRECTOR, Mrs. Fleta Roubieu, and house secretary, Llewellyn Watson, scan the office files for a list of committee chairmen for the Christmas Open House.

SMITH-CARROLL HALL, boasting probably the most famous elevator on the campus, is privately and traditionally known as the "Shamrock."

DR. AND MRS. JOSH P. ROACH, sponsors for the sophomores, check the program for sophomore activities.

"SHINE ON, HARVEST MOON," croon (top to bottom) Amber de Forest, treasurer; Marilyn Weathers, vice-president; and Nancy Adkins, secretary, as they prove they're ready for the dormitory-serenading excursion.

DORMITORIES

THE HOUSTON HALL HALF of the Sophomore Class is led by Annetta Wing.

houston hall

HOUSTON HALL is one of "twins" comprised of Houston and Austin Halls, has distinctive advantage of being closer to the dining unit than any other dormitory.

SECRETARY JOYCE LAWSON (standing) points out an item about TSCW to Mrs. Frances Briggs, director, in one of the metropolitan newspapers delivered from the Dallas-Fort Worth area daily.

A WEEKLY REPORT on House Council Meeting to submit to the Dean of Women's office is made out by Mrs. Frances Stallworth (standing), dormitory director, and Mildred Jones, secretary.

fitzgerald hall

SOPHOMORES REGAINED RESIDENCE in Fitzgerald this year. Originally a second-year dormitory, the house had been used for several years by graduate students.

CHRISTMAS ARRANGEMENT is only one of many duties performed by Mrs. Marie Viullemmin and Sarah Harrison, house director and secretary, respectively.

rusk system

JOYCE ANDERSON, Rusk president, can't help but boast that the cooperative system has won the WRA cup for three consecutive years.

NINE UNITS, such as Rusk Hall, comprise the cooperative system, where students share in cooking and other household duties.

FRESHMAN PRESIDENT SUSIE BLOSSOM opens rehearsals, script and props in hand, for the Freshman Talent Assembly, based on a french cafe scene.

CHECKING THE LASS-O to read accounts of freshmen in the news are Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Higgins, class sponsors.

REPRESENTATIVES TO STUDENT COUNCIL from the Freshman Class, the first to be elected from any class are Judy Babington (left) and Joan McEldowney.

SPECIAL STUDY WEEK is marked up on calendar by Capps president Ann Fortner, who knows that there will be plenty of that special study for her freshman charges at the end of their first semester in college.

CAPPS HALL

ONLY FOUR-FLOOR DORMITORY ON CAMPUS is Capps Hall, housing the largest number of freshman students.

CAPPS' LIVING ROOM must look its best for the Capps Hall dance, agree its director, Miss Ola Lummus, and secretary, Jo Ann Wooton.

DORMITORIES

"SOMEBODY'S GOT THEIR PICTURE IN THE PAPER AGAIN," comment counselors Mikell Murphy, Estelle Moore, Brownell Queen, Nancy Adkins and Janice Hill, as they scan the evening Lass-O.

SWAPPING NOTES AND ANECDOTES about the life of a counselor are Karen Sue Case, Mary Glen Fleming, Jimmie Lightfoot, Martha Marshall, and Gaye Hatinger, as they head for their 8:15 classes.

DORMITORIES

LITTLE BLACK BOOK belonging to Mrs. Lorena Moses (left) director, holds announcements and reminders for Mrs. Moses and secretary Ruth Wilson.

