PRESIDENT LOOKS AT TWU'S FUTURE

A letter to members of the TWU family from Dr. Carol Surles (president's office) was sent to faculty and staff last week (dated Feb. 21, 1995). In the letter, Surles discussed her ideas about the future of Texas Woman's University, from programs and degree offerings that are relevant to the university's mission to women's studies, nontraditional students, public policy and women's issues, as well as several other areas. The text of Surles' letter is provided below.

"I would like to share with you some ideas concerning plans for the future of Texas Woman's University -- a future that means growth, change and pride as we face the years ahead. Our mission remains the same -- the education and empowerment of women. Several of my ideas are related to our special niche in higher education and to our obvious expertise in the areas of women's issues, studies and needs.

"Our plan for the future, as I see it, includes looking at all university programs and degree offerings to ensure that the relevance of our mission has been well-considered. The Center for Research on Women's Health is one example of an existing program that we might want to develop further. I would like to see the Center develop as a national model and expand its scope -- to serve as a nucleus for other kinds of research, to increase its focus on health, and to conduct research on other social and contemporary issues that are related to women.

"I also would like to review our women's studies program to ensure that we are cultivating in students an interest in public policy that relates to women. We might increase our use of symposia, colloquia and other activities as adjuncts to the curriculum. In addition, I believe that we should look at our emphasis on nontraditional students, who come to Texas Woman's University playing multiple roles in their lives, and perhaps examine the idea of establishing a Center for the Continuing Education of Women. Our Mary Hufford residence hall for single parents is an excellent foundation for such a center. Universities everywhere have need for such programs now, and we should consider increasing the scope of this program and formalizing it.

"The area of public policy and women's issues is critical. TWU needs to have a greater role in addressing public policy issues -- particularly those related to women's issues, family life, parenting and similar matters. We can start with grants, cultivate our links in Washington, D.C., and Austin, and explore other avenues as well. Texas Woman's University should be consulted every time an issue arises related to women. We need to be a clearinghouse for information, and we need to be viewed as an essential resource for legislation on women's issues, especially in Texas. We should define our educational, statistical, and technical resources, and make them available when bills are being drafted at the state and national levels. We could conduct studies for corporations and other educational institutions, help with survey questions, and give advice about solutions for carrying out any study. I am attaching the list of the 1995 Strategic Planning Committee members, and I will ask them to explore these and other possibilities. Please feel free to share your ideas with any of these individuals."

Her letter concludes: "We are facing change and new challenges, and our Texas Woman's University community can preserve the mission and promote higher education for women by examining these ideas and by providing support in whatever way possible. We will grow together. With your help, we will lead the way in women's issues, education and empowerment. You might wish to share with me your vision for our future. I should be delighted to forward your letter to our Strategic Planning Committee."

STRATEGIC PLANNING COMMITTEE MEMBERS ANNOUNCED

Dr. Carol Surles (president's office) has announced the appointment of 33 members to the "reconstituted" strategic planning committee -- the body which she described will serve, among other duties, as the task force she was charged to form by the TWU board of regents in December 1994. When the regents voted to change TWU's admission policy, the group told Surles to appoint a representative group of faculty, staff and students who would discuss, study and implement plans to preserve the university's mission and move the institution forward in what will be a period of change and growth. The committee held its first meeting on Tues., Feb. 21, to begin organization and discussion of function, goals and objectives.

Members of the committee are: Dr. Wilkes Berry, chair (academic affairs); Robert Benfield (fiscal affairs); Dr. Glenda Simmons (student life); Kathleen Gigl (institutional advancement); Dr. Michael Laman (Dallas Center); Dr. Kathryn Stream (Houston Center); Dr. Robert Collier (Arts and Sciences); Dr. Carolyn Gunning (Nursing); Dr. Carolyn Rozier (Physical Therapy); Dr. Janette Schkade (Occupational Therapy); Dr. Keith Swigger (Library and Information Studies); Dr. Leslie Thompson (Graduate School); Dr. Paul Travis (enrollment management); Dr. Ann Uhler (Health Sciences); Dr. Michael Wiebe (Education and Human Ecology);

