UNIVERSITY BULLETIN

NUMBER 566

APRIL 15, 1959

Published by the Texas Woman's University, Denton, Texas. Issued semi-monthly. Entered December 17, 1917, at the post office at Denton as second-class matter under Act of Congress Aug. 24, 1912.

Campus Government Association

Mary Martha Monroe
President

From the moment you enroll at Texas Woman's University, you become a "University woman." This title carries with it the opportunity and responsibility of fulfilling your obligations as a member of the TWU Campus Government Association. Unlike many colleges and universities, our institution provides us with countless opportunities for leadership and service. We are regarded as mature, intelligent, alert, sensitive young adults with specific objectives and goals in mind.

There is never a lull in the University calendar and you will find that active participation in campus affairs is an excellent way to get into the swing of things. CGA's outstanding Sponsorship Program has been designed and planned to make your first week on our campus a truly meaningful one. You will have an upperclassman sponsor who will be your guide and companion to our traditional Lantern Parade and University Revue and other important events of that ever-so-busy first week.

Because of our sincere dedication to the high standards of our University, we proudly uphold a set of personal ethics which we call the Honor Code. This honor tradition applies to every possible phase of our campus life, for it is the foundation on which our university standards are built. You will find the Honor Code described to you in your Handbook, and we hope that you will begin now to realize that as a citizen of our campus community, your actions and achievements reflect upon the standards of our entire University.

CGA is more than just three letters. It is a living, breathing organization devoted to you! Your interest, your participation, your support—these give it strength.

You will find that you, the Student Body, are well represented on the Student Council, the governing body of CGA which is composed of the presidents of the five all-campus organizations (described to you in this bulletin), the presidents of the four undergraduate classes, presidents of the residential units, editors of the campus publications, two freshman class representatives, and the four CGA officers.

We firmly believe in the efficiency and dynamic group leadership which is displayed by the Student Council as it discusses, plans, and carries out such projects as the Gold Rush Carnival. Your interest and attendance at the Student Council meetings provides excellent opportunities for leadership and insight in the plans and problems of our University. It is this spontaneous enthusiasm and interest in sharing ideas that have made our CGA the progressive, efficient organization that it is today.

Texas Woman's University challenges you to

Student Council of Social Activities

Sandra Minger
President

Coming to school? Want to do things? Want to have fun? Want to meet people? You can answer these questions when you take an active part in the social activities on the campus of Texas Woman's University.

Immediately following your arrival in the fall, your class will be "adopted" by the Junior Class as their "sister" class. You will attend a stylish open house they will give in your honor, and they will accompany you to a party-picnic in Lowry Woods.

Many evenings will be filled by cultured, intellectual or comical entertainment presented on our Concert and Drama Series. You will have the rare opportunity to see and hear unusual choral ensembles, magnificent theatre performers and thrilling dancing troupes.

Opportunities are as numerous as "pennies from heaven" to hear "big name" dance bands under the shimmering lights of the Union Building Ballroom at all-campus dances.

The exciting Corps Trip Dance will "kick off" the big football weekend with your 6,000 "brothers" from Texas A&M. Then comes the Christmas Dance and the Redbud Festival and the Coronation Ball which is our introduction to the many spring activities—at this time you may be chosen one of the 100 Princesses to reign over the Redbud Court.

All these activities will prove to be the beginning of all that you take part in throughout your four years on campus.

Your sophomore year will hold the thrill of rush parties and pledging literary-social clubs. This provides an excellent way to become better acquainted with girls from other dorms and classes, as does the joining of honorary, departmental and regional clubs.

You will find that TWU is a university dedicated to the education of the modern woman, providing the training ground for your preparation in the social aspects of a mature life. Its many and varied social activities emphasize the traits admired in the gracious, intelligent and vivacious woman of tomorrow.

SCSA welcomes you to join in and grow with us!

take advantage of its superior academic program and to participate wholeheartedly in our social and religious functions. To accept these challenges is to assume the position of a mature, responsible citizen of our campus community.

On behalf of all the members of CGA, and its four officers — Sue Titus, Carrie Hinds, Betsy LeBleu, and myself—I welcome you to Texas Woman's University.

Woman's Recreation Association

Caroline "Bitsy" Bachofen
President

W . . . R . . . A . . . These three letters will become meaningful to you in September when you arrive on the campus of Texas Woman's University. You will find they mean Woman's Recreation Association (Wow! Relaxation and Activities.)

The Woman's Recreation Association is an organization on your campus especially for you, the student. As a student at TWU you are automatically a member of WRA and through WRA you can gain new friends, skills, happiness, health, and a worthy use of leisure time.

In WRA you can meet your classmates in an informal situation with activities of every variety. There are special activities such as: Fun Night, Lantern Parade, Corn Huskin' Bee, Freshman-Junior Party, Sophomore-Senior Party, Christmas Door Contest, Swimming Meet, Field Day and Skating Party.