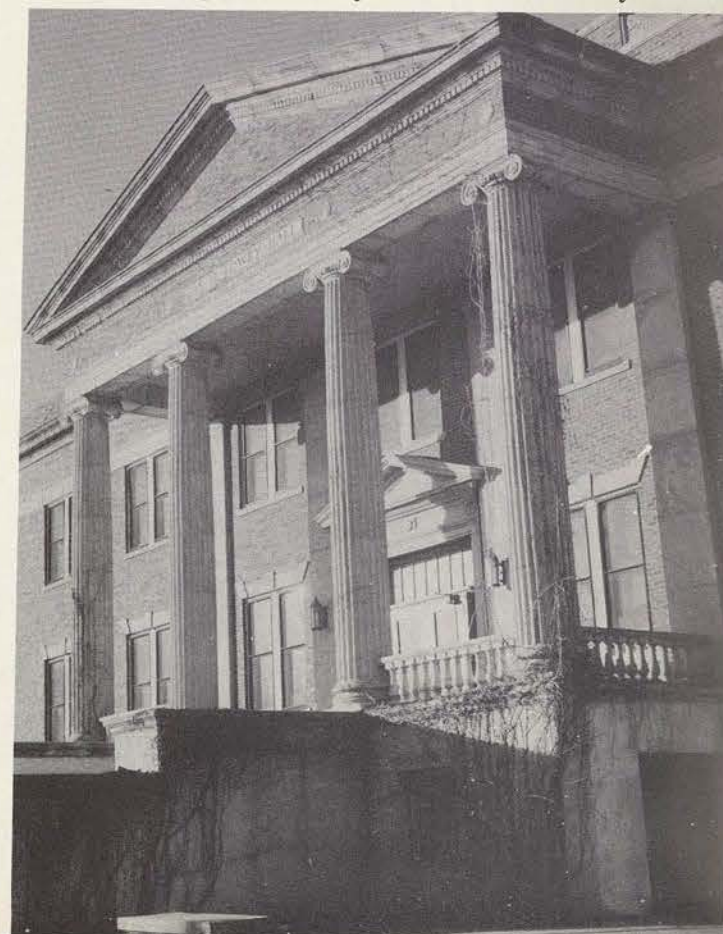

GOOD NEWS comes over the dormitory phone to Joan Webster, president of Lowry Hall.

LOWRY HALL

COMPARISON OF CORPS TRIP DATES in Aggieland annual collection in Lowry's office brings animated reaction from counselors La-Villas Havens, Martha Chisolm, and Sue Wynne.

TRADITIONAL CHARM of early campus architecture is preserved by vine-covered Lowry Hall.

DORMITORIES

AUSTIN'S PRESIDENT, Rose Marie Myers, prepares to participate in one of the hall's regular Friday evening vesper services.

COFFEE BREAK is regular ritual for Mrs. Lydia Pattillo (left) and Austin girls, including house secretary Mary Ann Pierce.

ONE OF FRESHMAN STRONGHOLDS is Austin Hall, until two years ago an upperclassman dormitory. Increased enrollment of freshmen spread that class's domain to the hall.

DORMITORIES

FAMILIAR SIGHT in Sayers Hall is Lucy Jo Strawn, house president, at her sewing machine. The talented seamstress and able house leader hasn't tackled anything like a dormitory interior decoration project, however.

"THURSDAY NIGHT" SIGN, being posted by Mrs. Gustavia Isdale, house director, and Betty Ward, secretary, reminds students of post-dinner, pre-date house meeting.

SAYERS HALL was used for several years as weekend lodging facilities for guests but was reopened for student residence again last year.

kress foundation

In the year-long course for practical nursing, the Samuel H. Kress Foundation group prepares prospective practical nurses for duty in hospitals as bedside nurses, in homes for private care, or through visiting nurse programs. The Kress Foundation on the TSCW campus is nationally accredited by the National Association for Practical Nurses.

FEATURING FASHION

A YEN TO CAN-CAN in Paree is indicated by Lou Campbell.

TO SNAG A SHEIK in the East might be a desire of Carol Ford, as indicated by her sheath and turban.

BOND STREET and June Stillwell will get along fine with her dark cotton coat, blouse and skirt ensemble.

A CRAVING FOR SPAIN is reflected by Susan Wheat's exotic ensemble.

DUTCH TREAT in Holland could be the goal of Barbara Jo Nelson in her smock and slim pants.

DORCAS CAMPBELL'S WISH to blaze about Italy in a matching sports car is reproduced in this outfit.

fashion for foreign dreams

Creativeness in fashion design often reflect the desire to travel. These costumes, some of forty garments created by students for the Cone Mills design project, take their wearers on an imaginary cruise around the world.

"O COME LET US WORSHIP HIM . . ."

religious organizations

For every TSCW student is available in Denton a religious body of the same or similar sect that she came into the Faith with before college. Both the churches and student groups have as their purpose to help TSCW students mature spiritually during their college experience.

STUDENTS OF FOUR Christian denominations meet in observance of Universal Day of Prayer for Students, Feb. 17.

baptist student union

Highlights in the BSU's program this year included the state Baptist Student Convention in Dallas in October; Missions Conference in Fort Worth; annual February banquet, and the election and installation of officers in March.

