FALL THEATRE KICK-OFF BEGINS WITH "CHICAGO"

The musical vaudeville "Chicago," set in the Windy City of jazz and the 1920s, will open at TWU Oct. 20-23 in Redbud Theatre. Filled with comedy, gangsters -- and even murder -- the play kicks off the fall semester for TWU Theatre '94. Performances will be held each night at 8 p.m., plus a midnight show on Fri., Oct. 21, and a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. on Oct. 23.

Ticket prices are $10 for adults (non-students), $7 for students, senior citizens and TWU faculty and staff, and $5 for TWU students with valid identification. The theatre box office will open on Mon., Oct. 17; hours are Monday through Saturday, 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. Call ext. 2020 for reservations or information.

Directed by TWU performing arts faculty members Charles Harrill, Adrienne Fisk and Pamela O'Briant, "Chicago" transports audiences to a time when the streets of that city bustled with loud music, late nights, flamboyant youth, jazz, gangsters, whiskey, pranks and fun. The play spins the twisted and comic love story of Roxie Hart (Sascha Biesi of Arlington), who murders a faithless lover. Roxie and fellow murderess Velma Kelly (Jennifer Donlin of Trophy Club) are both headline hunters who are seeking to capitalize on pre-trial publicity, hoping that they will be acquitted and can launch stage careers. Told through a series of vaudeville routines, the play moves through the show of pre-trial "hype" and finally to the trial itself, during which Roxie is defended by the slickest lawyer in town, Billy Flynn (William Olds of Dallas).

Other cast members include Mark Addison of Benbrook as Mary Sunshine, Phillip Froehner of Teanekk, N.J., as Amos Hart, Cristie Geist of Arlington as Matron Mama Morton, A.J. Munn of Bridgeport as Go-to-Hell Kitty and Cynthia Ortego-Matthews as the Mistress of Ceremonies.

After closing at Redbud Theatre on Oct. 23, the entire production -- including a massive steel set and more than 500 separate costume pieces -- will travel to Collin County Community College in Plano for a 6 p.m. performance on Oct. 28 as TWU's entry for this year's Texas State Kennedy Center/American College Theatre Festival.

MBRS GRANT RENEWED

Dr. Robert Collier (Arts and Sciences) has been notified that the Minority Biomedical Research Support Program at TWU has been funded again for a total of $329,125 (which includes monies for indirect costs). The grant award, announced by Dr. Sondra Ferstl (research and grants), provides money for seven research projects conducted by six faculty members in biology. The federal grant, in its third year of a four-year period, is funded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, National Institute of General Medical Sciences. TWU's original four-year grant (fall 1992) totalled more than $1 million, including funds for indirect costs.

Biology faculty involved with the MBRS program include Dr. Lynda Uphouse, principal investigator, plus associate investigators Dr. Michael Droge, Dr. James Johnson, Dr. Sarah McIntire, Dr. Nathaniel Mills and Dr. Francine Lancaster. (Uphouse also is listed as an associate investigator; she is involved in two research projects for the MBRS program.)

TWU is the only university in the north Texas area that has received funding for the MBRS Program, which has been offered through the College of Arts and Sciences since 1989. Collier, dean of the college, believes that TWU's effort to educate both undergraduate and graduate minority students in biomedical research has brought federal funding to a variety of research projects over the years. "Because students work directly with faculty members on research, they receive first-hand experience in a laboratory setting," said Collier. "TWU's MBRS program has been able to secure continued federal funding because it meets a vital need and provides minority researchers in a field that will continue to grow in the years to come."

DENTAL HYGIENE STUDENTS RECEIVE NATIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS

Two dental hygiene majors from TWU have received minority scholarships for the 1994-95 academic year. Christine Foley, a senior, and Patricia Vargas-Walker, a junior, competed nationally for awards from two professional organizations.

Foley, who is a resident of Carrollton, was awarded a $1,250 scholarship from the American Dental Hygienists' Association Institute for Oral Health (the ADHA Institute Bright Smiles, Bright Futures Minority Scholarship). The money will be applied toward tuition, books and other student fees.

Vargas-Walker, who lives in Denton, received one of two $1,000 scholarships from the Hispanic Dental Association; funds were made possible through the association and the Procter and Gamble Company. She is one of two dental hygiene recipients of this scholarship -- the first time such awards were given to dental hygiene students.

"Both of our scholarship winners were selected from a large national pool of applicants," said Dr. Nancy Glick (dental hygiene). "We feel very proud that they have received these honors."