You as a student need some time set aside in your busy day for play and relaxation with added companionship. You may be the active sports-woman desiring volleyball, field hockey, basketball, softball, tennis, tumbling, synchronized swimming, golf, fencing, and badminton; or have a liking for less strenuous activities such as bridge, rifle shooting, archery, pool, ping pong, or bowling. You may be a lover of the great outdoors and wish to go bicycling over the countryside or enjoy an adventurous outing. Modern dance, tap dance, folk and square dance clubs are for feet that are "fancy."

Why don't you come out and play the WRA way? You'll enjoy it, you'll have a lot to gain, and you'll become a part of the campus more quickly through participation in WRA.

See you at Fun Night! September 17, 1959.

Student Council of Religious Activities

Helen Myers
President

A warm welcome awaits you at our university—a university which promotes and stimulates growth, spiritually, mentally, and physically.

It is the purpose of the SCRA to promote the spiritual life of the students on campus and to cooperate with the local churches in their various activities.

The Daily Lass-O

Sue Inwood
Editor

A university campus is likened to a small community, a composite of individuals, a sameness in way of life, with a personality reflective of its buildings, its occupants and its atmosphere.

As university freshmen you will attempt to assess this campus and its atmosphere, you will, so to speak, test the wind and then set sail—embarking on your university career. We are ambitious for you.

As editor-in-chief of the Daily Lass-O, student publication of Texas Woman's University, I invite you to join the many readers of the Lass-O to learn more fully of your campus, its personality, its many offerings and its way of life.

We are more than justly proud of TWU and its distinctive attributes. Not the least of these attributes is the Daily Lass-O, the only daily newspaper published at a woman's university, college or school in the world.

Whatever you are, wherever your hometown, whatever you desire and aim for—this is important not just to you, but to us—this will be YOUR newspaper, the Daily Lass-O. You and your classmates make the news of the Lass-O.

You will find not only campus news and events in the Lass-O, but also local, state and national news, features, campus cartoons, columns, editorials, sports, amusements, church, clubs and social happenings. The Lass-O, a four page tabloid, is edited and written by what is known on campus as the "J" majors. Our University is one of the 45 in the United States accredited by the American Council for Education in Journalism.

The members of SCRA consist of two representatives from each Christian denomination and two Jewish representatives. Also, a student from each dormitory is appointed to the Council. The interest in spiritual life and the cooperation of these members brings about unity in purpose and action.

Non-denominational in scope and outlook, SCRA, with the cooperation of the dormitories, sponsors Sunday morning services in the Little Chapel and weekly vesper services within the dormitories. We sponsor special programs at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter; All-Campus Vespers, held one spring evening on the Chapel Lawn; and Religious Emphasis Week, which is held in the fall.

Your days spent at our university are an opportunity to strengthen your spiritual life and mature in your faith. You are challenged to be a part of the development of a spiritual atmosphere on our campus.

The SCRA wishes to welcome you to Texas Woman's University.

by students

“One of the most important things in a girl's university life is the people she meets and the friends she makes. Although any school offers an opportunity for friendship, I feel that TWU somehow has attracted the girls who wish to be friendly with their fellow students. There is a certain atmosphere on the campus that brings forth smiles and greetings from all angles. There is a predominant democratic spirit that shines out among good pals and also among people who have never met. I think that this quality is the biggest reason I am so happy to have chosen TWU for my university.”

“Individual abilities and capabilities are sought, recognized, and nurtured by a progressive student body, faculty and administration.”

“This can well be applied to TWU—it does the most and costs the least. After a few weeks on the campus, freshmen become poised young ladies. Character, scholarship, friendship and fun are all encouraged at TWU. I believe this is the ideal university for developing a girl's personality to its fullest.”

“It is actually like being sisters in one big family.”

“Any girl who wants to get the best university education possible should consider attending TWU. I am sure that the courses offered and the excellent instructors will not disappoint her. Besides the high standards of scholarship, I believe that one of the most important values of TWU is the opportunity for every girl to “belong.” There are myriads of clubs here; all a girl has to do is find the clubs that correspond with her interests and abilities and plunge into their activities. She'll become acquainted and begin having a marvelous time.”

“At TWU a girl is prepared for her future role as a citizen, career woman, leader, and wife. We are given every advantage possible.”

“TWU offers a girl splendid preparation for nearly any field she may choose, and a degree from TWU means that she is fully capable of handling a job. A student's life is well planned from the standpoints of education, special activities, and recreation. A girl has the opportunity to broaden her sense of perspective and enrich her general knowledge through hearing famous speakers, attending concerts and dramas, and coming in contact with a cosmopolitan student body.”