Officers are Bettye Shaw, president; Ester Gonzales, Emma Jean Dunlap, Mary Ann Pierce, vice-presidents; Lucy Jo Strawn, secretary; Joy Glendening, Selma Bartlett, Jo Brown, Betty Robinson, and Joyce Moody.

BAPTIST STUDENTS sing at a morning watch service emphasizing music.

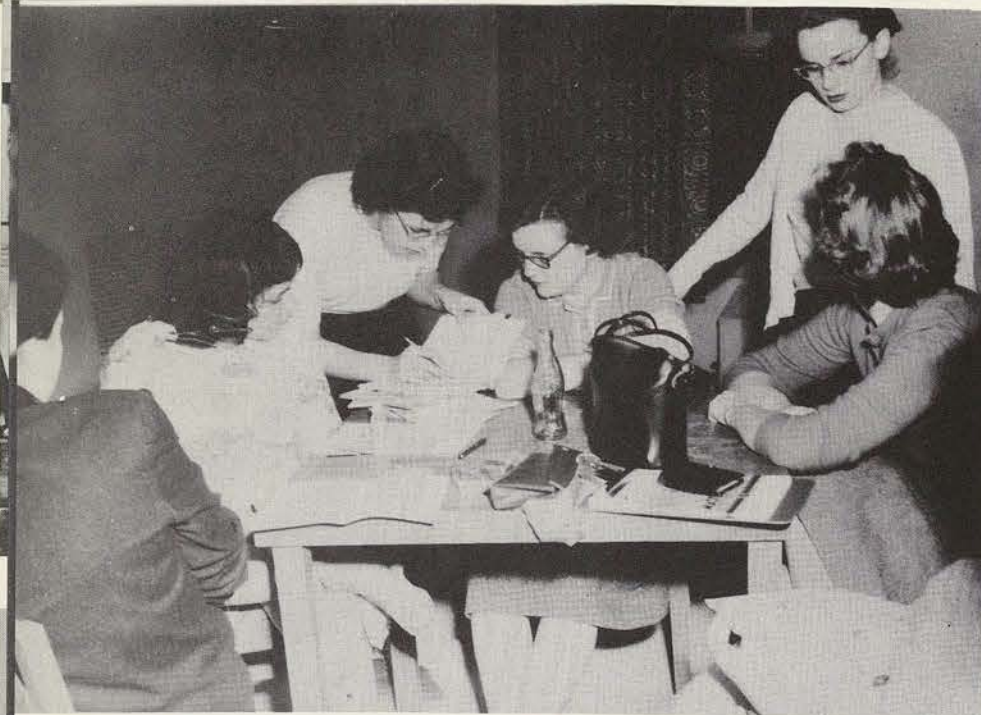

methodist student movement

MSM activities and services include morning watch, general MSM meetings, bi-monthly communion services, Freshmen Fellowship, and participating in Denton Wesley Foundation deputations teams.

Officers are Gail Beagle, president; Trigg Jones, vice-president; Barbara Stobaugh, secretary; Linda Crawford, Martha Muller, Janice Hill, Jimmie Lightfoot, Kay Kemp, Chris Vega, Frances Knight, Marilyn Weathers, and Sherry Edens.

METHODIST STUDENTS enjoy a tasty supper before hearing an SMU seminary student speak at their weekly Chat 'n Chew meeting.

newman club

Weekly meetings are held every Tuesday night at Newman Hall. Officers are Ann Lindemann, president; Barbara Gates, vice-president; Rita Hranitzky, secretary; Estela Carrera, treasurer; Grace O'Brien, historian, and Pat Legendre, reporter.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS get together to make final plans for going to the South Central Newman Club Province meeting in Amarillo.

presbyterian student association

Meetings are held Sunday and Wednesday nights with discussions on such topics as ecumenicity, race relations, and church merger.

TSCW officers are Jo Ann Wooten, vice-president; Lola Lyles, Christian faith commission chairman.

PSA MEMBERS talk over plans for the Ecumenical Student Christian Conference held March 8, 9, and 10 at A&M.

canterbury association

A meeting consisting of supper, evening prayer, and a program is held on Sunday nights. Communion services for TSCW Episcopalians are held in the Denton Civic Choir Boys School.

Highlight of the group's program this year was being host for the Southwestern Conference for Episcopal College Students, Feb. 15, 16 and 17. Beth Vernon is president of the group.

FATHER EMMETT WAITS lectures at a Wednesday night meeting of the Canterbury Association.

gamma delta lutheran fellowship

Lutheran students meet every Sunday night with a program including supper, business session and a speaker or panel.