FACULTY GRANTS ANNOUNCED

Several faculty members have received state and private grants in communication sciences, chemistry, and reading and bilingual education, according to Dr. Sondra Ferstl (research and grants). Faculty grants and descriptions are listed below.

■ Dr. Allan Bird (communication sciences and disorders) was awarded a $51,487 state grant from the Texas Education Agency for his education service project, titled "Off-Campus Master's Degree Program in Speech/Language Pathology." The grant period began Aug. 1 and ends Oct. 31, 1994.

"These funds will be used to pay salaries for classroom instruction, supervisors and part-time secretarial help in TWU's off-campus master's degree in program in speech-language pathology," said Bird, who is an associate professor.

■ Dr. Carlton Wendel (chemistry and physics) and Dr. Ruth Caswell (reading and bilingual education) have received $21,261 from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board's Eisenhower Program for their instructional project, "Enhancing Elementary Teachers' Qualifications for Teaching Physical Science." The grant period for their state award began Sept. 1, 1994, and continues through Nov. 30, 1995.

"The goals of this project are to enhance elementary teachers' knowledge of content and instructional delivery in physical science and to improve their students' interest in and conceptual understanding of physical science," said Wendel, department chair. Sixty teachers will participate in 135 hours of physical science, divided into three classes of 45 hours each. The physical science content will be selected from three traditional science areas: physics, chemistry and geology. The course content for each class, however, will be integrated with other science disciplines.

Teachers will be taught with a conceptually-oriented approach applicable to their classroom instruction. Learning will be evaluated through performance assessments, written responses to "real-world" applications and an objective test. "The immediate outcome is teachers' in-depth knowledge of physical science that will enable them to design effective instruction," said Caswell, associate professor. "The long-term benefit will be a positive impact on student learning."

■ Dr. James Johnson (chemistry and physics) has received a private grant of $450 from DowElance Discovery Research for research related to biological testing. The grant period began in July 1994 and will continue for an undetermined period.

DEPARTMENTS NEED SUBJECTS FOR STUDIES

Two TWU departments are seeking subjects who would be interested in participating in separate studies that both involve women and osteoporosis. A description of each follows.

■ Dr. Charlotte Sanborn (kinesiology) is conducting a weight training study that will focus on adolescent girls, ages 15 to 17. Interested teens can earn from $40 to $140, based on the level of their participation. Each participant will receive a free bone density evaluation; fitness and nutrition evaluations and information; and an opportunity to be selected for an individualized weight training program. Interested persons should call Sanborn at ext. 2596.

■ The TWU department of dental hygiene is working on a research study that will investigate the relationship between skeletal health and periodontal disease in postmenopausal women. "Osteoporosis strikes half of those women over age 50 and most by age 75," said Dr. Nancy Glick (dental hygiene). "It is a health risk that women can no longer ignore." The department is seeking women between the ages of 50 and 73 who are at least three years postmenopausal. Each participant will receive bone density and periodontal evaluations at no cost. To volunteer, interested persons are asked to call the TWU department of dental hygiene at ext. 2870.

LIBRARY ACQUIRES NEW DATABASE

The TWU Blagg-Huey Library has acquired a new database for its reference section -- the Social Science Index Full Image -- which indexes topics from the following areas: anthropology, geography, community health, economics, gerontology, law and criminology, minority studies, police science, social work and urban studies. This new index is equivalent to Social Science Index CD-Rom and Social Science Index First Search.

"Social Science Index Full Image has one distinct advantage over other formats: 'full image' capability," explained Andy Tucker (library). "A 'full image' record is an exact image of an article as it appears in the original publication." After a search is performed and citations are retrieved, users can view the full image of the article. Unlike full text, a full image record may contain tables, graphs or pictures, according to Tucker, and system users can print out the full image of a record that they have researched. (Citations in this system refer to a specifically numbered disc that contains the cited article.)

The system includes two printers that serve different functions: a laser printer that uses copy cards only and prints the full image record; and an auxiliary printer that provides only citations and abstracts at no cost to the user. (Copy cards may be purchased at the circulation desk in the library, and users can determine the dollar amount that they would like placed on their card.)

"This database is a combination of two systems -- H.W. Wilson's Social Science Index and UMI's ProQuest Searchware. Searching this source is similar to searching on New York Times or Dissertation Abstracts International," said Tucker. "The system has one index disc, which contains citations of various journals entered since 1989. Approximately 100 image discs have full image records of more than 210 titles (of the 350 titles that are indexed)" The index disc is updated monthly, and more than 44,000 citations are added each year. The library also receives new image discs every month. For more information, call ext. 2665.

