TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

Denton, Texas

Published by the Texas State College for Women, Denton, Texas. Issued semi-monthly. Entered Dec. 17, 1917, at the post office at Denton as second class matter under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN has a full program for freshman girls during the second semester, starting February 4, 1952. Work will start in all courses you want. And by continuing through the 12-week summer school, you can complete a year's work: You'll be a full-fledged sophomore next September.

AND, REMEMBER:

Whatever career you plan to enter, you can get better training at Texas State College for Women. . . . TSCW has more career courses especially planned for young women than any other fully-accredited college in the United States. All of this plus liberal arts training for that well-rounded personality. And at lower cost, too.

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN is entering another period of great development. And you can keep in step with its exceptional progress during the next four years.

SO BE HERE NEXT YEAR

for the celebration of its semi-centennial anniversary of educational leadership . . . for the development of an exceptional program of research in its College of Household Arts and Sciences . . . for its sound, interesting courses in all departments . . . and for the social, cultural and religious life for which TSCW is noted.

THE ACCOMPANYING PICTURE BULLETIN gives you many facts about the college. It points out that education of young women is the sole duty of TSCW—and that this mission is being carried out so as to merit the earnest consideration of every high school girl graduate.