“Visitors on the TWU campus always remark about the same thing—the spirit of friendliness shown by everyone. There are no cliques on the campus; instead, students, faculty, and other staff members radiate a feeling of universal good will.”

“The fine reputation and high cultural standards of TWU are nationally known, but just as important as these is the social life it has to offer . . . not only the dances and the big weekends, but the dormitory life as well. Everything here blends into making you feel right at home.”

“Here I found the most sensible courses for women. I also found a friendly warm spirit that I do not believe can be surpassed on any other campus. Each girl at TWU is here because she wants to obtain an education in her chosen field and wants to improve her ability to get along with other girls and women. At TWU a girl has everything to gain.”

“TWU teaches its girls to be independent. In all phases of campus life TWU students are allowed to make their own decisions. What other quality could be more important as a graduate faces the workaday world?”

“One is able, if she desires, to strive for and assume leadership and receive the rewarding experience of working together.”

“Texas Woman's University is THE University—the only one for women in the U.S. This in itself is proof enough that this university is an ideal place for a young woman to achieve an excellent education in any one of its nine colleges and schools, to gain friendships with young women from throughout the free world, and to develop the feeling of stability which youth needs to face an ever-changing world.”

“She not only learns from her academic courses but gains much from the various cultural programs which fill the calendar.”

“Here we have the opportunity to think and do for ourselves. We are developing better attitudes and philosophies toward life. The age-old question of “Do students in colleges today actually mature through their school experiences and activities?” is answered with a big “YES” at Texas Woman's University.”

“I wish everyone could enjoy TWU and have it mean as much to her as it has to me.”

The famed TWU Lass-O Band, shown below, is an example of the special groups open to students from all major fields.

The Daedalian Yearbook

Joyce Austin

"Hi" is about the most popular word on the campus of Texas Woman's University and you will find you will be greeted by it and use it yourself many times each day. TWU students are genuinely warm and sincerely friendly students who want you to share the value and excitement of university life. They want you to truly become a part of the wonderful thrill and importance of being a university student.

The aim of the Daedalian Yearbook is to capture these thrills and highlights in your freshman year at Texas Woman's University and compile them into a treasured book of memories. Its 368 pages will be a pictorial history of you, your activities, and your University from the moment you arrive on campus in September through each and every event and activity of the year.

Staff members of the Daedalian are all Texas Woman's University students who take, develop and print pictures, write all copy material, type, proofread, edit and do all art and advertising work. Each of the four classes is represented on the staff when two freshmen students are chosen in September to work on the freshman class section. Year after year freshman students play large roles in putting out this publication.

Building is another popular word at Texas Woman's University whether you are talking about the six modern structures on campus this year, the building of the University, or the building of your life through the attainment of a higher education. The amazing aspect of all of this building is the sole construction material, which is you. You individually, and you as the Class of 1963, will be the sole foundation for future expansion and growth of the University and of your life.

Living in the dormitory is working and playing with people; it is making new friends and learning to live with others. Picnics, dances, and programs are some activities of the year. The dormitory means your home where people are waiting to help you in every way.

Student Finance Council

Sharon Murphy
President

Opportunity—this is what SFC stands for. Although these letters are the initials of the Student Finance Council, they actually mean something bigger for you.

Opportunity is provided for meeting other students through our Howdy Dinner, where, in a friendly atmosphere, you may "really get to know" the other girls, both old and new, at Texas Woman's University. Later in the year at the Friendship Dinner, old acquaintances are renewed and the fun of the year is recalled.

You are given the opportunity to further your education. A prime purpose of the Student Finance Council is to raise money for scholarships for worthy students. We are always happy to try to help girls who show a genuine desire to get a university education. Your participation and support of all SFC projects may help you as well as other girls to attain a university degree.

SFC also gives you an opportunity for fun. At Pub Breaks you will find the air electric with the anxiety and closeness of exams and Stunts. On Bermuda Day you may purchase your tag and join the whole campus in wearing Bermuda shorts into the living room, to classes, in the dining hall and to the Bermuda Day activities in the Union Building.

Yes, the Student Finance Council offers you all of these opportunities and many more. While taking advantage of all of these, you may have a true feeling of pride that you are also doing something very worthwhile. In this way SFC is proud to say that it offers you the opportunity to mature and accept the many responsibilities with which you will be confronted.

Those of us already here at the university realize the gigantic strides that SFC will be able to take with your help. We are already looking forward with a great deal of curiosity about you and the coming year. SFC's plans are many and varied, yet we always include in them—even head them—with the hope that as an all-campus organization ready to provide opportunities for you, we may have an opportunity to really get to know you.

assisted by a group of Residential Assistants. Sophomore Counselors living on each floor formulate the House Council which is the government of the dormitory. All are welcoming you.

Many things will be offered to you in your new home and what you receive from it is up to you. This can be one of the most enriching experiences of your life in learning and living with people.