Dr. Ron Fannin (family sciences, Faculty Senate); Dr. Dana Gibson (business and economics); Dr. Betty Alford (nutrition and food sciences); Dr. Irma Guadarrama (reading and bilingual education); Dr. Emily Harbold (academic support services); Dr. Scott Hasson (Physical Therapy, Houston); Dr. Marian Jernigan (fashion and textiles); Dr. Joannette McGadney (Nursing, Dallas Center); Dr. Barbara Presnall (history and government); Dr. Allan Waldo (biology); Lizabeth Elkins (institutional research and statistics); Laurie Hammett (business and economics, TOSS); Mary Ann McDuff (academic administration services); Nancy Murphy-Chadwick (housing); Elizabeth Snapp (library); Amanda Moeller (Student Government Association); Mary Salinas (SGA); and Mary Snyder (graduate student, Library and Information Studies).

LIBRARY DISPLAYS CIVIL RIGHTS EXHIBIT

The struggle endured by African Americans in their quest for freedom in the United States is the focus of an exhibit at TWU that will open on Wed., March 1, in the Blagg-Huey Library. The poster panel exhibit, titled "The Road to the Promised Land: Martin Luther King Jr. and the Civil Rights Movement -- Perspectives in the 1990s," is on loan to TWU from the Texas Humanities Resource Center and will be displayed on the library's first floor through March 21.

The exhibit is free and open to the public during regular library hours (excluding the week of March 13 for spring break): Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to midnight; Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sunday from 2 p.m. to midnight. For more information, call ext. 2665. During the week of spring break, the library will be open from noon to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday, and will be closed Sat. and Sun., March 18 and 19.

Civil rights contributions made by King and others are documented in "The Road to the Promised Land," which comprises 40 poster panels that review the story of the civil rights movement from 1955 to the present. The display also plays a part in TWU's efforts to educate people about deeds and trials of African Americans in history. The university will offer several programs throughout the spring semester which will address racial tensions and ethnic diversity. For information about those programs, call the TWU office of student life at ext. 3601.

The Texas Humanities Resource Center provides various resources that have been organized for programs serving those persons who want to build an understanding of why and how the American civil rights movement during the 1950s and 1960s evolved and what has happened to that movement in recent decades.

AGENDA FOR TRANSFER DAY ANNOUNCED

The office of admissions will present Transfer Day for prospective students from area junior and community colleges on Sat., March 4, from 9 a.m. to noon in Hubbard Hall. The program will provide prospective students who wish to continue their education at TWU with information about admission, student life, financial aid and other vital areas. The program is free to interested persons. For more information, call Norma Martinez (admissions) at ext. 3016.

Registration begins in Hubbard Hall at 8:30 a.m., followed by the program's opening remarks at 9:15 a.m. An academic and campus fair is scheduled from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. in the southwest dining room of the same building. The fair will give participants an opportunity to visit with representatives of academic departments, student services and student organizations at TWU.

Separate group presentations will be held by the College of Nursing in ACT 301; the School of Occupational Therapy in ACT 601; and the School of Physical Therapy and general academic information in Hubbard Hall. A financial aid session will be held in Hubbard Hall from 10:30 to 11 a.m., followed by optional campus tours.

"CHICAGO" MAKES NEXT ROUND

TWU's production of the musical vaudeville "Chicago," which traveled to the regional competition of the American College Theatre Festival in Fayetteville, Ark., is one of 20 shows that made the next cut in the competition. Of these 20 plays, six will be selected as national finalists to present their shows at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. Congratulations go to the entire group, and good luck!

"Chicago" started as one of approximately 800 local performances, advanced as one of 52 winners in the next round, and now waits as one of the 20 regional winners to receive word by March 6 whether they will travel to the nation's capitol. Cast and crew were directed by Charles Harrill, Adrienne Fisk and Pamela O'Briant. The group also won the "Director's Choice" Award.

Also...The theatre's spring production of "Agnes of God" opens next week in Redbud Theatre. Performances are scheduled March 3-4 and 6-8 at 8 p.m. and on March 5 at 2 p.m. For more information or ticket reservations, call the theatre box office at ext. 2020.

LIS INITIATES STORYTELL

The TWU School of Library and Information Studies has created a new electronic LISTSERV discussion group call STORYTELL, which is accessible world wide through the Internet. "STORYTELL is designed to encourage communication and collaboration among all individuals who are interested in storytelling," said Dr. Keith Swigger (Library and Information Studies). "It has been designed for people who are working as storytellers, are concerned with the rich history of storytelling and enjoy listening to stories. STORYTELL also reaches people whose research involves the stories we tell and also is designed for anyone who speculates on the place of storytelling in the 21st century."