DRAMA PLANS LONDON TRIP

Would you like to spend your New Year's holiday in London? The TWU department of performing arts drama program would like to help...They will offer their 1994 London Theatre Tour from Dec. 26, 1994, through Jan. 2, 1995 -- a six-night/seven-day package at a cost of $1,099 per person.

The package price includes round trip airfare from Dallas/Fort Worth Airport to London Gatwick, plus hotel accommodations (with free continental breakfasts), transfers and portage, plus a guided tour of London, a seven-day "tube pass" (subway) for transportation needs within London, and two tickets to West End theatrical productions. A daytime trip to Stratford-on-Avon also is offered as part of the package. Travelers who visit all of these paid attractions will have free time for shopping and sightseeing as well.

A $100 deposit is required for hotel accommodations and theater tickets in October; the balance is due by Thanksgiving. For more information or to reserve space on the 1994 London Theatre Tour, call Charles Harrill (drama) at ext. 2519 or at (817) 321-6377.

FELLOWSHIP AWARD PROGRAMS ANNOUNCED

The National Research Council plans to award approximately 50 predoctoral fellowships and 20 dissertation fellowships in a nationwide competition sponsored by the Ford Foundation. Eligibility requirements for the 1995 Ford Foundation Predoctoral and Dissertation Fellowships for Minorities are listed below.

■ Applicants must be United States citizens or nationals who are members of one of the following ethnic minority groups: Native American Indian, Alaskan Native (Eskimo or Aleut), black/African American, Mexican Americans/Chicano, Native Pacific Islander (Micronesian or Polynesian) and Puerto Ricans.

■ Awards will be made for study in research-based doctoral programs (Ph.D. or Sc.D.) in the behavioral and social sciences, humanities, engineering, mathematics, physical sciences and life sciences, or for interdisciplinary programs comprising two or more eligible disciplines.

■ Predoctoral applicants must not have completed, by the beginning of the 1994 fall term, more than 30 semester hours, 45 quarter hours or the equivalent of graduate-level study in fields supported by this program.

■ Dissertation applicants must have completed all coursework, examinations, language requirements and all other departmental and institutional requirements for the Ph.D. or Sc.D. (except for the writing and defense of the dissertation) by Feb. 14, 1995.

■ Scores from the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) General Test are required for all predoctoral fellowship applicants.

Predocctoral awards include an annual stipend of $11,500 to the Fellow and an institutional allowance of $6,000 to the fellowship institution in lieu of tuition and fees for three years. Dissertation awards comprise an annual stipend of $18,000 to the Fellow for one year.

The deadline for application is Nov. 4, 1994. For information and materials, write to the Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave., Washington, D.C. 20418 or telephone (202) 334-2872.

HUMAN RELATIONS PROGRAM TO EXPLORE CURRICULUM

The TWU human relations committee will present its next program for the fall 1994 semester on Fri., Oct. 21. The presentation, titled "Transforming the Curriculum: Teaching Race and Gender," will feature Dr. Beverly Guy-Sheftall from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in SC 006-007. The session is designed for faculty and staff from all disciplines and interdisciplinary programs who wish to revise or develop courses and programs that incorporate the study of race, gender, class, ethnicity, sexual orientation and other aspects of chosen or attributed human identity.

"Dr. Guy-Sheftall will present a conceptual and theoretical framework for studying the multiple areas of human identities and culture," said Dr. Glenda Simmons (student life), who chairs the human relations committee. The guest speaker also will provide examples from a variety of disciplines, including examples of pedagogical techniques for teaching in classrooms with diverse student backgrounds, and she will share information about resources for curricular and institutional change.

Participants will have an opportunity to interact with one another and to join small-group sessions designed to analyze syllabi, to work through case studies of classroom situations and to assess personal, curricular and institutional readiness for change. Enrollment is limited; call ext. 3601 or 3615 as soon as possible to make reservations for the workshop.

Guy-Sheftall has received numerous fellowships and awards, including a National Kellogg Fellowship, a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for dissertations in women's studies and Spelman's Presidential Faculty Award for outstanding scholarship. She has served as a consultant to a number of colleges and universities, helping them develop programs that are sensitive to cultural diversity. The guest speaker serves on many national advisory boards for the study of race and gender. At Spelman College, she is presently founding director of the Women's Research and Resource Center and the Anna Julia Professor of English and Women's Studies.

