

Welcome to Learning with LibWizard: Anyone can do it

I'm Melissa Johnson, the Instructional Design Librarian at the Business Library, part of SMU Libraries, at the Cox School of Business at Southern Methodist University, and am here to share with you an instructional tool we frequently use in my library, LibWizard.

In today's world, and especially with everything that is going on, it's important to reach students where they are, whether that be in the library, the classroom, or at home. One way we've done this is by creating online instruction tutorials. It's worked well and has been popular for library orientations and introductions to various databases. So let's dive into LibWizard!

Within the online tutorial, there are 5 slides. The tutorial should take about 5 minutes to complete.

Note: Refreshing the page will require you to restart the tutorial. Some slides have required questions (*) that you must answer before you can progress to the next slide.

What will I learn?

- Recognize what LibWizard is
- Describe the advantages and disadvantages of LibWizard
- Determine if LibWizard works for you