TWU doctoral student Karen Morgan, who teaches TWU's summer storytelling class, was instrumental in the creation of STORYTELL, according to Swigger. She will moderate the list on the new electronic bulletin board system.

The creation of STORYTELL is consistent with TWU's long association with and support of storytelling and those who practice the art, including the Texas Storytelling Festival. Anyone interested in STORYTELL is encouraged to subscribe to the list by sending the following message:

STORYTELL-REQUEST@venus.twu.edu

Leave the subject area blank

Type the following message: Subscribe firstname lastname

Several persons involved in storytelling organizations at the state and national levels encourage people to use TWU's new STORYTELL system, including Jimmy Neil Smith, executive director of the Tennessee-based National Storytelling Association; Jay Stailey, NSA's new chair of the board of directors; and Finley Stewart, executive director of the Tejas Storytelling Association. For more information, call Swigger at ext. 2602.

OAKLAND BALLET WILL PERFORM AT TWU

The Oakland (Calif.) Ballet will make its north Texas debut at TWU with a presentation of the American classic "Billy the Kid" at 8 p.m. on Tues., March 7, in MJPH. The performance and related activities are sponsored by the TWU programs in dance and the University of North Texas Fine Arts Series, with major funding from the Greater Denton Arts Council.

With choreography by Eugene Loring and music by Aaron Copland, the rarely performed "Billy the Kid" is considered an American masterpiece. First performed in 1938, the work portrays Billy as a youth turned outlaw by the accidental killing of his mother, with no hint of Wild West romanticism. The character's movements and other signals in the choreography depict him not as a hero, but as a psychotic and alienated fugitive.

Also on the program for the performance are Antony Tudor's "Jardin aux Lilas," Ravel's "Bolero," Stravinsky's "Two Suites for Small Orchestra" and "How'd They Catch Me?" by Ron Thiele, a former first dancer and now company manager with the Oakland Ballet.

Under the direction of choreographer and artistic director Ronn Guidi, the Oakland Ballet has evolved into a major West Coast professional company. His repertoire includes both innovative and historic works, from Nijinska's "Les Noces" to Loring's "Billy the Kid."

As part of its residency at TWU, the Oakland Ballet also will perform a free youth concert at 10 a.m. on Wed., March 8, in MJPH. More than 1,000 seventh graders from Denton and Lake Dallas, as well as students in dance classes at Ryan and Denton West high schools and the Selwyn School, will attend the concert, which will focus on ballet appreciation and dance as a career. Prior to the concert, the students will study 20th-century masterworks of ballet, featuring "Billy the Kid," using a guide prepared by the TWU dance program.

Other activities scheduled to coincide with the Oakland Ballet's appearance and the performance of "Billy the Kid" include:

■ "Introducing an American Masterpiece: Eugene Loring and Aaron Copland's 'Billy the Kid,'" a roundtable discussion at 1 p.m. on Mon., March 6, in TWU's Blagg-Huey Library lecture hall. The participants include Patricia Whiteside of San Francisco, executrix of the Eugene Loring estate; Barbara Cox, a costume designer and UNT faculty member; TWU music faculty member Dr. David Yeomans; and James Clouser, a well-known choreographer and UNT faculty member.

■ "How to Reconstruct a 50-Year-Old Ballet: 'Billy the Kid' in Repertoire," at 1 p.m. on Tues., March 7, in the Blagg-Huey Library lecture hall will feature Patricia Whiteside, who will use Loring's notebooks, original costume renderings and other artifacts in her lecture.

■ A talk with Oakland Ballet artistic director Ronn Guidi at 11:45 a.m. on Wed., March 8, in the UNT Dance Building, located on Highland Avenue. In his more than 20 years as artistic director, Guidi has focused the company on preserving the American ballet heritage of the 20th century.

All events are open to the public and are free, except the March 7 evening performance. For more information, call ext. 2085.

students are invited to attend, and faculty members are encouraged to make attendance at Health Check a class assignment," said Dr. Don Rosen (Counseling Center). A large number of agencies, as well as TWU departments, will provide health-related information, and several organizations will offer health screenings. For details, call ext. 3801; some screenings require a minimal fee.