NEWSBRIEFS

Reminder: TOSS will present its first Bosses Day luncheon on Thurs., Oct. 20, at noon in SC 207-208. More information about cost and the luncheon will be announced soon. For details, call Carol Stanley (Graduate School) at ext. 3415.

A free gospel concert will be presented at TWU on Thurs., Oct. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Margo Jones Performance Hall. Sponsored by TWU Anointed Voices for Christ and the office of intercultural services, the one-day program will feature Helen Baylor in concert, plus additional activities such as speakers, a fashion show and additional Christian music. The Baylor concert is $7 for TWU students with valid identification or other student ID; or $12 for general admission. The cost to attend other activities is free to TWU students with valid ID or $12.50 for the general public. For more information, call Alisa Sample (intercultural services) at ext. 3679.

Reminder: Soprano Lanelle Stevenson (performing arts-music) will present a lecture-recital titled "Music of the Native Peoples of the American Southwest" on Tues., Oct. 11, at 8 p.m. in Margo Jones Performance Hall. Her program is free and open to the public. Call ext. 2500.

A flu shot clinic is being offered each Wednesday in October for all faculty, staff and students at TWU Student Health Services. The clinic is scheduled Oct. 5, 12, 19 and 26 from 4 to 7 p.m. only; the cost is $10 per person. For details, call ext. 3826. (Plan to stay at the clinic at least 15 minutes after receiving an injection and please do not ask for a flu shot if you are ill.)

Reminder: Paintings by Laurie Weller (visual arts) and works by three members of the Dallas-based artists' group WAVE will be featured Oct. 1-28 in the TWU Fine Arts Galleries. An opening reception for the artists was held on Oct. 9 in the galleries, located in the TWU Visual Arts Building. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. For more information, call ext. 2500.

The kick-off session/meeting for the 1994 State Employee Charitable Campaign (SECC) will be held on Mon., Oct. 10, from 3 to 5 p.m., ACT 501. Office or departmental liaisons on campus are invited to attend the session and to find out more about this new combined workplace campaign that provides state employees with a convenient and effective way to make voluntary, tax-deductible contributions to a variety of local and state charities (including United Way) through payroll deduction, cash or check. Materials for the campaign will be distributed, and representatives from SECC will share additional information. For details, contact Mary Ann McDuff (academic affairs) at ext. 3310.

Reminder: The TWU Wellness Center asks all faculty, staff and students to participate through the month of October in a food drive to help the Denton Community Food Center. All donations will be collected at the front desk of the Wellness Center; shopping bags with a list of items for contribution can be picked up there. For details or to volunteer at the food center, call Julie Jordening ext. 2900 or Kathy Jankowski (Center for Research on Women's Health) at ext. 2591. Students may gain free admission to Wellness Center aerobics classes during October by bringing two 16-ounce cans of food to class.

Smile! It's October! -- That means it's National Dental Hygiene Month. The TWU Dental Hygiene Clinic and department of dental hygiene remind all faculty, staff and students to see your dental hygienist or visit the clinic. This year's theme is "Dental Hygienists: Your Partner in Health." For an appointment at the TWU dental hygiene clinic, call ext. 2888. The clinic, which is open to students and the general public, is open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The cost is $6 per semester for an appointment that includes cleaning, x-rays and sealants. (No appointment is necessary for a screening.)

Vision work: All TWU faculty, staff and students -- as well as members of the community -- are urged to attend several meetings in October that will update the city on its "Vision for Denton" project, which began last year. Six impact groups, comprising volunteers from across Denton, will present public updates this month at Denton High School -- Ryan Campus, located at 5101 E. McKinney; each meeting includes presentations at 7 and 8 p.m. TWU is one of seven major entities sponsoring the project.

Reminder: TWU, one of 21 national sites for training teacher leaders in the Reading Recovery program, will present its annual Reading Recovery conference this weekend. The event has grown over the years and now fills the Tarrant County Convention Center and Radisson Plaza in Fort Worth. More than 2,000 participants have registered for this year's conference, scheduled Oct. 14 and 15. The conference is designed for all persons interested in early literacy and intervention programs for children who find the path to literacy difficult. For details, call ext. 3408.

UPDATE ON TWU PEOPLE

Kristie Chauncey (mail room) and her husband, Jim, welcomed their newborn son, Andrew Robert, on Sept. 26. Andrew, who weighed 8 pounds, 1 ounce and was 21 1/2 inches at birth, continues his stay in Cook-Fort Worth Children's Hospital following numerous complications after delivery. Kristie and Jim are traveling daily to Fort Worth to be with him, and doctors say that Andrew will remain under close medical supervision in the hospital for at least another month.