TSCW officers are Mary Kay Seeman, secretary, and Lynn Burkhard, reporter.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS get together for an old-fashioned sing-song.

Weekly meetings are held at their student center adjoining First Christian Church.

TSCW officers are Myrna Johnson, president; Marcia Rogers, secretary; Jeanie Pearce, Jane Crooker, and Janice Snowden, committee chairman.

DISCIPLES MEMBERS enjoy supper in a Denton family's home on a Sunday night.

hillel fellowship

Purpose of the group is to bring together students of the Jewish faith. Meetings feature out-of-town speakers.

Officers are Miriam Samet, president; Judy Minkin, vice-president; Ann Dickinson, secretary; Debby Slater, treasurer, and Zelma Goldstein, historian.

HILLEL FELLOWSHIP'S executive council has its monthly meeting in Hubbard Hall.

FEATURING FOLKS

MAN WITH ALL THE MAIL is TSCW postmaster George Weaver, who pacifies the anxiety and questions concerning "something in the box."

ON HIS WAY TO THE TOP is Carl Hill, Education Building elevator operator, who makes it pleasanter for students to avoid the hundreds of steps to the fourth floor.

familiar faces

PUB STANDBY is Jewell Starnes, manager of the Pub and UB fountains. She keeps her customers well supplied with rolls, coffee, and "800's."

BOOKROOM MANAGER, Lester Robertson, stocks supplies for students from textbooks to chewing gum.

FEATURING PLACES

HUBBARD HALL, the central dining unit, for students living in all dormitories other than the cooperative system, is a catacomb of dining, cooking and bakery facilities, a laundry and cleaning plant, and an arena theater.

. . . and familiar places

OLD PUB AND POST OFFICE received face-lifting this past year, with brick facing and porch construction. The building is central meeting point for all campus students.

After 50 years we know her well, the TSCW student, and to us she's something special. Keen, alert, fashion conscious . . . she's you, of course, and it's fun to be the store you like the most. Because of your special on-the-go way of life, you do have special needs and our buyers in every department . . . apparel, sportswear, shoes, millinery, accessories, lingerie, gifts . . . have all been carefully trained to shop especially for you.

So always think of Russell's as your special store, not only when attending TSCW, but wherever your future leads . . . to home or career.

Don't run, everybody! We're trying to finish the annual in the midst of tornado warnings, heavy breezes and considerable moisture. Tornadoes are frightening enough, but it's twice as bad to see a whole year blow away before your eyes. This statement wasn't really meant to sentimentally imply that time has gone away too quickly (though it may well have), but simply that all of the copy is liable to be gobbled up by the twister.

And then the staff is a little hard to control. Badolati's risking life and limb and camera for a shot of the big blow. Business Manager Brittan is a little bit emotional about the fact that the twister's tail seems to have carried off part of her hard-won ad section. I'm upset too—I needed those pages to fill a deadline quota. Big, brave Jane Goodnight is valiantly fighting the monster off with her strongest weapon, her paintbrush, but if she doesn't decide to run for cover, little Jane Goodnight might be off on an air excursion she didn't bargain for. I insist that everyone get back on the job, even if it has to be in the gym's tunnel (that's where I'm headed). No tornado can stop the Daedalian.

Several other things have. A locked darkroom (and we without key) kept us from photographic production until we found the correct authority to pick the lock. The weather wasn't too cooperative (again) when we were attempting to make the Redbud pictures in the gardens. What's worse, the annual's overworked Rollei-cord camera decided it couldn't take it any longer, and so sneaked off for a vacation in some unknown land, absconding in the meantime with a roll containing shots of Round Table officers and other valuables.

But help comes from many unexpected places. Certainly those who helped with the annual had never expected to be coerced into working for the organization, minus staff status or anything at all. These include occasional photographers like Jeep Wall, Crystal Smith, and especially Mary Hart, Badolati's long-suffering roommate, who very often had to take over the latter's job as Daedalian chief photographer.

But our little motif, the sun, is beginning to shine again . . . just in time to set. We see light and the Evans Company, printers, on the horizon line. After living through two feature-length Daedalians, I can truthfully say that it was an—ah, interesting, perhaps—job. It's the only thing I can leave to posterity in my humility, since I'm taking everything else with me. May the 1957 Daedalian always be a part of your TODAY.