Exhibitors will include: American Cancer Society, American Diabetes Society, American Heart Association, American Lung Association, Arthritis Foundation, Blood Care, March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, Texas Rehabilitation Commission, North Texas Allergy and Asthma Center, Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Texas, AIDS Services of Denton County, Denton County Health Department, American Red Cross, Friends of the Family, Ann's Haven Hospice and Family Radiology.

St. Paul Hospital will provide cholesterol testing and skin cancer body screening each day. Persons who wish to participate in cholesterol testing should fast for a minimum of 10 hours before they are tested. The mobile screening unit will open each day at 9 a.m. Other booths will include: glaucoma screening by the Texas Commission for the Blind; hearing tests by the department of communication sciences and disorders; body fat analysis by the TWU Wellness Center; blood pressure testing by the College of Nursing; and stress level analysis by the Counseling Center. Biofeedback demonstrations will be provided by the University of North Texas.

The new edition of "A Profile of Texas Woman's University" for 1994-95 is available on request from the office of public information. For copies, contact Gail Parr at ext. 3456.

Reminder: A delay in delivery of several large pieces of air conditioning equipment also will delay installation, affecting faculty, staff and students in several buildings this spring -- graduate research, old science, HDB, music, fine arts, MCL, CFO and Reagan-Houston.

"Usually the physical plant will have all air conditioning systems operational by April 1, but this year we may be as late as May 15," said Charles Hanley (physical plant). "If the weather continues to remain mild and if spring arrives earlier than usual, building occupants may experience some periods of discomfort. We are sorry for any inconvenience that this may cause faculty, staff and students. Rest assured that we will do everything possible to have the air conditioning systems ready at the earliest possible time. We thank you for your understanding."

Reminder: The office of student activities is seeking nominations for the university's annual Redbud Awards, which will be given to outstanding students during the Redbud Awards Festival on Thurs., April 20. "Faculty and staff are encouraged to think of outstanding students who could be nominated for these awards," said Juanita Duenez-Lazo (student activities). A letter of support from a faculty or staff member also is required. Beginning Mon., Feb. 27, nomination forms will be available in the office of student activities. For information, call ext. 3611.

The TWU HIV/AIDS Task Force will meet on Mon., Feb. 27, from noon to 1 p.m., SC 108. Interested students, faculty and staff are invited to attend. For details, call Dr. Nicki Cohen (performing arts-music) at ext. 2523 or Shawn Fauver (student health services) at ext. 3826.

Reminder: The TWU Counseling Center is organizing a "Relationships Group" for students who would like to improve their ability to relate to others. The group, led by counselors Therese de St. Aubin and Cindy Seamans, will be held on Thursdays from 2:30 to 4 p.m., in the Counseling Center (Jones Hall). A pre-group interview is required; members may enter throughout the semester. For more information, call ext. 3801.

Black History Month activities conclude with a gospel concert on Tues., Feb. 28, featuring The Hamilton Park 100 Voice Male Christian Chorus, TWU Anointed Voices for Christ, North Texas Voices of Praise and other guests. The concert, which is free and open to the public, will be held in Margo Jones Performance Hall at 7:30 p.m. For details, call ext. 3611.

Psi Chi, the psychology honor society, is developing a cookbook using contributions from TWU faculty and staff. Anyone interested in providing a recipe can request a form from the department of psychology at ext. 2303. Recipes must be submitted no later than April 1. Anyone who has questions should call Sharon Croll at ext. 4519.

The human relations committee will present a variety of programs in February, including several films and a presentation for the campus community. All students, faculty and staff are invited to attend the free movies and seminar; for additional information, call the office of student life at ext. 3601. Upcoming films include: Still Burning (part 1), about ethnviolence on the college campus, on Tues., Feb. 28, at 12:30 p.m., SC 110; Still Burning (part 2), on Fri., March 3, at 12:30 p.m., SC 110; and The Century of Women, about the lives of women in the 20th century, on Mon., March 7, at 6 p.m., SC 207-208.

A poetry contest celebrating the 75th anniversary of the women's suffrage movement is being sponsored by the SOAP talks and topics committee. The deadline for submissions is Wed., Feb. 27, and winning entries will be published in the March 8 edition of the Lasso. Poems must be typed, titled and accompanied by a cover letter with the entrant's name and phone number. Length of poems should not exceed 400 words. Prizes will be awarded as well: first -- $75 and books; second -- $50 and books; and third -- $25 and books. For more information, call ext. 3611.