Jim's employer, Safety Kleen, is establishing an account at Bank One in Denton to assist the family with additional, unplanned expenses. The account should be open some time during the week of Oct. 10. Interested TWU employees who would like to help Kristie and Jim can wait until the account has been opened, or they can leave donations with Gail Parr in the office of public information (ACT 2); Gail will forward monies collected on campus to the account at Bank One for the family. Additional activities may be planned to help the Chaunceys at a later date; details will be announced in Update when they are finalized.

Several faculty members from the TWU department of nutrition and food sciences attended and presented poster sessions recently during a conference held at the university titled "Healthy People 2000: Delivering the Promise." Those participants included Dr. Dorice Narins and Martha Rew on "Attitudes Regarding Breastfeeding Among African-American Women from a WIC Population"; and Dr. Carolyn Bednar on "Nutrition and the School Lunch Program."

Margaret Beard (Nursing) and doctoral student Carol Ann Mosley have written an article titled "Norplant: Nursing's Responsibility in Procreative Rights" that was published in the June 1994 issue of Nursing and Health Care. Beard's book review of Therapeutic Approaches to Care of the Mentally Ill was printed in that same edition.

Dr. Keith Swigger (Library and Information Studies) published an article titled "Electronic Document Delivery: Opportunities and Challenges for Academic Libraries" in the current issue of Arkansas Libraries (vol. 51, no. 4).

Dr. Joy McGregor (Library and Information Studies) has been elected secretary of the Educators of Library Media Specialists Section (ELMSS) of the American Association of School Librarians. Her term of office began in July.

Dr. Penny Hanstein (dance) has been named by her peers as the National Dance Association Scholar for 1995 because of her leadership and scholarship in dance. She will present the NDA Scholar Lecture at the national meeting of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance in Portland, Ore., in March 1995. Dr. Patricia Sullivan (academic affairs) told Hanstein, "Your leadership as an academician in dance has enabled TWU to sustain excellent programs in dance at all degree levels. This tribute brings well deserved recognition to you -- and through you -- to our academic programs in dance."

Carol Arnold (Nursing, Dallas-Parkland) recently traveled to LaCrosse, Wisc., to conduct a workshop on prenatal health education titled "Babies and You" for the National March of Dimes.

Sympathy is expressed to Madolyn Cutter (Nursing) and her family on the death of her mother, Louise Cutter, on Oct. 1. Services were held in Perryton Oct. 4.

Faculty and students from occupational therapy made presentations at the Mountain Central Conference sponsored by the Texas Occupational Therapy Association in Dallas Sept. 23-26. Faculty presenting were Drs. Janette Schkade, Jean Spencer, Gayle McNurlen and Virginia White; also Rebecca Palmer, Johnnie Aven, Laurita Fike, Reggie Campbell, Cathy Orr, Cynthia Reid, Harriett Davidson and Marsha Neville-Smith.

During two workshops, faculty members collaborated with TWU physical therapy faculty to present a workshop on enhancing motor learning. Represented were Kay Youens, Ann Medley, Lisa Protsman and Nancy Volk, all from physical therapy, along with Campbell, Orr and Neville-Smith. McNurlen and Dr. John D'Angelo (library science) co-presented a workshop on telecommunications.

Houston doctoral students presenting were Sara Brayman, Verna Eschenfelder, Eileen Garza, Teresa Norris, Teresa Pfeifer and Margarette Shelton. Denton MOT student Rosemary Slade and Dallas undergraduate student Nancy Hollier also presented. During the Texas Occupational Therapy Association's awards ceremony, Schkade was named academic educator of the year, and dean and professor emerita Dr. Grace Gilkeson was named to the Roster of Merit.

Sympathy is express to the family of James "Jim" Plumlee, retired physical plant employee, who passed away Oct. 1. Services were held in Lake Dallas Oct. 3.

Dr. Jim Johnson (chemistry) presented a paper at the 12th Conference on Physical Organic Chemistry, sponsored by the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry held at the University of Padua in Padua, Italy, Aug. 28 through Sept. 2. The paper was co-authored by Susan Dutson (BS, chemistry, August 1992), Debra Dolliver (BS, chemistry, August 1994) and Lei Lu (MS, chemistry, December 1992). The University of Padua is one of the oldest universities in the world and is the university that awarded the doctoral degree in 1678 to Elna Lucrezia Cornado Piscopa, the first woman in history to receive a doctorate.