Reminder: The annual scientific meeting of the Texas Research Society on Alcoholism (TRSA) will be held at TWU on Fri., March 3, in ACT 301. The meeting will focus on research, "...and it is intended to promote communication and collaboration between Texas-area researchers and treatment professionals interested in learning more about the latest ongoing research in substance abuse/dependence," said Dr. Francine Lancaster (biology). The meeting is open to members of the general public who are interested in scientific research. For details, call ext. 2351.

Reminder: The TWU Denton service recognition awards program will be held Mon., March 6 at 3 p.m. in the southeast room of Hubbard Hall. For information, call ext. 3555.

Members of Gamma Beta Phi honor and service society continue to collect money for students at Mukogawa Women's University (TWU's sister school) for campus repairs or new gardens following the devastating Kobe earthquake. According to Dr. Lybeth Hodges (history and government), seven members of MWU's faculty, student body and staff died in the quake. All of the campus buildings survived, but many are structurally damaged. Look for Gamma Beta Phi collection jars on campus or send checks made payable to Gamma Beta Phi to: Gamma Beta Phi, P.O. Box 24973, TWU Station, Denton, TX 76204 or through campus mail to Hodges in history and government, CFO 603. For details, call Hodges at ext. 2136.

Reminder: Country line dancing will be offered through the Wellness Center on Mondays from 7 to 8 p.m. and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., JH 306. The eight-week session will be held Feb. 27 through April 19; the cost is $30 per person. For information, call ext. 2900.

Space is available in the event program for the USA Gymnastics Collegiate National Champion-ships for "good luck" messages to the TWU Pioneers gymnastics team. TWU will host the event, and anyone interested can purchase a patron listing for $20 or a grand patron listing for $30. Information for the listing, plus the fee, must be submitted by March 1, 1995, to intercollegiate athletics. For information, call Judy Southard at ext. 2378.

The Wellness Center will observe its normal schedule of hours during spring break. Aerobics classes will be held at noon, 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. throughout the break, and the pool will be open on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. and on Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. For more information, call ext. 2900.

University of North Texas Center for Parent Education. More than 300 parent educators from across the nation attended.

Members of the TWU Alpha Sigma chapter of Pi Lambda Theta completed a service project in December for Parkland Hospital. Members donated 61 shirts for newborns in the hospital's nursery. Each tiny shirt sported hand-painted inscriptions in English and Spanish which read "Read to Me" or "Leeme." "Upon dismissal from the nursery, each newborn who wears a TWU shirt will communicate a message to parents: to read to their child from a very early age because parental involvement is an important factor in every child's life," said Dr. Rudy Rodriguez and Dr. Margaret Griffin (reading and bilingual education), the group's faculty sponsors. The aim of the organization is to stimulate language development through reading. Target stores contributed to the chapter's holiday project. Alpha Sigma's president is Beverly Farrar.

Master's student Lana Ewell (Occupational Therapy, Houston) co-authored an article on "Disability in Meniere's Disease" in the January 1995 issue of Archives of Otolaryngology Head and Neck Surgery. Her co-authors are Drs. Helen Cohen and Herman Jenkins, who are both with the Baylor College of Medicine.

Drs. Frank Thomas (family sciences) and Linda Metcalf (TWU, 1993) co-authored an article titled "Client and Therapist Perceptions on Solution Focused Brief Therapy: A Qualitative Analysis" that was published in the Journal of Family Psychotherapy (Volume 5 [4], 49-66). Thomas also is on the editorial board of JFP.

The Texas Association for Marriage and Family Therapy annual conference held in Dallas Jan. 25-28, was dedicated to Thomas for his decade of service to the association's conference. This continuing education event has grown to more than 1,000 attendees during his 10 years of service as conference director. He also was given an award of "Special Appreciation" at the conference. Thomas presented a workshop during the event titled "Solution Focused Brief Therapy: A Demonstration."

Susan kae Grant (visual arts) presented a guest lecture on "Photographic Book Art in the United States" on Feb. 16 and taught a workshop titled "Deconstructing Myths/Artist's Books" on Feb. 17 at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.
